A discussion of two lgislative measures an amendment to the present compulsor education law and another to the child labor law, was a feature of the meeting The measures 'were presented by Mrs. Draper Smith of Omaha, chairman of the state industrial committee, and are the same endorsed by the State federation at Kearney to be presented to the next legislature. The amendment to the education law provides that children not regularly and lawfully employed shall attend school the entire school year instead of twenty weeks, and until 16 years of age instead that a child may be excused from school at 14 to enter regular and lawful occupa tion, provided he present to the employer a certificate from the superintendent of chools as to his age and attendance at school and that when he ceases to be en ployed he shall at once return his certifi cate to the superintendent, thus enabling the school authorities to prevent truancy The child labor provision requires that before beginning to work in any manufacturng or commercial establishment a child shall have completed the first five grades of the public schools; that no child under 16 years shall work after 7 o'clock in the vening nor longer than eight hours a day r forty-eight hours a week. District vice residents will be furnished copies of these easures and all clubs of the state will e informed regarding them.

The standing committees were only partially filled, but these appointments canno be confirmed until accepted. A resolution was passed asking that Superintendent Hayward of the Boys' Industrial school at Kearney be retained in his present posi-Dundee, resigned.

Considerable importance attaches to an action providing that the expenses of the superintendent or her substitute be paid to attend the district meetings.
