Eighteen-Year-Old Attendant at Primary Grade Not Liked by Authorities.

Think Age of Pupil Too Great to Be Allowed to Mingle with Little Tots.

The case of Kim Sa Hung, the Corean school, presented a report, in which he expected to become an international quesconcern. Young Hung's case was the subject of a prolonged discussion at the meating of the Board of Education last night and, while the young man will be permitted to continue his studies at least for the present, several members of the board do not take kindly to his being in the

A youth of 18 years of age should not, he argued, be permitted in a class of little children to whom, of a necessity, the teacher had to be more than a mere instructor. The presence of a youth of that age was embarrassing to such a teacher, he said. Young Hung, he said, was stated to be well educated in his own anguage and Mr. Tinley contended that he should be required to learn the English language before being admitted to the public schools, so that he could enter the grade suitable to his age and not be intruded among children just out of the Likely to Stay in School.

Member Hess said he, for one, would not ote to exclude the young man from the school, as he felt like encouraging him. President Westerdahl took the position that he public schools were intended to uplift he foreigner that came to this country to make his home, and thought young Hung should not be disturbed. Young Hung is not likely to be deterred from continuing his studies, as, on motion of Member Tin-

Enpreme Court Fustains Ouo Warranto Froceedings in Street Railway Case

AMANA SOCIETY HAS RIGHT TO EXIST

Court to Interfere.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) DES MOINES, Nov. 20 .- (Special.) -- Des Moines won the first heat in its suit to determine the status of the Des Moines Street Railway company and its franchise rights when the supreme court this morning decided in its favor on a demurrer from the district court. On every point the court decided in favor of the city and the Civic league, which started the suits. The action taken was a quo warranto proceedings to determine what the rights of the street car company are. The company demurred to the action and asserted a quo warranto proceeding was not regular and not legal in the case at leaue. The district court decided that the proceeding was proper and the supreme court affirmed it. the city all parties to the suit, Decide for Amana Society. The rights and privileges of the Amana ing and manufacturing, though organized and incorporated as a religious society was upheld by the supreme court today in the case appealed from Iowa county. The court holds that the society has not forfeited its rights under its charter and has a right to continue its existence. The case is one of the most important and interesting that has been before the court. On an application of Mrs. Martha Wilson to the district court of Iowa county, the county attorney was directed to bring a proceeding to whether or not the society had forfelted its rights as a religious corporation by engaging in farming, stock raising and manufacturing. The society won in the district court and this decision is affirmed by the supreme court on the ground that the state has no right to interfere with the religious beliefs of its subjects.

It is held that the society's belief is that all property shall be held in common and its object in engaging in various lines of commercial activity is merely for the support and sustenance of the members. With this the court refuses to interfere. The Amana society owns 26,225.6 acres of land in Iowa county, on which are seven villages, with 280 dwellings, with woolen mills and other factories and stock and implements, making a property value reaching into the millions. The action was brought to disband the society and distribute the property among the members.

Mysterious Hoffman Disappears. Dr. C. Hoffman, a graduate of Heidelberg ermany, but of whose identity and antedents little else is known, has disappeared, and more mystery enguits his name. Hoffman was forced to resign from the faculty of Drake university because it was thought to have been discovered that Hoffman was not his real name and he was playing a double personality. For some reason he chose to resign rather than reyeal his real name. Then it was discovered that he had been arrested on the streets of Des Moines some time before in a demented condition. He was taken before the insanity commission and there dumbfounded his examiners by displaying a nost thorough knowledge of Greek, Latin and medicine. After a few months in Mount Pleasant state hospital he recovered and was later employed at Drake university. Then he went to Still Osteopathy college, in this city, and later to the Kirksville school. Now he has disappeared from Kirksville, Mo. He has been thought to be of royal German blood and possibly to be the missing Prince Rudolph of Austria. Herriott for Commander.
