

The Slim Princess

By

GEORGE ADE

Driven abroad by the muck-rakers, Pike (of the auburn hair) climbs a wall to see some A-rabs perform and finds a real, sure-enough princess, a pippin, if you don't mind his saying so—the kind that “would block the traffic if she walked up Fifth Avenue.”

Alex. H. Pike—

of the Bessemer, Pennsylvania, Pike family (fortune made in steel common, but preferred that way) that “robbed the orphans, walked on the humble working-girl and gave the double-cross to the common people.”

The rest of it happens in America because the advertising pages prove that American breakfast foods add a pound a day to a SLIM PRINCESS.

LAWYERS WANT NEW LAWS

State Association Has Several Suggestions to Make to the Lawmakers.

EPIDEMIC OF INDUSTRIAL LEGISLATION

President Calkins Cannot See Reason for Attention for Change of Policies that Have Brought About Prosperity.

The seventh annual convention of the Nebraska Bar association, which convened at Edward Creighton institute at 2 p. m., has several proposed legislative enactments which promise to be thoroughly threshed out. Among these is the demand for a larger supreme court, increased pay to its members and action on some sort of child labor law that will guarantee mutual satisfaction to the employer and employe without ignoring the common interests of society and humanity.

Ralph W. Breckenridge, past president, was scheduled to introduce the president of the association, E. C. Calkins of Kearney, who makes his annual address on the subject, “The Sufficiency of the Common Law.”

“Just now we are threatened with an epidemic of industrial legislation,” said Mr. Calkins. “My, after a decade of unprecedented material prosperity, there should arise such opposition to the system under which it has flourished and such an unsatisfactory desire to overhaul the agencies which have augmented the earnings of both labor and capital to a degree never before known in our history. It would be an interesting study. This I cannot pursue further than to suggest that a man like his porcine prototype is most likely to overturn the trough when he has had his fill. Whatever the reason is it here, and the energies of coming legislatures will be absorbed in meeting this demand. It is to be hoped that whatever is done, and no matter how much the individual may be protected, that his right to protect himself by an appeal to the courts will not be destroyed or limited; and, on the contrary, that it will be strengthened and assured and the obstructions to its exercise which have arisen under novel industrial conditions may, so far as possible, be removed.”

Other Questions Coming Up. American law, as it stands, is somewhat before the association is that of increasing the required education of those beginning to read law to four years, the regular high school course. Hitherto a student was allowed to begin reading law after three years of preliminary education.

Not as large an attendance is expected this year as at previous meetings, because of the fact that many of the courts throughout the state are in session and the lawyers, consequently, busy. The meeting was held for this time because it was the only time at which F. W. Lehman of St. Louis, the principal speaker, could be secured. Mr. Lehman's address, “The Lawyer in America,” is expected to be a popular nature and the public is invited to hear it.

H. G. Moorhead, A. G. Elick and W. J. Coad are the local committee in charge of the banquet, which will be given Friday evening at the Omaha club.

Officers of the association will be elected Friday afternoon. The present officers are: E. C. Calkins, Kearney, president; Roscoe Pound, Lincoln, secretary; and A. G. Elick, Omaha, treasurer. The executive committee is composed of John S. Dryden of Kearney, Judge H. J. Kelliger of Auburn and F. A. Brogan of Omaha. One member of this committee is to be elected in place of Judge Kelliger, whose term expires.

ANNUAL ADDRESS OF PRESIDENT

E. C. Calkins Talks on Sufficiency of Common Law.

President E. C. Calkins of Kearney, on “The Sufficiency of the Common Law,” said in part: The law of individual development demands that the individual be furnished with the opportunity to develop his individual faculties. The slave, the convict, the adult under perpetual tutelage, never develops. The system of social development depends upon the character of the units of which it is composed. The social development equally demands individual liberty. For this the common law is the best. It is the only system of jurisprudence, representing the fundamental idea of giving to the citizen the opportunity to develop his individual faculties. It is the only system of law that is based upon the theory of his being championed by some governmental agency. True it is that the common law is modified, and that laws should be made, not by the nature of the conduct they enjoin, but by the character of the individual.

SECOND TIME IN FOUR YEARS

Dr. Torrey Seldom Gives Way During His Mission to Another for the Night.

In view of the fact that Rev. W. A. Jacoby is to speak to his old associates Friday evening, A. Sheldrick, who has followed Dr. Torrey through Europe and America as representative of the London and New York Christian Herald, says: “Dr. Torrey does not often relinquish his place for other preachers. This is entirely exceptional. I suppose it is to give Mr. Jacoby's old mission an opportunity to respond to the theory of his being championed by some governmental agency. True it is that the common law is modified, and that laws should be made, not by the nature of the conduct they enjoin, but by the character of the individual.”

“It is a matter of wonderment to many how Dr. Torrey keeps up his strength. He speaks with tremendous energy and I once heard him say in the Royal Albert hall, London, that he had been working continuously all around the world for three years, never missed a meeting and weighed six pounds heavier than he did when he left Chicago.”

“Well, I was once asked by one London editor as to how Dr. Torrey compared with D. L. Moody, during the doctor's great Edinburgh mission. I interviewed the secretary and his reply was that he considered he was even more effective than Mr. Moody.”

“Now the higher criticism has brought more indignity into the church and that Dr. Torrey, he did not think, had any equal in dealing with infidels. I consider he shines no where as much as when delivering his mid-day talks to men, which I see, according to announcement, he is going to give at Omaha. These are a real treat and it is almost impossible for a skeptic to listen to these without becoming a convert to the belief in the Bible. I have known people to become so full of enthusiasm they will procure many copies of these lectures, entitled, “The Bible and Christ,” and send to their skeptical friends to all parts of the world, believing that by reading them they will become converted.”

Next to these of importance, I plan his wonderful afternoon addresses on such subjects: “How to Pray,” “The Baptism of the Holy Spirit,” etc., and his greatest evangelistic sermon I consider to be that entitled “Heroes and Cowards,” which he usually gives on a Sunday evening during the mission. I have seen strong men, prize fighters, break down and weep like children under this sermon. One Sunday evening at Liverpool, after this sermon was preached, I witnessed 400 men go forward and take Christ.”

HUSTON GETS HIS LIBERTY

Produces Evidence to Show Accusers Wanted County Attorney in Act as Collection Agency.

Because of insufficient evidence the case against W. A. Huston of Tracy, Wis., who was arrested last week by Captain Haze on the charge of embezzling $10 from Hugo Melchior, 218 South Fourteenth street, was dismissed by Judge Crawford after a hearing, which lasted until late Wednesday afternoon. Huston was formerly employed by Melchior as a traveling salesman and was accused of failing to account for his receipts, but Melchior conditioned the offense and did not make a demand for the money until after Huston had left his employ. It appeared that the criminal charges were brought in an effort to make a collection agency of the county attorney's office.

LITERATURE FOR BOHEMIANS

Miss Charlotte Temple of Lincoln Consents John Rosicky as to Selection of Books.

Miss Charlotte Temple of Lincoln, secretary of the Nebraska Travelling Library commission, spent Thursday in Omaha conferring with John Rosicky of the National Printing company regarding the selection of Bohemian books that the commission contemplates putting into circulation among the Bohemians of Nebraska.

The extent of this proposed collection cannot be definitely estimated until after the commission receives its appropriation for the coming biennium, but it is the plan to have it include general Bohemian literature.

Mr. Rosicky has offered to assist in the selection and bring the books to this country. He estimates that there are fully 20,000 Bohemian residents in Nebraska, of whom fully 20,000 are natives of Bohemia.

Miss Temple also is interested in making up a traveling library on domestic science to consist of ten or twelve books. This is being done at the instance of Miss Rosa Bouton, at the head of the domestic science department of the University of Nebraska, who wishes the books circulated among the women's auxiliaries of the Farmers' Institute and other organizations of women seeking such works. To begin with, about six boxes of twelve books will be put in circulation, these to be added as the demand increases. Miss Temple is making the selections now. The commission has decided to ask an appropriation of $10,000 of the Legislature for the next two years' work instead of $5,000. The present appropriation is $5,000.

CONNELL LACKS EVIDENCE

Health Commissioner Thinks No Complaint Will Be Filed Against Christian Science Healer.

Health Commissioner Connell does not believe he has sufficient grounds on which to base a complaint against Mrs. Al-Fredie Christian Science healer, for failure to report a case of diphtheria at the home of E. J. Chisell, 30 South Twenty-fifth street. The probabilities are no complaint will be filed in the police court. Dr. Connell said the claim that Mrs. De Long did not know a case of diphtheria existed might preclude establishing a case of neglect to report the case to the health department.

Dr. Connell, however, believes the public interest in the case will serve to put other citizens on their guard and thus help the health commissioner to stamp out diphtheria.

It was reported Thursday morning that the Chisell child, which died Tuesday evening from diphtheria, attended a children's party a few days before he died.

PRIVATE WILL NOT PLEAD

Colored Warrior Accused of Theft Declines to Talk Without Seeing Commander.

Two overcoats were stolen Wednesday afternoon from the office of the Rademacher Plow company on South Tenth street, and Charles Williams, colored, of 1213 Davenport street, was arrested on the charge of being implicated in the theft. Williams was examined Thursday morning by Chief of Detectives Savage, who asked him if he wished to plead guilty to the charge. Williams replied, much to the amusement of Chief Savage: “I ain't gone to plead guilty or say nuffin' else 'till I see my commander.”

When asked in what battalion he was serving and who was his commander-in-chief, Williams said: “Bob Johnson is my commander and I don't go to see him first.”

Mr. Johnson is a colored resident of the Third ward, who sometimes has displayed considerable pernicious activity in politics.

NO CHARGE FOR EXTRA RIDE

Trip to and From Bellevue and Fort Crook for One Fare.

At noon Thursday the first cars of the Bellevue Interurban line were run over the tracks of the Omaha & Council Bluffs Street Railway company as far as O street in South Omaha. The company agrees to haul passengers to and from Fort Crook and Bellevue to O street without an extra charge. When this proposition was submitted to the city council of South Omaha that body took no action and the merchants of South Omaha became thoroughly aroused. A movement was put on foot for all the merchants to meet and march in a body to the meeting of the city council that that body might have an idea of the way the city stood on the question. The rumor, however, got out that the city council was going to grant the privilege asked to the Interurban company so the action of the merchants was found unnecessary.

All the sessions will be held in the forenoon to give the delegates an opportunity to visit the Torrey mission at the Auditorium in the afternoon and evening. The conference was held last year at Minneapolis and the year before at Chicago. Delegates from most of the western states are expected at the conference.

COAL TRUST TRIAL MONDAY

combine fails to secure postponement until first of New Year.

JUDGE SUTTON OVERRULES THE MOTION

F. Stout Presents Petition Asking Delay to Await R. S. Hall as Champion Counsel for Defense.

The trial of the criminal case against the members of the alleged coal trust will begin Monday morning before Judge Sutton in criminal court room No. 1. Thursday afternoon Judge Sutton overruled a motion filed by the coal dealers asking for a postponement of the trial and ordered them to be ready for trial Monday morning.

J. E. Stout appeared for the dealers and asked that the case be delayed until after the trial of the Richards and Comstock case in federal court, as R. S. Hall, one of the attorneys for the coal dealers, is engaged in that case. As that trial will last for at least six weeks it would throw the coal trust case over until after January 1. Forty-seven of the coal men declared in affidavits that only Mr. Hall of all the lawyers employed in the case could properly represent them and they asked the judge to put over until he is able to appear. Judge Sutton ruled that Mr. Hall's presence was not imperative and that the case would go on.

He gave the defendants until Friday morning to file a demurrer or if one is filed it will be argued Monday morning.

In ruling on the motion Judge Sutton referred to the fact the answer of the coal miners in the county who declares the use of the coal exchange was induced by County Attorney-elect English and for his reason he thought the cases should be tried this year and before Mr. English takes possession of the county attorney's office.

ALF CHANGES HIS VOCATION

Defies Cautions Cowboy to Break Arm and He Turns from Ranch to Mine.

G. V. Berken of Lost Springs, Wyo., is in Omaha for the first time in twenty-two years. He came in with several carloads of coal.

“I have quit the ranch business,” he said, “and it was a calf that forced me out of it. I was driving the calves of my herd into a corral by themselves and a calf I couldn't get in, so I thought I ought to see my medicine top. Yes, that's a ‘calf’ for ‘calf’ in tenderfoot language. I call them middle ropes. Well, the rope was slippery and the calf ran back after I had roped it and the result was that I broke my arm.”

“I hung around Cheyenne for a long time and got interested in a mine. Now we have struck a vein of the best coal in Wyoming. It measured four feet eight inches a short time ago and now it is five feet six inches. We haul it with traction engines six miles to the railroad, but we are going to build a streetcar soon. We are a wealthy town and enough timber to make ties and mine props for a dozen

INDIANS TRAVEL SLOWLY

They Take Their Time Going to Fort Meade Because Ponies Are Exhausted.

CLERKS PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Druggists Arrested for Selling Whisky Sunday Will Stand for Hearing.

Chief Donahue's whisky brigade, consisting of Officers Waters and Russell, was detained Wednesday afternoon to arrest the clerks in the drug stores who sold them whisky last Sunday in violation of the Sixteenth law. The city prosecutor had previously filed “John Doe” warrants in the case and the efforts of the officers resulted in Judge Crawford's being greeted Thursday morning by a galaxy of knights of the clerks and mortar.

In the meantime the Indians are being fed by the Army department as destitute citizens. The question of furnishing them with clothing suitable to the rigors of the prevailing cold season must necessarily be left with the Indian bureau. The army is not permitted to furnish them clothing or other quartermaster supplies.

General Greely was with the command escorting the Indians when last heard from, and is supervising the removal of the Indians to Fort Meade.

SECOND TRIAL OF M'GRATH

Man Charged with Holding Up Street Car Men Again Faces Jury.

For the second time James McGrath was placed on trial Thursday afternoon in criminal court on the charge of holding up and robbing a street car on Q street in South Omaha June 8. It is charged he and a companion boarded one of the cars near the terminus and when it was between Thirty-fifth and Thirty-sixth streets, held up the conductor and motorman and took from the former the McGrath was tried last summer, but the jury disagreed. He was one of the five men who came near escaping from the county jail about a month ago.
