CAR SHORTAGE NOT SERIOUS

Scarcity Exists, but Railroad Men Say They Are Able to Fill Most Orders.

Most of the railroads are short of cars at present, although grain has not started to move, but the situation is not serious and the railroads are able to fill most orders. Many complaints are heard from the scarcity of cars.

An interesting case came to notice from Harrison, Neb., one of the most western towns in the state, on the Northwestern road. A petition was prepared and sent to Governor Mickey, signed by the residents of Harrison, saying the railroad refused to furnish cars for coal for the town. The railroads took exception to the statements in the petition and after sifting the matter down, found there had been, for a long time, plenty of cars in that section of the country and further investigation from the records of the superintendent and the mine, which are on the line west, showed no order had been placed by the dealer for coal, the only order which was received being from a private individual and that was filled immediately. The dealer has been deceiving the whole town on the pretext that he could not get the cars.

Considerable coal has been found along the Northwestern lines in Wyoming and while no great mine has been developed which would pay to run railroad tracks to, coal has been taken out in abundance.

Many of the ranchers get all the coal they want by simply going into their fields and loading it into their wagons. Considerable coal is being hauled to the railroad by means of traction engines, which haul several large wagons filled with coal.

JUROR BODEN ABLE FOR DUTY

Sick Man Resumes His Place and Land Case Goes Forward.

QUESTION POSSIBLE IF HE FALLS AGAIN

Government Determined to Avoid Experience of War Case, Where Statutory Limit Bobbed Up as an Obstacle.

The condition of C. E. Boden of Sterling, a federal court juror, was much improved Friday morning and the trial of the cattle men gives promise of proceeding without interruption. There exists, however, a serious question as to the effect Juror Boden's illness might have in the event he might later prove unable to continue with the trial. Well informed lawyers on constitutional law hold that a trial cannot proceed in a federal court without twelve jurors, even though counsel might agree to proceed with eleven jurors.

The proceedings of Friday morning were of the usual formal character, with J. C. Pettyjohn still on the stand, and related exclusively to the identification of filing papers and the record of them on the Valentine land office books. The examination of Mr. Pettyjohn was concluded at noon and covered an inquiry into thirty-eight entries, with their accompanying papers. This makes thus far, including the nine books of the Valentine land office, 153 exhibits numbered from 1 to 153 consecutively, as merely a starter for the trial.

Mr. Pettyjohn will not be recalled by the government attorneys to identify filing papers that may have been overlooked by the government's attorneys. The cross-examination of Mr. Pettyjohn began at 1:45 p. m. Friday.

Double Dismissal Recalled.

The appearance of J. C. Pettyjohn, former register at the Valentine land office, recalls the fact that he and Receiver A. L. Towle were relieved from their positions because of the agitation of the land question in 1905 in the Valentine district. The office was closed upon the acceptance of the resignations of Pettyjohn and Towle and remained closed for three months, when Luke M. Bates was appointed registrar early in the present year. Practically all of the alleged illegal and fraudulent filings embraced in the thirty-eight entries thus far examined were made during the administration of Pettyjohn and Towle, and while these officers are not charged with complicity or collusion in any of the fraudulent transactions, the fact that the alleged fraudulent filings had been made under their administration of the office was deemed sufficient reason to demand their resignations.

T. L. Heath, United States commissioner, took the witness stand Friday afternoon, to be followed by A. L. Towle.

To Avoid War Case Trap.

It is the apparent purpose of the government to avoid the narrow margin of falling into a trap, as during the War case, to have all of these filings come within the statute of limitations, so that the question of statutory limit may not be included in the objections should the case go against the defendants. Regardless of the merits of the case pro or con, the fact is apparent that the government has its case well in hand, and has left nothing undone in the matter of technical and general evidence to support its contention.

On the other hand the defense, as has been shown, has been equally diligent in procuring relevant testimony and in the preparation of its case. Possibly no case has been brought to trial in the federal courts anywhere with more accurate preliminary preparation. It is a battle royal in fact and is attracting the attention of eminent lawyers not alone from Nebraska but throughout the entire cattle country. Scarcely any decision in land matters that is on record exists but what has been brought in reference and the fight will be point by point and the trial will go on record as a precedent for all future land trials.

COUNTY MUST PAY POWER

Obligated to Reimburse Ex-Sheriff for Strike Deputies, According to Late Decision.

The county will have to pay claims amounting to $1,133.75 covering the salary of deputy sheriffs hired by Sheriff Power in 1903 during the teamsters' strike, under opinions of both the city and the county attorneys.

The county originally authorized the hiring of the deputies, but after they had served two or three weeks decided to discharge them. The mayor and members of the fire and police board appeared before the county board and asked the deputies be retained. An agreement was made whereby the city would pay them an amount equal to the amount expended by the county up to that time, and after that the city and county would share the expense equally. The strike ended five or six days after this agreement was reached and the county contended under the agreement the city should pay the salaries for the period after the agreement was made. The city authorities objected to this, however, on the ground the mayor and members of the fire and police board had no authority to promise to pay the men and the agreement was not binding. The county attorney is of the same opinion, and the county board appears disposed to allow the claim.

BOY GETS A SCALP WOUND

Messenger is Hurt in Fight with Man Who is Arrested for Assault and Battery.

Frank H. Mayne, a man employed by the O. M. E. company, had a fight Thursday evening with a messenger boy, William Henry of 427 Sprague street. When Henry saw his ultimate success depended upon his securing a weapon he grasped a bicycle pump, but before he could bring it into play it was wrung from him by Mayne. Officer Flynn stopped hostilities, but not until Mayne had inflicted a severe scalp wound on Henry, who was attended by Police Surgeon Harris. Henry was sent to his home and Mayne was locked up on the charge of assault and battery.

FAST FOOT WORK SAVES HIM

Being Able to Run Fortifies Charley Slim Against Serious Injury.

Nimble footwork on the part of a popular colored citizen named "Charley Slim" saved him from serious injury Friday morning at the hands of William W. Carter, colored, of 59 North Twelfth street. "Colonel" Carter had blood in his eye and was going after his friend, Slim, in a manner made famous by Mr. Joe Gans. In attempting to hand Slim a right and left hook, Slim sidestepped and Carter's right fist connected with the side of a barrel instead of a portion of Slim's anatomy. The barrel luckily escaped injury, but hit back so hard at Carter that the knuckle of his right forefinger was split open about two inches. His injuries were dressed by Police Surgeon Pughley.

CASH ON BID NOT NECESSARY

Judge Troup Says Money May Be Paid Any Time Within Eighteen Months.

An important decision in the scavenger tax law litigation has been rendered by Judge Troup in the mandamus suit brought by C. E. Williamson to compel County Treasurer Fink to issue certain tax certificates to him. Mr. Williamson had raised the bid of the original bidder on the property as provided for under the law, but had not deposited the money to cover his bid. Under the practice of the county treasurer's office persons who filed increased bids for property within the eighteen months provided for under the statutes have been required to put up the money with the bid. Judge Troup, in overruling a demurrer to the petition, held it was not necessary to pay the money into the treasury at the time the bid was filed, but the bidder must come forward with it at the end of the eighteen months or forfeit his rights under the bid.
