BURGLAR HAS BUSY NIGHT

"Tallow Candle" Artist Shows Fondness for South Seventh Street.

JULIUS UNGAR WAKENED BY VISITOR

Victim Told to Remain Quiet, as Money Was All That He Wanted, Securing Which He Began Himself Out.

The "tallow candle" burglar, as he has come to be known, was abroad again Thursday night and three residences on South Seventh street, in the same neighborhood where he worked a few nights ago, were visited by him.

Julius Ungar, who rooms at the Rosenfeld residence, 222 South Seventh street, awoke to find a man going through the pockets of his clothes. The fellow was working by the light of a piece of a candle which he had placed on the bureau. When the burglar noticed Ungar was awake, he said: "I'm still there and don't make any noise. I don't want anything but your money." The fellow then picked up his candle and decamped with Mr. Ungar's trousers, from which he secured about $5 in silver.

From the Rosenfeld residence the burglar went to the home of Captain J. J. Brown at 230 South Seventh street, where the rooms on the lower floor were ransacked in the fellow's evident search for money only. Spots of candle grease were found on the carpets in all of the rooms. As far as has been ascertained the burglar secured nothing of value at the Brown residence.

The lone burglar with his tallow candle also visited the residence of County Attorney J. J. Hess at 241 South Seventh street, where he ransacked every drawer and cupboard in the downstairs rooms. The telltale marks of candle grease were plentifully in evidence. Here the burglar secured about $6 from a child's bank and some silver from Mrs. Hess's pocketbook.

On the floor of the parlor in the Hess residence a pocketbook, supposed to have been dropped by the burglar, was found yesterday morning. It is not known to whom it belongs. At each of the three houses visited Thursday night the burglar entered by forcing one of the downstairs windows.

DIKE ENCLOSES ON THE PARK

President Graham Makes Discovery While Looking Over Land.

President Graham of the Board of Park Commissioners is somewhat exercised over the discovery that a portion of the dike recently constructed in the northwestern part of the city to protect adjacent property from overflow of Big Lake and to provide a thoroughfare for people entering the city from that direction, has been constructed on land which is said to be within the confines of Lakeview park, by which name the property surrounding Big Lake and owned by the city is known.

The dike, it is claimed, obstructs the only entrance to Lakeview park at that point. President Graham and the other two members of the park board visited the place yesterday and while they found that the dike had encroached somewhat on the park property, they admitted not much damage had been done. President Graham, however, takes exception to any portion of the park land being used for the dike, as he figures that the dike, although constructed in part by the city, is for the main purpose of protecting the property of a private individual or company.

At the suggestion of President Graham, the park board is considering the advisability of fencing in Lakeview park. A special meeting of the park board to consider this matter will be held either Monday or Tuesday next.

A city owned 800 of its portion of the county road fund levied within the municipal limits on the dike and roadway, the work being done under the supervision of Colonel W. F. Baker, member of the County Board of Supervisors. The balance of the cost of the work was borne by the owners of the property benefited. The dike was constructed along the traveled road from the Illinois Central dump to Twenty-second street. That it had encroached on the park property was not known until President Graham made the discovery.

"Preparedness" is the word that comes from the holiday handkerchief section. You'll do well to buy now. Many rare values in ladies' and children's handkerchiefs are being offered at 10c, 15c, 20c, 25c and 50c. H.K.T. section, main floor. The John Beno Company.

We will have a nice stock of fancy turkey, ducks, geese, chickens, oysters, game and fish of all kinds for Thanksgiving. Central Grocery and Meat Market.
