NO HOPE FOR MORE LIGHT

Councilmen Make a Trip of Inspection to Omaha Electric Plant.

COMPANY EXPLAINS PRESENT TROUBLE

Suggestion That Lights Be Kept On All Night If Out in Evening Meets With Opposition from Police and Others.

The city council spent an hour last night in special session discussing the street lighting situation and wound up by arriving at the conclusion that it could do nothing but wait the completion of repairs at the Omaha plant.

Councilmen Younkerman and Maloney for the fire and light committee reported that they had visited the electric light plant in Omaha yesterday morning in company with City Electrician Bradley, and as a result of their investigations they felt certain that the lighting company was doing all it could under the circumstances to furnish this city with lights. They stated that conditions would be materially improved in about three days, but that it would be two weeks at least before the plant would be in full running order again. Manager English of the Citizens' Gas and Electric company explained the situation across the river and assured the councilmen that his company was giving the best service possible under the circumstances. The reason the street lights were not turned on earlier in the night, he explained, was due to the fact that the commercial lighting absorbed so much of the present lighting power.

Councilman Wallace suggested that the company "cut out" its commercial lighting while the present conditions lasted and give the city more street lights. This, Manager English declared, was hardly practicable at this season of the year, as the stores were kept open evenings on account of the Christmas trade. The committee is to report back at the meeting of the city council next Monday night. That Council Fleming's plan, if carried out, will meet with much objection is certain, as the general opinion seems to be that a half loaf is better than no bread at all, and that street lights for part of the night would be far better than no lights at all.

Need any window shades to keep the bright sunlight out when the snow comes? Better see us. We've got the best at prices too reasonable to mention. Stockert Carpet company.

Retainers to Attend Convention.
At the regular meeting of the Council Bluffs Retail Grocers' and Butchers' association Thursday night, it was decided to attend the annual meeting of the state association in Des Moines, February 18, 19 and 20 in a body. The association will charter a special car for the trip and it is possible that if arrangements can be made with delegations from other cities, a special train may be chartered.

L. Green and C. Krieger were appointed delegates to the state meeting, and John T. Mulqueen was appointed delegate to the national convention to be held in Dallas, Tex., in January.

P. P. Frisch, the famous German painter, will be at W. S. Hewetson's art store Monday, December 17, and will give an art exhibition of his work at 8 o'clock. BURGER AWARDED FIVE THOUSAND Adair Man Wins Damage Suit Against Street Railway.

The district court jury in the personal injury damage suit of John Burger of Adair, Ia., against the Omaha & Council Bluffs Street Railway company yesterday brought in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $5,000. Burger claimed to have been injured while boarding a car at the shooting park station, just east of the bridge.

Before his election to the office of city solicitor, Attorney C. P. Kimball prosecuted a suit for Councilman Knudsen against the city and secured a verdict in the sum of $700 for the flooding of the basement of his grocery store on South Main street, due to a defective fire hydrant. Now he is called upon to defend the city in an exactly similar suit in which Julius Katselman is plaintiff. Katselman asks $4,000 damages for the flooding of his basement on South Main street, and the trial was commenced in district court yesterday.

Harry V. Jeffers, a farmer near Honey Creek, filed suit yesterday against the Chicago & Northwestern railroad in which he asks damages in the amount of $1,100 for the alleged flooding of his land and destruction of crops by reason of an obstruction which the railroad is alleged to have placed across the Boyer river and channel of Honey Creek lake. This obstruction, it is alleged, formed a dam and caused the water to overflow onto the plaintiff's land. Mrs. Elizabeth Flower has brought suit against the Continental Casualty company of Chicago to recover $1,000, the amount of an accident insurance policy carried by her son, Robert C. Flower, who was killed by a Great Western train in this city on August 10 last.

Elizabeth A. Dwier began suit for divorce from Thornton C. Dwier, to whom she was married November 21, 1896. She charges her husband with making an April fool of her by deserting her on April 1 of the following year.

Judge Green yesterday overruled the motion of the defense for the removal to the United States court of the suit of C. A. Flower, administrator of the estate of his deceased son, Robert Flower, against the Great Western railroad.

His reason for bringing the injunction suits, Mr. Vlen stated, was because the proprietors of the two saloons in question continued to sell a certain man liquor after he had warned them not to do so. He said that application would be made for both temporary and permanent injunctions.

Now being organized in Council Bluffs will have its permanent home here, its officers and principal employees will have their permanent homes here, but of still greater benefit to Council Bluffs is the unlimited amount of most desirable advertising given this beautiful and progressive city, simply because it is the Home Office of an Old Line Life Insurance Company.

As conclusive proof of this, did anyone ever speak of a company without, in the same breath, calling the name of the city so fortunate as to be that company's Home Office?

The tangible co-operation of all boosters is earnestly requested.
