

WHY DID GOD BECOME MAN?

Question Can Only Be Answered by Considering Life of Sin.

RESPONSIBILITY OF MAN TO CHRIST

No Person Can Forfeit Good Name for Not Allying Himself with Church of God.

"The Other Side of Sin" was the subject of Rev. Lucia O. Baird's discourse at St. Mary's Avenue Congregational church Sunday morning.

"Why did God become man? is a question that has been the perplexity of religions since the beginning of the Christian era. That why," said Rev. Mr. Baird, "can only be answered by the consideration of the other side of sin. In the law of commerce, every man is for himself and only the fittest survives. We think sin is an individual matter and we take a religious delight in our selfishness. But there is another side to sin. There is a community of sin, broad-reaching in its effect. This is illustrated in the careless machinist who carelessly permits the breaking of a piece of delicate machinery that destroys the effectiveness of the whole, throwing people out of employment and causing endless suffering and misery.

"The individual responsible for the breaking of the machinery may suffer a personal injury, but the effect of his neglect and carelessness is upon the whole community dependent upon the perfect working of that machinery. Where law is defied it is not the man who breaks the law that suffers alone, but every one is injured. Amendment is not repair. Who shall do the repairing of the great universe? It is here that we see the mighty philosophy of Jesus Christ. Man cannot suffer the consequences of his sin alone, neither can man gather up the fragments of his past. This axiom is shown in the heredity of sin as illustrated in a noted woman criminal of three or four generations ago, whose descendants are criminals to the number of over 1,000 persons, now in brothels or prisons. The most delicate machinery that admit her first sin is as directly responsible for the crimes of her 1,000 descendants as she herself. We cannot tell where our sin may lead. Men cannot justify themselves by congratulation of their own self-righteousness outside the church, because there may be had men in the church. Your faces are turned toward the table of the Lord, but you are not partakers thereof. Go into the churches and then come out and help fight the battles of God. No man can furnish a good excuse for not becoming a member of the Church of Jesus Christ. We need your influence that it may influence others to come into the church. The other side of sin is your responsibility to the church, Confess Jesus Christ. While I may amend my life, I cannot atone for the past."

TORREY MISSION MARKED SUCCESS

Meetings Outspoken Spirit of God in Men's Hearts, Says Dr. Burdick.

Rev. Newman Hall Burdick, in his sermon at the Second Presbyterian church yesterday morning, spoke of the Torrey mission and how Christians should meet the results of the meetings. Dr. Burdick said that Christians of Omaha now have grave responsibilities in the taking up of the work started by Dr. Torrey. "One of the important results of the mission was to reveal a spiritual condition in Omaha worse than I even surmised," said the minister. Referring more at length to the spiritual condition of Omaha, Dr. Burdick said: "The mission revealed to me a condition of affairs worse than I believed existed. Some of the churches held entertainments and other social and business events during the mission, and these parties were given even by members and officers of churches during the Torrey meetings. But we have received a spiritual awakening and much seed has been sown to fruitfulness in the days to come. There are hundreds who attended the meetings and with whom the spirit is now working. "I have often been asked if the mission was a success. The mission has been a great success. If only one sinner had been brought to repentance the meetings would have been successful in the sight of the Lord. But I am glad to say many accepted salvation and many more have been strengthened. There has been a quick-

THREE BRITISH LAWMAKERS

Members of Parliament May Meet in Omaha This Week.

SIR HORACE PLUNKETT IS ABOUT DUE

T. M. Kettle and Richard Hazleton, Two Home Rule Champions, Come in Interest of Irish League.

It is probable that three members of the Parliament of Great Britain will be in Omaha before the week is out, one is already here.

T. M. Kettle, one of the youngest Irish members of the English Parliament, who represents the constituency of East London, arrived in Omaha early Sunday morning from St. Joseph and is staying for a few days at the Paxton hotel.

Sir Horace Plunkett, one of the English members, is expected here in a few days. Mr. Kettle has been in this country since October 15, when he came at the invitation of the United Irish league, and attended the convention of that order held at Philadelphia. Sir Horace is coming to Omaha to look after local real estate interests.

In company with Richard Hazleton, a fellow member of the Parliament from North Galway, Ireland, Mr. Kettle is making a tour of the United States in an effort to solicit the support, financial and moral, of the Irish-Americans in the fight which is to be made at the next session of Parliament—which begins in February or March—in an effort to obtain home rule for his country and the abolition of the bureaucratic form of government.

Barry Skina Through. Referring to the conditions against which the Irish protest and on which the most strenuous fight is to be made, Mr. Kettle said:

"I was elected last July from the district of East Tipperary by a majority of 15 votes out of a poll of 6,000 votes. Six of the voters were by men who had emigrated to this country and who returned to Ireland for the express purpose of assisting in my election. The crying need of the Irish people, which has been apparent for many years, is the present form of government of Ireland by forty-five boards, none of the members of which are elected, but are appointed from Westminster, and are neither responsive to the people nor public opinion. To abolish these boards is the aim of the liberal government, of which party I am a member.

"The annual taxation of Ireland has increased by $3,750,000 during the last twenty years, while the population has decreased, by emigration, by over 750,000.

"What we want is home rule and by that we mean the principle of nationality and the principle of democracy. Mr. Hazleton and I are here at the invitation of the Irish league in an effort to collect sympathy and money to aid in the fight to be made for these principles, so dear to the Irish people.

Liberals and Laborers Friendly. "The present liberal government is exceedingly friendly and the new labor government is still more friendly. There always remains the House of Lords to be reckoned and fought with. And money is the backbone of politics.

"We are here on the invitation of Irish-Americans themselves to ask them to join the nationalist party under John Redmond for their financial and moral support that we will be able to fight to a finish.

"Most American people have little idea of the difficulties that confront a man who is ambitious to go to Parliament. The members of Parliament receive no salary and even have to pay their own traveling expenses and also postage on official correspondence. Every cent of the cost of the campaign for election is paid by the candidates, even to the salaries of the judges and clerks, in fact, even the cost of the lead pencil with which the voter marks his ballot. I had to pay $750 to the sheriff before my name could even be entered upon the ballot as a candidate and Mr. Hazleton had to pay $1,750 in his district for the same service."

Mr. Kettle and Mr. Hazleton went together from Philadelphia to St. Louis, where a mass meeting of Irish-Americans was held December 10. Mr. Kettle then came to Omaha, on his way to Seattle, Montana and the northwest. Arrangements are being made for a large meeting in Omaha about January 15 in the interest of the cause which Mr. Kettle represents. He is going to Lincoln in a few days to make plans for a meeting at that place, and expects to call on W. J. Bryan, whom he met when the latter was abroad. Mr. Kettle said that Mr. Bryan had always expressed himself as being interested in and friendly toward the movement for Irish home rule.

The ladies of Trinity M. E. church will give their annual chicken pie dinner and bazaar at the church, 121 and Binney Sts., Tuesday, December 18. The bazaar will be open afternoon and evening. Dinner served at 5 p. m.

Impressed with Omaha. Joseph S. Jaffa, a prominent attorney of Denver and resident of the Colorado State School of Mines, spent a few hours with friends in Omaha Sunday. He left for his home Sunday evening, and being shown around the city expressed himself as greatly impressed with the wonderful growth of Omaha, as he had not been here for several years. Mr. Jaffa was at Columbia university during the period when Victor Rosewater attended that college. During his stay in Omaha Mr. Jaffa was entertained by Nathan J. Smith, who met Mr. Jaffa at Trinidad, Colo., many years ago.

Vandeville of the Orpheum.

Papinta is the bright spot at the Orpheum this week in a literal as well as a figurative sense. She is back with her illuminated dances, and affords a decided novelty. She has added an array of mirrors, so arranged as to multiply many times the effect of her fire and other dances, and her beautiful colored pictures are made all the more striking as the result. After Papinta the Bard brothers furnish the real sensation, their acrobatic stunts standing alone, it is all but impossible to describe the feats these men accomplish, but they are unique and thrilling, and are done so easily that the great difficulty of each is just sight of in admiration for the strength and agility of the gymnasts. Emilie Rose is not only a "dainty lady athlete," as the bill has it, but she is a very pretty girl as well, and does enough in the way of acrobatic effort to make a reasonable circus all by herself. Emmet Devoe and his company have a laughable farce, and were most enthusiastically received yesterday. James H. Cullen has some new songs and parodies and scored his customary hit. Cullen has been coming to Omaha for so many seasons that he is almost a habit now. Violet Dale is a mimic sure enough. She gave us Fay Fawcett yesterday in a most mannerly, face, everything save her avoirdupois. It was surely a clever imitation, though she gave us Yvette Guilbert and Vesta Victoria, and some songs of her own, and received the applause of the delighted crowd in return. Fred Wren and his Morden sisters contribute a song and dance sketch. The pictures in the kinodromes are very good.

"Camille" at the Burwood.

As "Camille" Miss Lorna Elliott is appearing in her final week's engagement with the Woodward Stock company at the Burwood, and the demonstration she evoked at last night's performance must have been gratifying as an assurance of the friends she has made since coming to Omaha. She was accorded a very flattering reception at each appearance on the stage. In this character of the gay coquette who finds too late she has a heavy Miss Elliott best. Her masterly interpretation of Camille will undoubtedly still further strengthen her in the admiration of Burwood patrons. Mr. Morrison's also cast in a strong part as Armand Duval, Camille's lover, and he gives an excellent interpretation of that young lover. Robert Haylock is seen in his first appearance with the company as the Count de Vauxville, the villain of the plot. The cast gives fairly strong parts to the other members of the company. Grant Simpson as Gaston Rieux; John Todd as Gustave; Mary Hill as Nichette; Marie Hudson as Madame Prudence and Fern Maycliffe as Orlupe do well their work of depicting the gay, thoughtless life of Paris in which the scenes are thrown. Inquire Martin and John Davies also have minor places. In the play Dumas has drawn sharp contrasts between the outward frivolous
