The Bee personally for the uniform faith need it has shown in its reports of this trial. I thank The Bee most sincerely for it."

F. M. Walcott: "I feel very grateful to The Bee and in the press of Omaha for the kind way in which I have been treated in this trial. I appreciate it most deeply and thank the press most sincerely."

W. G. Comstock: "The newspapers have treated us very fairly and I am very grateful for their kindness."
Bartlett Richards and C. C. Jameson both joined in this expression of fair treatment by the newspapers.

HISTORY OF CASE JUST CLOSED

Events Which Lead to Prosecution and Progress of the Trial.
The case just closed is one of the most notable land cases yet tried in the United States, and involves questions not occurring in any of the land cases tried elsewhere in the country. The prominence of the two principal defendants, Bartlett Richards and Will G. Comstock, was accentuated by the fact that a year ago they entered a plea of guilty to illegally fencing public lands and were sentenced to a fine of $500 each and to be imprisoned in the custody of the United States marshal for six hours. The two defendants were turned over to the custody of their attorney, R. S. Hall, as a special deputy, by United States Marshal T. L. Mathews, and were in constructive custody at the Omaha club for the six hours.
Marshal Mathews was shortly thereafter deprived of his office and the official displeasure went so far as to result in the official decapitation of United States District Attorney L. L. Baxter on the ground that he did not prosecute the case against Richards and Comstock with sufficient vigor.

With the disposition of this first case against Richards and Comstock, a continuation of the land fencing cases was undertaken, which had really begun about fifteen months ago, with a special reference to the Nebraska Land and Feeding company's holdings in Cherry and Sheridan counties, approximating 40,000 acres of land. A group of special agents of the land office were sent to investigate the matter, under the direction of Lucien C. Wheeler of the secret service department, assisted at the outset by Robert Hobbs and T. R. McManus. This force was subsequently increased to about fifteen men of the secret service department. The result was that while seeking to find the limits of the Spaulditch ranch enclosure a large number of fraudulent land entries were discovered.
About 600 witnesses were examined, including residents of Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, Wyoming, Colorado, California, Nebraska and New York. About this time Special Agents Nixon, Axline and Chambers of the land department were brought into the investigation, with the result that it was determined to proceed against the Nebraska Land and Feeding company and its agents for conspiracy to defraud the government but of vast tracts of lands and for subornation of perjury. The local end of the investigation was conducted by Special Officers L. C. Wheeler, C. R. McManus, Robert Hobbs and R. L. Jervis.
So apparent had it become to the government that a big conspiracy had been in operation to defraud the government of title, use and possession of public lands in this section of the country, that Samuel R. Rush, former assistant United States district attorney, was appointed special district attorney to prosecute these cases. He has been ably assisted all through the recent trials by District Attorney Goss. When appointed special attorney Mr. Rush had already succeeded in convicting John and Herman Krause of illegally fencing 30,000 or more acres of land in Sheridan county, as well as of the intimidation of settlers who presumed to move into their enclosures. Then followed the conviction of Rev. George G. Ware, president of the U. S. L. ranch in Hooker and Thomas counties, with Frank Lambert and Harry Welsh, who were tried and convicted on a charge similar to that of which Richards, Comstock, Jameson and Triplett have just been found guilty. The Krauses were sentenced to pay a fine of $1,000 and to be confined in the Douglas county jail for six months. Rev. G. G. Ware was sentenced to pay a fine of $1,000 and to be confined in the Douglas county jail for one year.

Both of these cases were appealed to the United States circuit court of appeals. The Krause brothers have been denied their appeal, and must shortly undergo their sentence. Ware's case was set for hearing at St. Louis before the court of appeals for the present month, but owing to Mr. Rush's engagement in the trial just closed, the hearing on the motion will not be heard until February. Welsh, who was indicted with Ware and Lambert, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment in the Douglas county jail, and finished his sentence last July. Frank Lambert, who pleaded guilty to the charge, has not yet been sentenced, but is yet out on $5,000 bail and is at present living in Portland, Ore.

The next of the land trials set for hearing is that against the Morisset brothers, who are charged with offenses similar to that in the Bartlett Richards and W. G. Comstock cases. This case may come to trial early in January.

The cases against the second group of defendants included in the Richards and Comstock indictment, Fred Hoyt, Thomas M. Huntington, James Baird and Ami B. Todd, may not be tried before the May term of the federal courts.

There are several other land cases that remain to be tried, but it is hardly probable they will be reached before the May term.

SHOSHONE BILL IS PASSED

House Extends Time for Beginning of Residence to May 15, 1907.

FORAKER ON CASE OF NEGRO TROOPS

Ohio Senator Says President Acted Without Authority—Brief Reply to Argument by Senator Lodge.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—After being in session three-quarters of an hour today, the house adjourned until January 2, 1907. Empty desks greeted the speaker when the house convened and the desire to get away from the holidays was superior to the inclination for business.
Representative Mondell (Wyo.) succeeded in passing his bill extending the time in which entrymen may make final settlement on the Shoshone Indian reservation.

Then Representative Payne (N. Y.) called up his resolution relating to the distribution of the president's annual message to the several committees, in accordance with a custom that has existed since the foundation of the government. The house passed the resolution and adjourned for the Christmas holidays at 12:45 p. m. A hundred members waited to extend the season's greetings to Speaker Cannon.

The house today passed the bill extending the time to May 15, 1907, in which entrymen may make final residence on the Shoshone reservation, Wyoming.

While the bill was under consideration Mr. Mann of Illinois objected to the practice of congress, or rather the Interior department, he said, opening Indian reservations under the lottery system. It seemed to him that the men who drew the prizes were the ones who were to be benefited by the law. He seriously doubted whether the entrymen on these lands contemplated their retention, but believed that they hoped rather to make money out of their holdings, while the real settlers were placed upon the lands. He was of the opinion that he would object to the extension of time on any reservation opening, insisting that the framers of a measure would have to take climatic considerations into question.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE SENATE

Mr. Foraker Makes Speech on Discharge of Negro Troops.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Senator Foraker opened the session of the senate in its last session before the holiday recess today in an extended criticism on the basis of President Roosevelt's action in discharging the negro troops of the Twenty-fifth infantry on account of the Brownsville case. He was replied to briefly by Senator Lodge, while Senator Scott sustained the demand of the Ohio senator for a full investigation of the matter by the senate military committee. A resolution directing such an investigation is before the senate for action at its next meeting.

Immediately after the senate convened today Senator Foraker's resolution looking to an investigation by the senate of the president's discharge of the negro colored companies of the Twenty-fifth infantry was taken up and Senator Foraker addressed the senate in its support. He began with the broad declaration that the "president misconceived his constitutional power in discharging the troops and he also misconceived the testimony on which his action was based."

Mr. Foraker said the president's constitutional power was simply to command the army and navy as commander-in-chief, but to congress the constitution gave power to make rules and regulations for the government.

The regulations prescribed that no man could be summarily discharged without a right to be tried and the articles of war, he argued, prescribed that no man should be discharged until he had been tried. He said that all punishments should be in accordance with the directions of courts-martial. He contended after reading at length from the articles of war, it was inconceivable that the president should be discharged from his office without being tried. He said that the president had acted in a manner that was unconstitutional and that he was a traitor to his country. He said that the president had acted in a manner that was unconstitutional and that he was a traitor to his country.

Mr. Foraker cited cases in the work of General Davis, on military law, where refusal to give testimony was an offense, under the articles of war, and was punishable by court-martial. Taking up the individual records of the soldiers, Mr. Foraker said the first man on the list was a sergeant, who had served twenty-six years. Each time his enlistment had expired his record was good and was characterized as "excellent," "good soldier," "character excellent," etc.

PROUTY ON NEW LAW

is that forty-eight hours is the limit of time which should be allowed for the unloading of cars.
E. W. McKenna, vice president of the Chicago, St. Paul & Milwaukee road, corroborated the statements of Mr. Hiddle concerning the use of cars for storage purposes, but declared it is a difficult problem, as many shippers preferred to pay demurrage charges rather than unload the cars promptly.

The testimony was handled on record-breaking time because of an order received from President Roosevelt to "rush that evidence in the coal famine case in the northwest." So much celerity was injected into the proceedings that the time for the transcription of the evidence was, it is claimed, reduced by one-half.

Stickney Names Shippers.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—President A. B. Stickney of the Chicago Great Western railway has submitted some interesting facts to the Interstate Commerce commission bearing on the distance traveled and the time consumed in hauling and in loading and unloading freight cars, which he regards of importance in connection with any legislation which is considered regarding the car shortage question. In arriving at his conclusion Mr. Stickney bases his estimates on the entire freight car capacity of the country.

They are as follows:
The average distance each loaded freight car is hauled is 250 miles.
The average time consumed by the railroads in hauling each loaded freight car is 1,700,000 cars without cost to the railroads and without increasing their capitalization, while to purchase that number of

Mr. Stickney then makes the following comment:
If the law or any other power can compel shippers to load and unload such average cars in four and six days it would be equivalent to doubling instantaneously the effectiveness of the freight equipment of the country. It would be equivalent to purchasing 1,700,000 cars without cost to the railroads and without increasing their capitalization, while to purchase that number of
