ning out without any audible opposition at the time the vote was taken.

The threatened test came after resolutions for the appointment of seven members to act with a similar number from the house as joint committees to prepare bills for legislation on the state railway commission, primary election and free transpertation had been introduced respectively by Aldrich of Butler, Holbrook of Dodge and Philips of Holt. The resolutions provided the senate members should be elected by the body. During a bill McKesson of Lancaster jumped to his feet and offered a motion, naming Wilson of Pawnee, Gibon of Douglas, Hanna of Cherry, Randall of Madison, Ashton of Hall, Clarke of Adams and Dodson of Saline as the senate members of the railway commission com-

Some of the square deal senators protested that the proposed action was too sudden and as this committee was one of for consideration should be given. King of Polk spoke against the motion and Epperson of Clay moved the motion be referred to the committee on standing committees. McKesson and Burns of Laneaster both spoke against reference and finally Dodson of Saline, who was on the McKesson list, moved to substitute the names of Aldrich of Butler, Sackett of Gage, King of Polk, Epperson of Clay, Wiltre of Cedar, Root of Cass and Thomas of Douglas. It was agreed to include this mittee

Joe Burns got the floor and spoke in favor of an immediate election. He opposed referring the matter to a committee and declared if the senate is going to do everything by committee it had better appoint a committee and adjourn. King of Polk inade the principal speech in favor of referring the matter to the committee, and when the vote was taken Burns, who had previously said he would demand a roll call, did not do so, and the vote was by Wilsey's lobbyists resolution did not mabrialize. Senator Wilsey withdrew the esolution for amendment and Epperson then moved the matter of a rule against lobbyists be referred to the committee on rules. This was agreed to and a substitute to Wilsey's resolution offered by Thomas of Douglas designating who should be allowed admission to the floor of the senate was also sent to this committee. The withdrawai of Wilsey's resolution is declared to be due to the fact senators of both the progressive and the reactionary the most important to be named some time factions had indicated they would not support it, as it was too drastic.

At the afternoon session the committee on rules reported in favor of an amendment to rule 52, relating to the admission of persons to the floor of the genate. The amended rule is conservative, but it is contended by the senators it will accomplish the result of keeping lobbyists away from the senate. It applies only to the floor of the senate and the secretary's office, but not to the lobby in the senate chamber or the halls outside. It was passed without discussion. amended the new rule is as follows:

There was no opposition to the rule and the vote was by acclamation.

It carries an emergency clause.

Two pure food laws made their appearance in the senate today. Both are modeled after the national law, differing mainly in the methods of enforcing the law. One by Burns of Lancaster makes the governor the drug, dairy and food commissioner and provides for a deputy at a salsary of $1,800 a year. He shall analyze foods and drugs and keep a list for public reference. He is given wide powers in the enforcement of the law. The law also contains provisions against "misbranding drugs or foods. The bill proposes to place this bureau under the direction of the governor and it provides for a uniform system of keeping public accounts. It was drawn by City Clerk Pratt of Lincoln. Senator Thomas introduced an amendment to the compulsory education law requiring children between 7 and 16 years of age to be in school the entire school year with certain exception. The principal exceptions are children over 14 years who are compelled to earn their own living and children who are mentally and physically defective or who live more than two miles from a school house. Children who remain out of day school on account of work may be compelled to attend night school. The bill raises the compulsory school age and is more drastic than the present law.

Carlin Keeps His Sent.

Representative Carlin, democrat, of Rock county will keep his seat in the legislature. The contest committee tonight decided in favor of the Rock county man. The ballots were opened and only five straight popullst votes were found. The contest was based on the populist vote.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE SENATE

Agreement Reached on the Anti-Lobby Resolution.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Jan. 9 .- (Special.)-The senate was called to order at 10 o'clock by the lieutenant governor. Senator Aldrich introduced a resolution providing for the appointment of seven members of the senate to act with a similar number from the house as a joint committee to prepare as early as possible a bill covering legislation concerning the state railway commission. Senator Holbrook introduced a similar resolution regarding a direct primary law and Philips of Holt a third relating to free railroad transportation. All three resolutions were passed without opposition.

Senator Wilsey, under the head of resolutions, withdrew for amendment his resolution relating to lobbyists and on motion of Epperson of Clay the subject was referred to the committee on rules. Thomas of Douglas introduced a milder lobbyist resolution, designating who should be admitted garments, do not fall to attend this great to the floor of the senate, and this was also referred to the rules committee.

The resolution of Thomas of Douglas providing for the printing each evening of the journal for the day caused considerable discussion. McKesson of Lancaster opposed it and on his motion it was referred to the committee on printing, to report within forty-eight hours on the comparative cost of printing and mimeographing the record. McKesson of Lancaster offered a motion that Wilson, Gibsen, Hanna, Randall, Ashton, Clarke and Dodson constitute the senate half of the joint committee on rallway commission legislation. Epperson of Clay moved the matter be referred to the committee on standing committees with power to nominate the members of the committee. Dedson offered a substitute naming Aldrich, Sackett, King, Epperson, Wiltse of Cedar, Root and Thomas as the committee. After considerable discussion both motions were referred to the committee on standing committees. The same committee was directed to nominate the committees under the direct primary and the free transportations resolu tions also.

At the afternoon session the rules committee reported on the anti-lobbyist resolution, which was referred to it in the morning. The report favored an amend ment to the present senate rules designating who should be admitted to the floor of the senate and providing all others may be admitted only by card furnished either by a senator or the secretary and signed by whoever issues it The amended rule passed.

A recommendation that the judiciary committee be increased to ten members also carried. There are ten lawyers in the senate and all of them were made members of the judiciary committee. The old rule provided for a committee of eight. On motion of Thomas the senate adjourned until 10 o'clock Thursday
