a whole was in a more satisfactory condi-tion. Beef steers were in very fair demand, the only trouble being that the quality of the most of the cattle was not of the kind to attract buyers. Still there were some cattle good enough to bring $6.06. The prices paid generally looked just about steady with yesterday, there being no note-worthy change in the market in any di-rection. There was a little more life to the cow trade than has been the case on a good sea-son and more anxious to look at the re-celpts. As was the case with steers, prices were just about steady all around with the Closing quotations on Boston copper mar-ket, reported by Logan & Bryan, 112 Board of Trade building, Omaha: 118%
