Concerning the Cost of a Business College Course.

'You can get nothing for nothing and mighty little for ha' penny." You know that you will have to pay a good price for a good suit.
You know that anything worth a good price is usually sold for a good price.
Business college courses and their costs are not totally unlike clothes and their

A business college worth your consideration will not have to cut its tuition rates to gain your consideration—or add you to its roll of students. The very section of a business college cutting its tuition rates as an inducement is confession of some has never cut its tuition rates any more than it has ever cut the quality of its cours or of its staff of instructors. We charge merely a fair price for just the very best kind of a business education that it is possible for a young man or a young woman to obtain. If our tuition rates were twice as high as they are, it would pay any parent to pay them in order rates were twice as high as they are, it would pay any parent to pay them in order to enroll his son or daughter in Boyles College—it would pay any young man or any young woman to pay them to become a pupil at Boyles College.

Because Boyles College is a success, its graduates are successes. Because such a large percentage of its graduates in the past have been successful, the business men of all this section of the country when looking for a Stenographer or a Bookkeeper or a Telegrapher who will be successful in pleasing his employer, call upon Boyles College and give employment to Boyles College graduates. Even though you had to pay twice our tuition rates, you would be more than amply repaid in the extra salary you would earn immediately upon going into the business world. Boyles College graduates command higher salaries than do ordinary business college graduates, because Boyles College is no ordinary business college. Before you decide upon entering any business college anywhere, do yourself the justice not only of incestigating our claims, but visiting Boyles College and seeing for yourself the evidence of our claims.
