Sensation in the House. It was very evident that members of the house got up crosswise this morning, based on the time they took to settle disputed questions and the visorous whack they took at the lawyers on the judiciary committee and the big scare they gave members of the committee on medical societies and sundry laws. Ned Brown was responsible for the drubbing given the juliciary committee and instigated the debate in which various members took a poke at lawyers in general, while Davis of Cass county caused the doctors to pass in review when he called up his resolution compel the committee to which had been referred the anti-Christian Science bill to give the Scientists a week's notice of the meeting of the committee at which the bill to be discussed. Members of the commitse assured the house there was no intention to deprive the Scientists of this courtesy, and after considerable wrangling Davis withdrew his resolution, with the understanding due notice would be given. so the Scientiste could secure a man from Chicago to present their side of the case. Ned Brown overrode the judiciary committee when it reported to indefinitely postpone his two bills, H. H. 47 and H. R. is, to prevent new trigin of cases on mere technicalities where no infustice had been done the defendants and secured the bill for the general Ble. The laymen united in standing by Brown, and Walsh of Douglas received applause when he said "such a measure should be a Godsend to the common people, and I make my bow to the gentleman from Lancaster who refused to ioin with the other members of the com mittee, but who had an opinion of his own and expressed it." The other members of judiciary committee apposed Brown McMullen of Gage said in his several talks on the ball that the house had already showed too much of a disposition to adopt resolutions just because they had been endorsed by persons in higher authority, Wolf Bounty Bill Another big debate came on the bill by Armstrong of Nemaha, H. R. 45, which repealed the wolf bounty law, and which the committee reported for indefinite postponepassed, have the tendency to restrict the ment. Armstrong wanted it placed on gennumber of saloons and make it easter for eral file, but he was voted down. The members from the west end of the state were united for the statute to remain as sale of liquor. it is and they were joined by Walsh of

The committee finally appointed Chairauditor's office. The state auditor, he said, out any further action by the licensing man Harrison of Otoe and Quackenbush of favored the repeal of the statute. He told board. Under the present law the license Nemaha to see whether the constitution of an incident where one man brought in may be revoked after conviction, but the provided such companies should connect up nine scalps and three months later brought fact of conviction it is held does not necestheir lines as is required of railroads, and in nine more. He told of depredations committed open ballot at the caucus something to by the wolves and the necessity for the bounty to aid in the extinction of the animals.

Gibson's Saloon Bill.

Senator Gibson's bill prohibiting brewers and distillers from having any interest in any saloon or saloon license or renting buildings for saloon purposes and limiting the number of saloons to not more than one to 1,000 inhabitants may become one of the most important liquor bills of the session rivaling even the county option bill in importance. Some of the senators are inclined to think the bill would remedy many evils connected with saloons all over the state, and it has found supporters from the senators from the country districts.

The bill as now drawn applies only to Omaha, South Omaha and Lincoln. But one influential senator said today he intended to offer an amendment removing this limitation and providing the law shall apply to the entire state, and after this is done, he said, he believed it would pasthe senate. He said many of the smaller towns have experience evil results from the fact that saloans are owned by brewers and are placed in charge of irresponsible saloonkeepers, who make no pretense to obeying the laws.

The bill as it now reads would reduce he number of saloons in Omaha about 100 and in South Omaha about fifty. It would make little change in Lincoln, except to drive out the saloons owned by the brewers.

Other Liquor Bills, Those who are in touch with the men bers of the legislature look for some radical action this year on the saloon question. While the big fight will be on the county option bill, there are a number of smaller measures that will cut considerable figure in the liquor traffic over the state. The judiciary committee has decided to recommend for passage two of Senator Root's bills, which, if passed, will practically prevent the shipping of liquor by express and the transportation companies into "dry towns. A number of other bilis will, i

It was stated today that Governor Swettenham held up Saturday night's dispatches from Kingston regarding his letter to Rear Admiral Davis requesting to re-embark the American marines who had been landed to assist in the relief work ashore.

Just previous to the departure of the American warships the mayor and city council of Kingston sent a petition to the admiral begging him to remain, and the relief committee headed by Archbishop Hubball threatened to resign. When the American surgeons left the hospital the patients wept and begged them and the American warships to stay, and the Red Cross nurses declared that the governor's action in causing the Americans to withdraw was nothing short of criminal.
