Hon. Thomas M. Kettle of Ireland Appeals for Support of Americans.

GREAT PROGRESS IN THIRTY YEARS

Largely Provided by Citizens of United States-Success in Sight.

The assembly hall of Edward Creighton institute was crowded to overflowing Monday evening with an interested audience of men and women to listen to the address of Hon. Thomas M. Kettle, member of the British Parliament from the district of East Tyrone, on the subject of home rule for Ireland and the progress of measures in the British Parliament toward its ac-

The meeting was held under the auspices of the National Irish-American league of Omaha and was presided over by T. J. Mahoney.

The program was opened with a couple of songs by the Knights of Columbus quartet, followed with a recitation, "The La Rue Stakes," by Miss Catherine Rowley, and a vocal solo by Miss Grace Scott of Council Bluffs.

Chairman Mahoney read a telegram from Mayor Dahlman, sent from Denver, expressing his regret at being unable to attend the meeting, and a letter from Speaker D. M. Nettleton of Lincoln, stating that a previous engagement prevented his attending the meeting, to his very sincere regret, particularly from the fact that he was a native of the district in Ireland represented by Mr. Kettle.

Mr. Mahoney delivered a brief introductory address, in which he referred to the great work accomplished by Charles Stewart Parnell some thirty years ago in collaboration with that other great Irish patriot, John Dillon, and the visit of these men to America and to Omaha, and the consequent institution of the Irish-American Land league, which later was merged into the Irish national party of America, and the progress of home rule for Ireland.

America Always Responsive. As Mr. Kettle stepped forward to speak he was greeted with applause, and, with n apology for a little weariness long ride from the Pacific coast, he said: Ire'and has never appealed to America in ain. We have met here tonight in a hall

"OF SUCH THE KINGDOM"

RICHARD L. METCALFE'S NEW BOOK.

WHAT THEY SAY:

Judge A. C. Troup, judge district court. Omaha, Neb.—"Although I have possessed 'Of Such is the Kingdom' but forty-eight hours, I have read it through from beginning to end, and am charmed with its contents. I find it abounding in those pure and wholesome stories so well adapted to the edification of the family circle; and, simple yet effectively told, they are entertaining and instructive to both parent and child alike. The book should have a place in every home where there are children.

W. J. Bryan.—"To those who have read these stories they need no praise; to those who have not read them, I commend them as soothing and strengthening and inspiring."

as soothing and strengthening and inspiring."

Judge Charles B. Letton, of the Nebraska Supreme Court, Lincoin, Nebruthat man must be cold, indeed, who could read your little book without feeling his better nature stirred. The book breathes sympathy and love for all created things. It's full of tender thought and playful fancy, and at the same time draws from experience a sound philosophy expressed in plain and simple language. I have read it with enjoyment and appreciation, and trust it may find many readers who may heed its counsels."

Judge J. H. Broady, Lincoln, Neb.—"I have read your pageant of the human heart, entitled, 'Of Such Is the Kingdom. It is great enough to reflect its author and too great to be otherwise than as simple and natural as a little child, the symbol 'of the Kingdom of God.' Not being local, either as to time or place but as universal as humanity, it will outlive its author or any other man."

John D. Howe, attorney, Omaha, Neb.—"Your book, 'Of Such Is the Kingdom,' came two or three days ago, and I have derived much pleasure and profit from reading it. The thirty-seven articles giver many stories from life none of which can be read without enriching the mind and heart. They appeal to what is highest in human nature. They radiate a most kindly influence. They interpret what is best in us, and tend to elevate it into a standard of conduct. The book is a deposit of faith and love! The commercial value of sentiment is not large. It does not command a market in the marks of the world, but when all is said and done, and the record is closed, it is the truest values that men remember; then the stone that was rejected by the builder becomes the head of the corner."

dedicated to a great educational work by one of your citizens, an irishman, Count Creighton, the intelligence of whose illness sincerely grieves me, and in behalf of all Irishmen 1 sincerely pray and hope for his early and complete recovery. Your chairman has spoken of the visit of Charles Stewart Parnell and John Dillon to this country. Young as I sm I have a certain claim to stand before you as a member of the Irish-American Land league, for my father was one of the men who was instrumental in sending these great patriots to America. Gladstone said while he was prime minister that had it not been for the money procured by these men in America there would have been no land agitation in Ireland. America has shown how great Irishmen can be under favorable conditions. I find them here as archbishops, leaders in great industrial enterprises, prominent members of the bar and in every avenue of public enterprise and national economics.

What Has Been Accomplished.

What Has Been Accomplished.

But of my mission here. The question is asked. What has the party founded by Parnell done in the past quarter of a century? Dillon and Parnell came to you twenty-seven years ago to ask your help against the band of irish landlordism. That struggle is practically won. The land has, or is, coming back into the hands of the descendants of the people to whom it belonged before that conquest. Then the condition of the Irish tenant farmer depended upon the caprice and whim of his landlord. In 1879 the Irish tenant farmer was not a man, he was a mere chattel of, his landlord, subject to eviction without any notice whatever. Today the land of Ireland is owned exclusively by the farmers. In the county of Wexford there is not a landlord as known in the old days. Wherever the land is not occupied it is condemned and will be occupied in a short time. So it is in the county of Galway. If a landlord is incompetent to handle his land it is turned over to his tenants. The dream of Michael Davitt in 1879 has in 1907 become a reality. A tory secretary for Ireland was in 1963 enforcing a law more radical than Davitt ever dreamed of. Such is the achievement of the Irish parilamentary party. There is no longer "the great fear of the people." The Land league found them slaves and left them men.

New Ireland Created.

Irishmen in Ireland have simply forgotiten how to take off their hats to any man. A new Ireland has been created in thirty years. Agriculture and industry are now tion. Local county government prevails everywhere. A tory government prevails everywhere. A tory government prevails everywhere. A tory government in 1885, after many years under pressure of public opinion, has given us a county democratic government, with the widest possible franchise, and officers are chosen on their parings for a national assembly in Dublin.

Statistics are an irrefutable argument for home rule. Since 1820 the average tax of Ireland increased 180 per cent, while in Engiand it decreased 180 per cent, while in Engiand increased 180 per cent, while in Engiand it decreased 180 per cent, while in Engiand it decreased 180 per cent, while in Engiand it decreased 180 per cent, while in Engiand increased 180 per cent, while in Engiand increased 180 per cent, while in Engiand it decreased 180 per cent, while in Engiand increased 180 per cent, while in

No salary is paid to members of Parliament. All the expenses of election must be paid by the candidate, and he must first pay the sheriff of the district in which he stands as a candidate before his name goes ton the official ballot $750. You naturally ask why am I here? It is to ask you as Irishmen to stand in behind with your fighting weight and influence. Though an Irish Catholic nationalist I was elected in a Presbyterian farmers' district. The Orange party has broken into two factions. An Orangeman may be as Orangeman, but first of all he is an Irishman. These are the present conditions in Ireland. Bigotry and prejudice are fast vanishing, and the spirit of your great country is casting its influence everywhere.

Mr. Keitie said he felt certain that the home rule bill would be passed by the session of Parliament to meet February 2. He did not think the measure would pass the House of Lords, and he rather hoped it would not, as it meant a fight, and a fight meant the ultimate extinction of the House of Lords. When the corpse is buried Ireland will have a hand, and a monument of Irish granite will mark its resting place with the epitaph written in Gaelic by Dr. Douglas Hyde.

LOOKING UP SANOVY'S RECORD

Police Try to Find Out His Whereabouts When Miss Rummelhart Was Murdered.

Chief of Police Donahue has taken up the inquiry into the past life of the prisoner held at the South Omaha fail who makes assertion he is the murderer of Josephine Rummelhart, who was killed in Omaha last October. The man is on the books of the Omaha police department as George Sanovy, having been arrested here about two years ago, charged with snatching a purse from a woman at Sixteenth and Chicago streets. His picture was taken at that time and is a part of the police gallery. Chief Donahue and Captain Mostyn looked up the photograph Monday evening and the latter stated afterward Sanovy was considerably thinner then, but is undoubtedly the same afterward Sanovy was considerably thin ner then, but is undoubtedly the same man. He admits being Sanovy.

Nothing further has been learned to corroborate or contradict the confession of Sanovy regarding Miss Rummelhart and he will be questioned no further until his whereabouts at the time of the murder have been positively established. This work has been started by Chief Donahue.

While there is every chance the fellow's statements are nothing but senseless ramblings born of a diseased and greatly degenated mind wholly without moral control, the fact that in all likelihood it was just that sort of a man who killed Josephine Rummelhart in so brutal and cold-blooded a manner, is what gives the police the motive for action.

"This man is the most promising find since the search for the murderer began," said Captain Mostyn, "though it would be almost too good to be true should he prove to be the man we are after."

While the prisoner serves the sixty-day sentence given him in South Omaha on the charges of vagrancy and assault on a woman, for which he was arrested, a thorough investigation will be made of his movements in the west, where he said he worked as sheep herder and other work.

ROOM NEEDED FOR MANUAL TRAINING

Bequest of Late Edward Rosewater of Scholarship Leads Up to Discussion of Extending This Part of School Work.

At the close of the regular business of the Board of Education last evening a spirited discussion ensued over the needs of enlarging the high school, particularly the manual training department, the matter having been suggested by David Cole in connection with a special bequest of the late Edward Rosewater, who bequeathed in trust a fund for a scholarship of technology, beneficiaries to be graduates of the manual training department of the Omaha High school.

Upon request of Member Cole, Superintendent Davidson touched on present conditions at the high school and the urgent need for enlargement and made recom-mendations anent the manual training de-

Mr. Davidson said the high school was now being run on a close margin of space, with added cramping in prospect when the new term shall have been started next Monday. With a staff of fifty-six teachers and nearly 1,700 pupils, the institution had outgrown its quarters, the superintendent reported. In place of a two-year manual training course for boys he recommended four years, making the third year forge work and the fourth year machine shop work, the present two-year course including only joining and lathe work. Mr. Davidson suggested a three-year training course be added for girls, the course to include clay modeling and wood carving and the domestic sciences and arts, such as are in vogue in Kansas City, Denver, Minneapolis, Indianapolis and other

"I think," Mr. Davidson sald, "the board should look toward 1968 and present the matter to the public in contemplation of a satisfactory bond issue for enlargement of the high school. The necessities are immediate, as the capacity of our high school has been reached."

The exact wording of the bequest is as follows:

"12. I give and bequeath to the school district of Omaha, to be held in trust, twenty (20) shares of the stock of The Bee Building company of the par value of ten thousand dollars (19,000), the income whereof is to be expended by the Board of Education for the establishment of a scholarship to fechnology, to be awarded to sons of Omaha mechanics who desire to acquire an education in mechanical engineering or applied science. compelled to make their way in the world with a self-acquired education and an earnest desire to assist promising young men along the highway of success.

I believe I am also safe in saying that the school district of Omaha was selected to receive this hequest and the Board of Education to be its trustee, because of the part my father had had in the creation of this school district. I need only recall that when a member of the legislature in 1871 he framed and procured the enactment of the inam making the city of Omaha one rehool district, and for the first time placing all of its schools under an elective Board of Education, many of the most salutary features of our present school government being traceable to that law. As a concession to those who opposed this measure he was compelled to add a clause providing for its submission to popular ratification at a special election to be called and its suspension in case a majority of those voting registered themselves against it. And it was to give voice to the public school management, the then existing newspapers being committed in the other direction, that he established The Ree

OFFERS OF LAND FOR PARK PURPOSES

Two Men Willing to Part with Por tion of Their Holdings of South Omaha Realty-Park Board to Be Consulted.

The city council held a busy session last night. The city clerk reported on an issue of general bonds amounting to $10,800, which were floated in 1902. These bonds draw per cent interest at present, but at the end of five years are optional. The atlist of high school teachers at salaries of tention of the council was called to the fact that these bonds should be refunded by the issue of 4 per cent bonds, as has the treasurer was instructed to been done with other and older obligations.

The call for bids on the park sites revealed the fact that no less than ten parties were willing to offer their holdings for this purpose. P. J. O'Nell offered a site in Albright's Choice addition, just north of Barrett's park, for $10,000. It contains thirty-five acres. Ed J. Dee offered eleven acres east of Barrett's park for $4,400. Alfred C. Kennedy offered a tract of thirtysix acres in Spring Lake Park addition for $22,500. He also offered a smaller park. being the whole of block 292, South Omaha. J. J. Ryan offered block 25 of Corrigan Place for $6,500. John Sheehan offered seven acres in Begien park for $2,250. J. H. Kopletz offered a tract of thirteen acres in Nicholson's addition for $4,800. Patrick Hoctor offered five acres in the southwest section near Jetter's brewery for $5,000. J. F. Murphy offered an eight-acre tract south of Syndicate park for $17,000 All of these bids were referred to the council as a whole with the understanding that a special meeting would be called at an early date to be held in conjunction with the members of the Park board.
