VARIOUS VIEWS OF WORDS

Striking Difference in Versions of Connell's Remarks Feature of Trial.
R-NEKST INJUSTICE SPEECH THE PIVOT
Attorney Stout Declares Connell's Words with Court Were Pleasing and Nothing but Nicest Sort of Repartee.
The hearing in the Connell contempt case Saturday morning brought out the fact there is considerable difference in the interpretation put on Mr. Connell's words by the county attorney and the court and Mr. Connell and some of his witnesses. When Mr. Connell declared after Judge Sutton had said he was intended to rule on the exclusion of witness Griffith and Mr. Connell had declared in arguing the question of whether Mr. Griffith should be excluded or not, that such a ruling would be the "ranked injustice and the grossest error," he was not referring to the ruling of Judge Sutton, but to an illustration he had referred to previously in his argument, so the defense claims. The contention of the prosecution is that he was referring to the ruling that had already been made by Judge Sutton.
Justice of the Peace Crookwell was the first witness examined by the defense Saturday. He was in the court room at the time Mr. Connell made reference to the ruling. He said Mr. Connell was not talking usually loud for him and that he thought the reference he made to ranking error and ranked injustice was to an illustration he had previously used. He did not consider the attitude of Mr. Connell disrespectful.
Judge Examines Witnesses.
After the attorneys had finished Judge Sutton examined him.
"If you were sitting in a case and after you had passed on a matter the attorney had declared it was ranked injustice, what would you have thought of it?" asked Judge Sutton.
"I would say it was not very respectful," was the answer.
"If you were passing on a matter and the attorney had said in a loud voice the ruling was the grossest error, what would you say as to that?"
"I would have fined him right there."
The defense entered objections to the questions, asserting they did not show the real situation.
Former Deputy County Attorney F. A. Shotwell, who assisted Judge Sibbigh in prosecuting the Howell case, was one of the principal witnesses for the defense. He said Mr. Connell did not use the lan-

FRISCO MARKET OF WORLD

Reason Why Western Cities Cannot Get Desired Rates to Golden Gate.
CROSBY TALKS ON TARIFF MATTERS
Returns from Denver Interstate Commerce Commission Meeting Which Colorado Papers Incorrectly Reported, He Says.
Freight Traffic Manager Crosby of the Burlington was in Omaha Saturday, en route from Denver to Chicago. Mr. Crosby was one of the witnesses in the Interstate Commerce hearing of the complaint of Denver against the railroads, charging a discrimination against Denver.
"The railroads have announced that a reduction will be made from Denver to Idaho points of 25 per cent in accordance with the recommendation of Commissioner Frost," said Mr. Crosby. "The Denver newspapers gave an erroneous impression of what would be done."
While on the stand at Denver Mr. Crosby was asked why Omaha and the Missouri river was a losing point for rates. He replied it had been a losing point since the railroads were first built forty years ago. "Are not conditions different now than forty years ago?" was asked.
"Forty years have been insufficient in time to change the geographical location of Omaha and the Missouri river," replied Mr. Crosby.
"San Francisco is a market of the world," said Mr. Crosby, "and the middle western towns can't expect to get a proportionate rate on stuff which is hauled across the continent to that city, for some of it comes from the old world on a through rate. Another condition is arising. A boat is now loading at New York to carry a cargo of goods via the Tehuantepec railroad across Mexico, which guarantees to make the trip in twenty-five days, and that is better than is done by most trans-continental lines."
Spends at Dakota Meetings.
C. E. Spens, general freight agent of the Burlington, has returned from St. Paul, where he attended a meeting of the railroad commission of that state. The day was put in hearing testimony from the Northwestern road. Another hearing will be had at St. Paul February 21, and a second hearing at Deadwood February 4. Mr. Spens will attend both these hearings.
All in Well at Washington.
J. N. Baldwin, general editor of the Union Pacific, returned Saturday from Washington, where he has been arguing the railroad tax cases before the supreme court. Mr. Baldwin said he searched diligently to find if the Interstate Commerce commission had reached a decision in the elevation cases, but that no decision had been filed, and he could find out nothing in reference to the decision which rumor had been reached.
Mr. Baldwin said the president and the senators had "watched up their little difficulties and everything is now running smoothly again."
Russell Goes to Burlington.
James Russell, superintendent of the Omaha division of the Missouri Pacific, has resigned his position with that road, effective February 1, to take the superintendency of one of the most important divisions of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad. Mr. Russell has been with the Missouri Pacific for three and one-half years and has had his headquarters in Omaha for over one year. His experience in the operating and traffic departments has made him a most valuable man and his loss will be regretted by his old associates.
Railroad Demurrers Overruled.
MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 26.—A decision was filed in the United States court in Minneapolis covering the demurrers to the indictments in the rebate cases recently brought by the government against the Omaha, Great Northern, Wisconsin Central, Minneapolis & St. Louis railroads. The cases will go to trial at the April term of court.

STIMULANTS CAUSE OF DEATH

Verdict of Coroner's Jury in Inquest Over Body of Charles Carroll.
Coroner Bradley held an inquest Saturday morning over the body of Charles Carroll, who was found dead early Friday morning in a room at the old European hotel, Tenth and Howard streets. The jury rendered a formal verdict that Carroll came to his death from natural causes due to the excessive use of alcoholic stimulants.
A telegram was received by the coroner Friday night from F. J. Tolson, secretary of the International Brotherhood of Steam and Shovel Firemen, stating that Carroll was a member of that organization and that his home was at Linn, Pike county, O. Inquiries have been made by Coroner Bradley and arrangements for the funeral will not be made until some information is received from the authorities at Linn.
