The agricultural appropriation bill oc cupled most of the day, and as usual, when the amendment striking out the free distribution of seeds was reached, the mem bers from the farming districts outvoted those from the cities, reversed a ruling o the chair by a vote of 136 to 85 and restored the paragraph as has been the law for years. The amendment appropriates $238,000 for the free distribution of ordinary seeds.

Representative Lacey of Iowa offered an amendment authorizing the secretary of agriculture to sell marketable and ripened timber of forest reserves to persons not belonging to any organization to control lumber prices. Mr. Lacey said the result of the creation of great timber reserves has been to increse the price of lumber and he urged that the government should offer lumber for sale at times when it will tend to force down prices which have been inflated by the 'lumber trust." Senator Beveridge Concludes Three Days' Speech on Child Labor Bill.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 29 .- The senate session today began with a lecture from Senator Hale, who contended that too much talking and not enough work was being done. He had particular reference to his inability to secure the passage of the diplomatic and consular fortification appropriation bills, which were on the calendar. Before the session ended the two measures had been disposed of.

Senator Beveridge concluded his three-day speech on his child labor bill. His argument today was devoted to the constitu tional power of congress to prohibit interstate commerce in child-made goods, and took the broad ground that the power of congress over interstate and foreign commerce is absolute, that such commerce can be prohibited altogether, so far as the power is concerned, and that in all cases policy and not power is to be considered. The senate today passed the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill, carrying $3,085,477.

The amendment presented by Senator Lodge was agreed to providing that the salaries of all consular clerks be $1,000 per of $1,800 is reached.

Charles Hackenschmidt, brother of the "Russion Lion," who is to wrestle with Furmer Burns at the Auditorium Wednesday night arrived in Omaha Tuesday and looked as fit as a fiddle. He is a most powerful looking speciman of manhood, and although Farmer Burns has plenty of followers in this neck of the woods, he will have to go some to keep up his reputation of unbeaten champion at his weight. Mr. Hackenschmidt says that Charles Delivus, 195, champion of Austria, whom he threw last week at Des Moines is the strongest man he ever wrestled in the world.

Hackenschmidt has a neck, which is 13 inches in circumstances; he is 5 foet 10 inches tall, weighs on the mat, 173; chest, 43½ inches; walst, 35 inches, bleeps, 15½ inches, forarm, 14½ inches, wrists, 9 inches, thigh, 23½ inches, and calf 15½ inches. His chest expansion is 5½ inches.

Governor Mickey heard arguments on a demurrer to the charges during October and took the matter under advisement. Consumption Is Not Hereditary

A Common Error Refuted

The fact that consumption is frequently The fact that consumption is frequently seen to run in families gives rise to the general idea that it is hereditary, but this is arroneous. Weak lungs can be hereditary and where they exist consumption is likely to follow. Consumption is produced by a germ which all persons frequently inhale, especially in cities where dust is flying at all times. It is in weak lungs that the germ finds a lodging place, soon multiplies and starts its work of destroying the mucous membrane. A bad cold or cough creates an inflamed condition of these membranes of the pulmamary organs an affords the germ an opportunit of taking hold; whereas the healthy lung will quickly throw it off. A prominent physician from the Philadelphia Clinic, who conducted the successful experiments with pine for treating pulmonary troubles and from the Philadelphia Clinic, who conducted the successful experiments with pline for treating pulmonary troubles and who for several years maintained a camp in the heart of the big pine forests of Maine, says that for stimulating the growth and developing the respiratory organs and bronchial tubes there is no equal to, the oil obtained from the pines of the East. He was the first to prepare a truly soluble oil of the pine and he claims by its use all the advantages of a pine forest camp can be had at home if the patient will adhere to the treatment and take plenty of out-door exercise, meanwhile cultivating the habit of deep, full breathing. The form of pine that he uses is known to the medical profession as "Concentrated" oil of pine and is to be found at every good prescription druggist. Care should be taken to get the real article, which comes put up for medical use only in one way and that is in half ounce bottless enclosed in small round screwtop-cases which are intended to protect the fluid from changes of atmosphere. The original formula used is as follows: "Two ounces of glycerine, 's ounce Concentrated oil of pine and a half pint of first class whiskey, it should be thoroughly shaken and used every four hours in tablespoon doses."

He cautions against the oils sold in bulk and patent medicines sometimes put up in wooden boxes and using a somewhat similar name. They are harmful and have had results instead of being curative.

This mixture will check and often completely curs an acute cough of cold inside of twenty-four hours.
