Christian Science Bill Dead.
By concurrence in the report of the miscellaneous affairs committee to indefinitely postpone S. P. 108, otherwise called the anti-Christian Science bill, the senate today disposed of the hard fight that was threatened over the bill. Two years ago in the scrap was one of the hardest of any in the legislature and it promised to be one of the bitterest of the season this year. Those who were back of the proposed legislation decided public sentiment was too strong against the measure and so they consented to the killing of the bill. It is now considered unlikely that any legislation on the subject, over which there is a strong difference of opinion, will be passed.

Senators Wilcox and Patrick are now drawing up a bill which will satisfy to a certain extent the demands of the State Board of Health and which it is believed will not be opposed by the Christian Scientists. In effect, it will require healers, in cases where any doubt exists as to a disease being contagious or not, to call in a regular physician to diagnose the case. The purpose of this is not to require medical treatment, but to make the authorities quarantine contagious cases to protect the public against them.

A bill of this nature was proposed as a compromise by Senator Patrick at the public meeting Wednesday night and he was applauded by the Christian Scientists. It has the approval of the medical men in the legislature and it is believed will not cause a fight. The physicians contended at the public meeting their only purpose was to protect the public from the spread of contagious disease, and the proposed bill, it is believed, will do that effectively. The bill probably will be introduced in the senate next week.

Skirmish on County Option.
A preliminary skirmish on the county option bill came up in the senate today. A vote was avoided, however, and it was decided to take up the bill next week. An open meeting at which all persons interested in the bill will have a chance to be heard will be held Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the senate chamber and the bill probably will be taken up the following day.

The question came up when Patrick's bill providing that signers of petitions for licenses should be jointly liable for damages with the holder of the license and his bondsmen. Byrnes of Platte moved that it be indefinitely postponed and Patrick asked that it go over until more of the senators were present.

It was finally decided to take this bill and S. P. 121, also a saloon bill, a special order for Thursday at 2 o'clock. Byrnes also wanted to make the county option bill a special order for the same time, but Wilcox, whose name it bears, objected.

Senator Randall introduced three bills of interest to fraternal organizations of the state. They were drawn at the instance of prominent members of the order of Odd Fellows. One bill provides for the incorporation of grand and supreme lodges of the various organizations as the local lodges are now incorporated. The second permits the societies to establish homes for the aged and indigent and provides these homes and their endowment funds shall not be taxed. The third excludes lodge property used wholly for charitable or benevolent purposes from taxation.

The senate judiciary committee today voted to recommend for indefinite postponement Clarke's bill for the abolition of capital punishment. Another bill by Senator Clarke to give courts power to parole prisoners was given the same treatment by the committee.

S. P. 25, the bill backed by the Omaha street railway interests and which gives street railway companies the right to guarantee and dispose of the stock and bonds of interurban companies, will be reported for passage for the second time Monday.

This was decided on at a meeting of the judiciary committee this afternoon. When it came up several days ago it was recommended to the committee. Senator Aldrich, who made the principal fight on the bill at the time and sought to add an amendment to it, announced he would not persist in the fight when it came up again, but would draw an independent bill to accomplish the same results.

It is believed that the bill will be passed by the senate today. It is believed that the bill will be passed by the senate today. It is believed that the bill will be passed by the senate today.

ROUTINE PROCEEDINGS OF HOUSE

Bill Requiring Railroads to Register Requests for Cars Goes on Calendar.
(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LINCOLN, Feb. 1.—(Special.)—House bill requiring railroads to register so that persons asking for cars can make a record of their applications and that first cars first served, was placed on general file this morning after the railroad committee had recommended it for the ash pile. This action is alone the line of the precedent already in effect of allowing bills to be discussed in the committee of the whole when there seems to be any great number in favor of the measure.

The members of the committee on public lands and buildings were excused to visit the Board of Normal Schools at Kearney.

H. R. 30, by Lahnors of Thayer, was indefinitely postponed after a long debate. This bill provides that in counties of over 15,000 people the county judge should be a lawyer. This action was taken in the committee of the whole on motion of Speaker Nettleton. Walsh of Douglas was among the number who spoke against the bill because, he said, he thought it was not the business of the legislature to tell a county judge what he should do for county judge, especially in small counties. The principal argument against the bill was that a county judge could not practice while holding such position and the salary was not sufficient in many instances for a lawyer to take the job.

H. R. 114, by Wilson of Custer, providing for closing up the affairs of a school district where no school had been held for two years, was recommended for passage.

In committee of the whole the house acted on the following bills:

H. R. 127—By E. W. Brown of Lancaster. Allowing mutual insurance companies to do business out of the state when they serve amounts to $100,000; recommended for passage.

H. R. 128—By E. W. Brown of Lancaster. To limit the time in which suits can be brought for damages to the state when the personal injury cases; indefinitely postponed.

H. R. 129—By Carlin of Rock. Providing a two-thirds vote to carry bills for internal improvements; recommended for passage.

H. R. 130—By Root of Cass. Providing for prosecution of persons owning property used for immoral purposes; recommended for passage.

H. R. 131—By Root of Cass. Providing for punishment for adultery; recommended for passage.

H. R. 132—By Clark of Douglas. Providing costs must be paid in justice cases before a change of venue can be granted; recommended for passage.

H. R. 133—By Collins of Saline. Providing for a lien on real estate for claims due workmen; indefinitely postponed.

empower them to make an appropriation therefor.

H. R. 242—By Schubert of Richardson. Persons not admitted to the bar may practice in probate courts when there is no contest.

H. R. 250—By Eller (by request) of Washington. Provides district courts to appoint commissioners to examine applicants for notarial commissions.

H. R. 251—By Kuhl of Cedar. To provide for quieting title in cases of adverse possession and against clouds, defects and unenforceable liens.

H. R. 252—By Byrnes of Nemaha (by request). Joint resolution petitioning and memorializing the congress of the United States to prohibit polygamy and polygamous cohabitation.

H. R. 253—By France (by request) of Otoe. Concerning land titles and the registration thereof and the registration of estates therein and easements, incumbrances and charges thereon.

The house adjourned at 4 o'clock until 2:30 Monday afternoon.

SENATORS AT WORK ON ROUTINE

Large Number of Bills Reported from the Committees.
(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LINCOLN, Feb. 1.—(Special.)—The senate convened at 10 o'clock and was in session until after 12, when it adjourned until Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

The death blow to the Christian Science bill was delivered when the standing committee on miscellaneous subjects reported in favor of its indefinite postponement.

The report was unanimously adopted.

The committee on municipal affairs reported on the following bills:

S. P. 12—By Thomas of Douglas. Allowing the use of "patent" paving material. Placed on general file.

The committee on miscellaneous corporations reported on the following bills:

S. P. 26—By Wilcox of Frontier. Giving the board of osteopathy the right to examine and license practitioners of their profession. Placed on general file.

S. P. 27—By Thomas. Increasing salaries of members of the board of public lands in Douglas county. Placed on general file.

The committee on internal improvements reported on the following:

S. P. 28—By Byrnes of Cedar. Regulating the driving of traction engines over the public highways. Placed on general file.

The committee on highways reported as follows:

S. P. 29—By Patrick of Sarpy. Providing for a county highway commissioner to supervise the construction of public highways. Placed on general file.

S. P. 30—By Thomas. Providing for a state board of osteopathy. Placed on general file.

S. P. 31—By Gibson. Providing for the double shift system for firemen in South Omaha. Placed on general file.

The senate passed a motion by Burns of Lancaster authorizing the committee on accounts and expenditures to supply the secretary of the senate with stamps for the mailing of matter authorized by the senate.

A lively discussion followed a request by McKesson that the committee on accounts and expenditures be authorized to supply a fireman who had been employed by the Board of Public Lands and Buildings. King objected to the request, saying the senate should pay only those employees selected by it. He called attention to the fact that the Sheldon law did not provide for a fireman, and he thought it would be in violation of the law to do this. Burns and McKesson declared it was absolutely necessary for the senate and house to have special firemen in the statehouse heating plant in order to keep the legislative halls heated. Patrick of Sarpy wanted to know why it took more firemen to heat the building, while the legislature was in session, than when the halls were empty. Burns suggested they might turn off all the steam and heat the room by the hot air generated in the senate.

It developed the fireman who had been hired without authority of the senate was Peter Carter, a well known colored politician of Lincoln. McKesson's motion carried by a vote of 14 to 9. Patrick at once raised the question it was necessary to have a majority of the whole senate, as the motion appropriated money. McKesson raised the same question a week before and had been sustained by the lieutenant governor. This time Lieutenant Governor Hopewell reversed his former ruling and held the motion carried. Then McKesson moved the services of the fireman be dispensed with and the motion carried.

The senate then went into committee on the whole, with Gibson in the chair, and the following measures were recommended for passage:

S. P. 32—By Thomas. Increasing the pay of judges in Omaha.

S. P. 33—By Thomas. Providing for the impeachment of city, village and county officials. Placed on general file.

The following bills were introduced in the senate:

from J. E. Baum of the Bennett company denying that department stores are opposing the child labor bill. Mr. Baum wrote that no department store should oppose the bill. All children, he said, should be in school as much as possible during the school year and should not be allowed to work.

Dodge of Douglas has received a letter from Charles H. Sargent, a well-known engineer, formerly of the Union Pacific, but who is now located in Lincoln, suggesting that the entire state house should be carefully examined by an expert to look into its condition. Mr. Sargent said not only the east wing was dangerous, but the dome also was unsafe and, in fact, the entire building should be thoroughly inspected. People, he said, should be prohibited from going to the dome, for it is very unsafe.

It is very evident the big county of Custer is all shot to pieces over the bill introduced by Hamer of Buffalo, relating to the division of counties, but which in reality, it is claimed, applies to Custer county. Custer county has contributed a lobby both for and against the bill and if the feeling between the lobbyists is an indication of the feeling in the county, grindstones and butcher knives are surely at a premium. Those who favor the bill claim the sentiment for the division of Custer county has been created by real estate dealers who want to establish four counties and consequently four county seats, while those who are opposed to the bill say it is fostered by Frank Young of Broken Bow, the Burlington lobbyist, in the interest of Broken Bow. Lobbyists from Custer county are working on the floor of the house and so intense is the feeling that even Douglas county in its palmy days could not surpass the western county in factional lines.

James from Richardson county, who is no spring chicken himself, received his home paper from Rulo this morning and in it was an account of his mother's ninety-seventh birthday, and the paper also said the father was 95 and, though he had been ill this winter, he was strong and getting stronger all the time. Mr. James said both his father and mother were in good health at this time.

Under the head of "special anti-annexation edition," a South Omaha newspaper circulated anti-railroad regulation doctrine among the members of the house and senate this morning. While some of the matter contained in the special edition referred to the consolidation of Omaha and South Omaha, a great portion of it was aimed at the enactment of railroad legislation. At the same time Elmer Brown's Observer found its way to the desk of all the members. This paper is directly opposed to the special anti-annexation edition paper.

The judiciary committee of the house will meet Thursday afternoon probably at 3 o'clock to hear the arguments of the opponents of the county option bill.

The committee on cities and towns of the house will meet Tuesday night to consider the Omaha and South Omaha consolidation bill and all other bills affecting Omaha. The people of Douglas county are invited to be present and tell what they want or forever after hold their peace.

The meeting will be held in room 4 at the state house and will begin at 8 o'clock.

Wednesday afternoon the judiciary committee of the house will listen to arguments for and against the various employers' liability bills.

STOCKMEN END MEETING
Most Successful Meet in Four Years Comes to Close at Mitchell.

MITCHELL, S. D., Feb. 1.—(Special Telegram.)—The convention of the South Dakota Improved Live Stock Breeders practically came to a close last evening by advancing several things on the program, among them the election of officers and report of the committee on resolutions, which were scheduled for this morning.

Dr. Ramsey of Washington, D. C., spoke to the farmers on government inspection and gave considerable information concerning the necessity of keeping their cattle and hogs free from tuberculosis.

The resolutions asked the legislature to make an appropriation commensurate with the needs for the state fair, they approved of the request of the state board of regents in asking the legislature to provide for the establishment of two stations for experimental farming purposes on the range west of Chamberlain and Pierre and ask for an appropriation to enlarge the stock pavilion.

The following officers were elected: President, J. M. Eason of Mitchell; vice president of cattle department, Albert Hills of Alexandria; vice president of swine department, P. W. Peterson of Vermillion; vice president of the horse department, J. M. Dunmire of Scotland; vice president of sheep department, T. L. Spurling of Brookings; vice president of poultry department, George M. Tuck of Watertown; secretary-treasurer, James W. Wilson of Brookings. This morning the stockmen had a sort of a love feast for the final meeting, in which many exchanged ideas in an informal way on stock and farm questions. The meeting has been the greatest and most successful since the organization was organized four years ago.
