Needed Dairy Legislation.

GIBBON, Neb., Jan. 20.—To the Editor of The Bee: There has been introduced into both branches of the Nebraska legislature a dairy commission bill known as house bill No. 198 and senate bill No. 196. The provisions of this bill were thoroughly considered and discussed at the last meeting of the Dairymen's association, at which were present more than 200 dairymen and was unanimously approved and recommended for enactment into law. This measure provides for the creation of a dairy commission, because it is believed that the value and importance of the dairy industry to the people of the state (an industry representing an investment of more than $20,000,000. See statistical map in 1905 report of Nebraska Dairymen's association, which report may be had on application to the secretary) warrants the establishment of such a commission with power to enforce the dairy laws of the state.

Under the provisions of the bill the governor would be the dairy commissioner, but the deputy commissioner and four dairy inspectors must be appointed on the recommendation of the professor of dairy husbandry at the State university and the officers of the State Dairymen's association. This is required in order that the working force of the commission shall not only be familiar with the dairy industry, but also have practical as well as scientific knowledge of testing milk and cream. This bill makes it unlawful to sell or manufacture into butter for sale milk or cream which is unclean or that has been kept in unsanitary conditions or surroundings. The proper enforcement of such a law will prevent the dairyman from selling cream which is unclean and will prevent the keeping of cream at cream receiving stations in undesirable places, such as the store room of some grocery store, surrounded by onions, fish, oil or rotten vegetables, and then manufacturing such cream into butter to be sold at a low price, to the great detriment of the entire dairy industry. It will be the duty of the dairy inspectors to inspect places where milk and cream are produced and kept and to see that the law is complied with. Improvement in the quality of cream means improvement in the quality and price of creamery butter; a better price for butter means a better price paid for cream, and if by the inspection and the education which naturally goes with it it is possible to improve the quality of cream sold so that it shall bring 1 cent more per pound for the butter fat which it contains than was paid the last year, this increased price would pay, ten times over, the annual expense of the dairy commission.

Perhaps the most important provision of the bill is that relating to the testing of cream. With good reason there has been more dissatisfaction connected with the testing of cream than any other feature of the dairy business. While the dairymen of the state have been selling, annually, 20,000,000 pounds of cream there has been no fixed, established and legal method for testing cream, although all cream was tested (or supposed to be) and paid for on the basis of the pounds of butter fat which it contained. This dairy commission bill not only provides a legal method for testing cream, but it does still better; it provides that before any persons can engage in the business of testing cream at any place where cream is bought and sold, they must first pass an examination to determine that they are qualified to do the work, and then be licensed by the dairy commissioner at a nominal fee of $1 as a cream tester. This provision, in effect, places the whole business of testing cream under the supervision and control of the dairy commissioner, and if at any time a cream tester is found not to do honest or satisfactory work the commissioner can remove him and prevent him from further engaging in such work. There are two principal objects aimed at in this measure: First, by inspection of dairy products and the education incident thereto, to improve the quality of such products; this would mean a better price. Second, a square deal for both dairymen and consumers in the testing of both milk and cream; this last is most important if we are to further develop this important industry. There has been an insistent demand on the part of dairymen for legislation of this character; in the platform adopted at the last republican state convention is a plank pledging the enactment of a law providing for inspection of dairy products and to regulate the testing of cream. It is believed this dairy commission bill meets all that is now required in the matter of dairy legislation; it has been prepared with that object in view; a copy of the bill may be had by applying to any member of the state legislature or to the undersigned. It is suggested that if you approve of this measure, believe it is for the best interests of the dairy industry of the state, it is your privilege to write your senator and representative at Lincoln giving your views and requesting them to give it their support. S. C. BASSETT, Secretary Nebraska Dairymen's association.

McKinley Club Open to All.

OMAHA, Jan. 31.—To the Editor of The Bee: While engaged with other members of the McKinley club in arranging for our very successful banquet of Tuesday evening we became aware that the bulk of the young republicans of Omaha are seemingly not aware of the fact that the club is wide open to every one of them to become members on making application to any member. Our dues are merely nominal, $2 a year, and at the monthly dinners each man pays for his own plate, never in excess of 50 cents.

The McKinley club is a "boosting" club, pure and simple; that is, it makes no attempt to influence nominations, farther than that each member is expected to participate in the primaries, for whom and how he pleases. After the nominations are made, then the McKinley club is out for the ticket, and ready and willing to go to the front and make every effort possible for the election of the nominee.

Aside from the social and political features, the addresses and debates at the meetings will prove educational and informing to any man, young or old, for there is an associate list on which can be found the names of many of the leading citizens of Omaha.

Trusting you can find room for this, Mr. Editor, permit me on behalf of the officers and the banquet committee, to most sincerely thank The Bee for the many courtesies heretofore extended.

JOHN J. RYDER.

JURY GIVES FORMAL VERDICT

Inquest Held Over Charles Hunsate and Funeral Service Will Be Saturday.

A formal verdict of accidental death was rendered by the coroner's jury at an inquest held Thursday afternoon over the body of Charles C. Hunsate, secretary and general superintendent of the Omaha Ice and Cold Storage company, who was instantly killed Wednesday afternoon in the hoisting machinery at the company's plant at Cassell lake. Witnesses testified that the body of Mr. Hunsate became entangled in the machinery of the shaft in the hoisting gallery, which hurled him to the death by dashing him to the floor of the shaft house.

BELLEVUE COLLEGE LEAGUE

Over Three Hundred People Attend Annual Banquet at the Millard.

GATHERING DISTINCTLY REPRESENTATIVE

Dr. Stewart Dickson of New York Is the Principal Speaker and Dr. E. H. Jenks Toastmaster.

Three hundred men and women of Omaha, South Omaha and Council Bluffs attended the annual banquet of the Bellevue College league at the Millard hotel last night. It was distinctly a representative gathering, embodying prominent people of the educational, religious, commercial and professional walks of life. President Wadsworth and Vice President Hoyt and other members of the faculty of Bellevue were there; Superintendent of Schools Davidson, Principal Waterhouse, Prof. Bernstein, Senior and other members of the high and public schools; President Lowrey, Dr. Herron, Lang and other members of the Presbyterian theological seminary, clergymen of various Protestant churches and many of the leading business men of the city also were there.

The gathering was double that of a year ago, when the league was permanently set on its feet, and the interest was in proportion to the increased attendance. The league was organized for the specific purpose of advancing the interests of Bellevue and results show it is accomplishing its purpose. Last year, aside from its moral support, it gave to the institution in money over $1,000, and this year indications are it will double, if not triple, that amount. It is asked to help meet a debt of $20,000.

Address by Dr. Stewart Dickson.
Dr. Stewart Dickson of New York, secretary of the College Board of the Presbyterian Church, was present last night and was the principal speaker. He laid emphasis upon the demand, first, for college education; all lines of business activity were calling for it. Then he emphasized the demand for Christian education, and he dwelt particularly upon the great work of the "small" colleges, such as Bellevue, as the ideal, rather than the college small numerically. Its work was a specialty and that specialty was Christian education. The demand for Christian leaders was urgent and must be met by the Christian college. His address was earnest and forceful and created deep interest.

Dr. E. H. Jenks, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, acted as master of ceremonies and President Wadsworth set forth the work and needs of the institution. President Wadsworth, in his speech, dwelt distinctly on Omaha institutions, and adverted to college athletics, saying that Bellevue's first foot ball team had been organized into a Bible class, with the coach as leader.

Wadsworth on the College.

President Wadsworth brought out strongly the fact that Bellevue college, while distinctly an Omaha institution, was surrounded by a population of over 250,000, considering Omaha, South Omaha, Council Bluffs and suburbs, to all practical purposes, one center of population. It was the only Protestant college within this amalgamated city and deserved its support. The improved street car and railway facilities, he pointed to as superior advantages. Dr.

Wadsworth stated that 90 per cent of the student body were professing Christians. Dr. L. O. Baird, pastor of St. Mary's Avenue Congregational church, an old schoolmate of Dr. Wadsworth, made a very happy "after dinner" speech. Dr. McBride of Central United Presbyterian church pronounced the invocation. The college chorus, male and female quartets, supplied very appropriate music and some financial pledges were made. Miss Hunsberger sang a solo, which, with the other college songs, was heartily applauded. These officers were elected for the year: These officers were elected for the year: President, Rev. E. H. Jenks, D. D., vice president, H. E. Maxwell; secretary, Miss Mary Covert; treasurer, Miss Lucy Dundas.

OMAHA BOY SAVES THE SHOW

Clark Marshall Takes Important Role in "Peck's Bad Boy" at the Krug.

Omaha talent was an attraction on the Krug theater stage Thursday evening at the opening performance of the big frolic, "Peck's Bad Boy," when little Clark Marshall, who was in "Little Lord Fauntleroy" at the Burwood theater some months ago, took the part of Buster, the chum and boon companion of the "bad boy," in place of Beesie Blue. This came about because of the severe illness of Cora Quinlan, who has been the regular Henry Peck of the show on its tour, and who is now confined in bed at the Lange hotel with typhoid fever. This necessitated a rearrangement of the juvenile portion of the cast, which was done without the slightest impairment of the entertainment.

As a fun-producing show "Peck's Bad Boy" must be classed in the front rank, and surely if the object of the author were to please the young and older with a series of just pure pranks and continual jollies, he could not have chosen better material for his leading mischief makers than the bad boy of George W. Peck's famous stories, and Buster as his chum. These two are probably better known than any other characters in the country and are favorites wherever heard of.

Railway Notes and Personal.

W. H. Mann, industrial commissioner of the Burlington, was in Omaha Friday. C. E. Spens, general freight agent of the Burlington, was in Omaha Friday, in connection with the hearing which will open Monday. He will be gone about a week. A special car load of representatives of the National Cash Register company from California passed through Omaha Friday en route to Pasadena, where he will take into himself a wife from the home of millionaires.

A large number of homeseekers will go to Alliance next Tuesday with D. Clem Deaver, head of the Burlington Land-seekers bureau, in search of farms for homes. If all go who have signified their intention, Mr. Deaver will have a large party.

The freight claim department of the Burlington is put under the supervision of the freight auditor and all claims will in the future be made to him. This will change about 150 clerks in the Chicago office from the freight claim to the auditor's department.

GAS AND DAHLMAN THE ISSUE

Southside Younster Hears Gas Tank Conversation While in Barber's Chair.

Thursday evening the 6-year-old son of Street Commissioner Tom Flynn attended Anton Gross' barber shop at Sixteenth and William streets to have the superfluous hair removed from the top of his head, which operation is referred to on the shop window as "Hair cut, 25 cents."

When the boy returned to his father's house the pater-familias inquired of his son what manner of conversation he heard at the barber shop.

"They talked of nothing but gas and Dahlman," the boy replied.

It happened that Tonsorist Gross is on a committee of south siders protesting against the gas tank ordinance now before the mayor.

BIG INCREASE IN BUILDING

Thirty-Seven Per Cent Gain for January Shows by Report of Inspector Withnell.

Building Inspector Withnell's report for January shows an increase of 37 per cent over the same month last year. The report shows: January, 1907, seventy-eight permits, representing a total cost of $128,775; January, 1906, forty-five permits, representing total cost of $124,500. The report makes this notation:

The building operations of last month were the largest of any January in the history of the department, while January last year was the second largest January. Usually very few building permits are taken out in January. Out of the seventy-eight issued last month forty-six were for residential buildings, and two for the new Temple Israel, to cost $50,000.

SITE FOR THAT ROCK PILE

Lot Is Leased by City at Twelfth and Nicholas Streets for Building.

The city has leased a lot at Twelfth and Nicholas streets from the Union Pacific Railroad company for a site for the long-talked-of rock pile shed. The building will be erected next week at a cost of $300. The site is near the city asphalt repair plant.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Fire originating from a defective gas caused damage to the extent of $25 about 2:30 Thursday evening to the home of William J. Park, 810 Worthington Place.

Post A. T. P. A. has decided to postpone its card party at the Commercial club from Saturday to one week from Saturday owing to the death of Charles C. Hunsate.

Carl Reynolds, the young man accused of a number of holdups, including that of Balcon Keeper Wolf on the Dodge street road, last fall, was arraigned in district court Friday and pleaded not guilty. He will be tried the latter part of next week.

The case of the Willis Land company and others against the city of Omaha was decided in the district court in favor of the city and the special paving taxes assessed by the board of equalization on lots front Patrick avenue to Lake street on Twenty-fourth street are held to be a valid lien on the properties.

For the loss of one eye Matteo Scolla wants the Union Pacific railway to pay him $15,000. He filed his petition in district court, setting forth that on November 2, 1905, while he and another employe were working at the Union Pacific shops, the chisel with which they were removing rivets from an engine broke and a piece of steel fell into his left eye, destroying his sight.

The case of August Gerling against the Omaha Packing company has been ordered removed to the United States circuit court from the district court where it was filed. The removal is ordered on a showing of the defendant that it is a civil suit between parties resident in different states. Gerling sued for $5,000 because of injuries which he says he sustained July 5, 1906, while working in the defendant's plant.
