Cardinal Secretary of State Blamed for Some Errors and Other Cardinals Do Not Help Him.

ROME, Pob. 1-(Special.)-Having faithfully attempted to give the situation from the pro-Catholic view point, then from the Anti-Clerical point of view an endeavor will be made to give the American public to understand things as the "middle of the Roaders"-these who are neither Catholic nor anti-Catholio-see them; in other words, from straight news sources.

There is no doubt but that the pope is growing more and more depressed over the situation in France, and in Germany and until recently in Spain. Though it is not fair to picture him as a tottering old man with one foot in the grave, as some of the French newspapers have delighted to make him appear, on the other hand there is no doubt that he feels the weight of advancing years more and more; and there is no doubt but that a man with strong physique is required to cope with the situation, more perhaps than at any time since the Italian , troops marched through the breach of the walls of the Eternal City and the temporal power was at an end. Not even Plus IX could have faced the present situation without bedepressed and all of the diplomacy of a Leo XIII might have been expended in vain. It was undoubtedly something of this feeling that caused the pope to remark, grims recently, mostly from America, that America was a great section; that the condition of the church in the United States had greatly encouraged him during the Money is Scarce. One of the chief anxieties at the Vatican is the want of money. The resources at the disposal of the pope are yearly decreasing, while the claims upon him are growing daily. Peter's pence, which is the main source of revenue, does not yield a quarter of what it used to do. Formerly France was the chief contributor, but now that the church in that country is passing through troubled waters it has all that It can possibly do to make both ends meet. and is not able to send a centime to to Rome. On the contrary the French clergy are even appealing to Rome for financial mlaunderstandings between France and the pope has deprived the French church at one swoop of an annual vation. All the church property has been sequestrated by the government and in-these troubles have a wearing effect upon the pope and that the effect upon his health One curious result of all of these papal is that Pope Leo XIII will be deprived of many funeral honors. The popes are all finally interred in the church of St. John Lateran. The first burial in St. Peter's is only temporary. The transference of the remains is generally made the object of a gorgeous ceremonial. But since Plus X came to the throne fearing to cause revival of discussions over many subjects, the remains of Leo XIII, will, it is under-

Even the cierical organs admit that behind the apostolic palace silent walls there is a feeling that the present contro versy with Prance has been a mistake. The most prominent cardinals, including Agliardi, Satolli, Ferrata, the brothers

Vannutelli and even the aged Oreglia, do not restrain their attacks upon the secretary of state for his policy concerning France. Even Cardinai Merry del Val. 1 is said, feeling his position shaken, has lost his calm. Certain polemical articles in the Observatore Romano have even been attributed to him and as a consequence considerable feeling has been manifested, the idea being that no matter how bitter these attacks of the redicals against the Ellen Terry Hustles; Winter Sports secretary of state, the secretary of state on the Ice; Long House Indian ought not to have dignified them with a New Year Celebration; Carpenter Even Cardinal Merry del Val's friends admit that if things do not change for the Experiment with Radium Dr. J. T. Bottomley, F. R. S., recently exhibited a radium section at a meeting of the Glasgow Section of Electrical Engineers, which is still being discussed by Some Notes for the Women; Weekly Grist the Scottish scientists. He described a plece of apparatus invented by the Hon. Robin Strutt, F. R. S., eldest son of Lord very remarkable way some of the proper ties of radium. A pair of gold leaves, after the manner of a gold leaf electroscope, are hung from the bottom of a smal tube containing a small amount of bromide of radium. The radium tube is supported from the top of the glass cover of the apparatus by a little bar of fused quarts, which is a nearly perfect insulator. The radium tube itself is coated with a pasty solution of phosphoric scid, which makes it con ductive. As the very active beta emanation escapes through the walls of the radium tubes, the alpha radiation creeps down and electrifies the gold leaves, which thereupon diverge. When they have diverged sufficiently they touch two aluminum plates on the two sides of the cover and discharge themselves, and this action goes on periodically, the leaves being charged and discharged (in the apparatus shown) in three and one-quarter minutes It is to be noted that the vessel which contains this apparatus is highly evacuated by means of a sprengel pump, the air

Natural Resources of Southern Republic Attract Attention of Investors of London.

LONDON, Peb. 2-(Special.)-An efective movement is on foot to develop the esources of the Republic of Mexico and Mr. John W. De Kay is now here as the advance agent of the movement. The first proposition which Mr. De Kay has taken up is the Mexican National Packing company, which is establishing in three states of Mexico three large packing houses, each with a capacity of 3,500 cuttle, 3,500 hogs and 3,500 sheep weekly. Mr. De Kay, however, insists that this is only the beginning and that in the not far distant future Mexico will be able to undersell the world in the matter of meat products.

Among the persons said to be interested in the movement may be mentioned Hon. Sebastian Camacho, president of the National Bank of Mexico and vice president of the federal senate; Hon. Luis Mendon president of the Mexican government railway commission and the foremost lawyer in the republic: Hon. J. M. COMMENT OF THE LONDON PAPERS

British Government Circles Have Given Little Consideration to Controversy and Regarded as Unimportant.

TOKIO, Feb. 2-(Afternoon.)-Baron Kantaro Kaneko, a distinguished member of the Japanese house of peers and a special ambassador recently detailed by the imstudy political and economic conditions there, has just been interviewed on the San Francisco school question. In the course of an interview he said:

"From the outset I knew it to be a local question, unindorsed by American public opinion, and I have been speaking of it to my friends in that light. This is more than confirmed by President Roosevelt's message, which I consider the greatest utterance since the farewell message of President Washington It is unprecedented in the way it so strongly advocates a foreign cause. No stronger or abler advocate could message bearing on the school question was fully translated in the leading papers throughout this country, even in the island of Formosa one could readily see and appreciate the profoundness of his arguments. Had the question risen elsewhere the crisis would have occurred and loud defiance have been uttered for the length and breadth of the empire.
