Dr. Stuart Dickson Says Christian College Bred Man is in Demand.

JEW LEADERS IN HIGHER EDUCATION

Ninety Per Cent of the Students in College of New York City, He Says, Are Hebrews.

Dr. James Stuart Dickson, secretary of the college board of the Presbyterian church, who made an address at the Bellevue College Thursday night at the Millard hotel, dwelt considerably upon the fact that the college bred man today is in demand not only in educational and religious lines of work, but in ordinary commercial channels. On this point he said:

"That man who discredits the power and influence of a college education is a back number; he was always on the defensive. The world is crying today for the college-bred man. He is in demand in every channel of business activity. This should teach us the lesson of the importance of college education."

He had much to say then of the success of nationalities of people who pursue college courses and declared:

"We have much to learn from the object lesson set us by the Jews. In the German empire for every 10,000 Jews 350 of them take the college course, and the ratio with other classes is wonderfully small by comparison. I asked John Finlay, president of the College of New York City, recently what percentage of the students of his institution were Jews. He rather shamefacedly replied: 'About 6 per cent.' I happen to know now that about 90 per cent of the students of that college are Jews. Think of it, 90 per cent. That is a fact. What does it mean? It means the Jews know what they want, what they need, what they are living for. They have a definite, fixed purpose in life and they are going about attaining that purpose in a systematic, business-sort way. And the Jews are a successful, law-abiding people."

While Dr. Dickson did not advert to it, the lesson of the life of President John Finlay himself might have furnished another illustration for one of the doctor's points. Dr. Finlay's career reads like a novel, though it has no yellow in it. He was graduated from Knox college, Galesburg, Ill. During the years he spent there as a student he earned his way by tending the president's horse and cow, and later by working at the printing trade. While a student he attained oratorical powers. He once won the marked distinction of first place in the interstate oratorical contest, a contest held annually between representatives of colleges in ten middle west states and an honor which is considered great indeed. Senator LaFollette once won it. Within a very few years, four or five, after his graduation he was called to the high station of presidency of Knox. That position he held for a similar period, when his old classmate, McClure, tendered him the offer of editor of the new McClure magazine at a tempting salary. He accepted. He held that position one year, when he went to Princeton to fill the new chair of politics. He remained there until he was called to the presidency of the College of New York City.

The twenty-seventh annual state convention of the Young Men's Christian associations of Nebraska will be held at Columbus February 7, 8, 9 and 10. On Thursday evening a banquet will be served for the delegates. Among the speakers of the evening are Mayor G. W. Phillips of Columbus, Rev. Robert F. Coyne of Denver and L. W. Carpenter of Omaha. Others who will take part on the program of the convention are Fred S. Goodman, religious secretary of the international committee of New York City; W. H. Day, international railroad secretary of Chicago; W. J. Hill and Charles M. Mayne of Lincoln; G. A. Young, general secretary, Young Men's Christian association, South Omaha; G. G. Wallace and Carl Nagle of Omaha. The address Saturday evening will be given by Dean G. A. Beecher of Trinity cathedral of Omaha on the subject, "Our Boys and the Civic Problems of the Future." The address Sunday evening will be by Dr. W. O. Henry of Omaha on "Why the Young Men's Christian Association for Columbus?"

The music of the convention will be in charge of W. Ernest Johnson of Omaha, assisted by the Crete Young Men's Christian Association quartet.

The local association will be represented by a full quota of delegates.

Sections have been selected to fill vacancies that have existed for several months in two Episcopal churches of Omaha, that at St. Mathias, Tenth street and Worthington place, and St. John's, Twenty-sixth and Franklin streets. Rev. Burt C. Chandler, a nephew of the late Bishop Coakley Arthur L. Williams has been selected to the rectorship of St. John's Episcopal church and will hold the first service in his new pastorate Sunday morning. He was called on and accepted the pastorate of the church on January 1, but was unable to come to Omaha until recently on account of his duties at his former parish at Nebraska City. Rev. Mr. Chandler was born in Maine and educated at the university of that state and also at the General Theological seminary at New York City, from which institution he graduated in 1905 and accepted a call to the parish at Nebraska City. He was also educated at the Boston Manual Training school and was principal of the Detroit Manual Training school for several years before taking holy orders. Rev. Mr. Chandler was elected to the vacancy caused by the resignation of Rev. L. B. Hopkins, who was called to a parish at Fond du Lac, Wis.

The new rector at St. Mathias' church, Rev. Addison E. Knickerbocker, will not assume charge of the affairs of the parish until about February 13 and is making preparations to hold his first service on Ash Wednesday.

The Institute of the Douglas County Sunday School association will be held Monday and Tuesday, February 4 and 5, in the Sunday school rooms of the First Baptist church, Twenty-ninth and Harney streets. Elaborate programs for the entertainment and instruction of the delegates have been prepared by the committee in charge in conjunction with the president of the association, George G. Wallace.

The first session of the institute will be held Monday evening at 8 o'clock, when Clifford C. Westcott of Plattsmouth, Mrs. Edna Conkling of the First Methodist Episcopal church, S. P. Boatwick of St. Mary's Avenue Congregational church and Prof. H. H. Steidley will address the delegates.

A meeting for the women of the organization will be held at 3 p. m. Tuesday, and the Tuesday evening session will be in charge of T. F. Sturgess. Rev. R. L. Purdy, pastor of the Clifton Hill Presbyterian church, G. W. Noble, C. E. Johnson of South Omaha and others will speak at the evening meeting.

A large attendance is anticipated and the meetings are being looked forward to with a great deal of anticipation by those interested in the work.

MORRILL STICKS TO THE LAW

Will Not Permit Marriage Without Written Consent of Parents of Minors.

George L. Wehrhahn of Council Bluffs went to the Douglas county court house, to get a license yesterday afternoon to permit him to wed Mary A. Hall. The young man was only 19 years of age, and when Mr. Morrill learned that fact the making out of the license stopped. In vain the youth pointed out that he was accompanied by his mother and in vain his mother, pointed out that she had given her permission for the marriage. Mr. Morrill held out for strict compliance with the statute, which demands that the written consent of the father be given, and the license was not secured.
