Omaha Makes Flattering Showing for Year in Markets of World.

TEN MILLION BUSHELS GAIN IN RECEIPTS

Finishes Third as Corn Market and is One of the Few Showing Increase in Live Stock Business.

Omaha made a flattering showing for 1906 both as a grain and a live stock market, and the fact is demonstrated in the December report and annual summary of the bureau of statistics, Department of Commerce and Labor, just received at the office of the Omaha Grain exchange.

The report of the department says: For the year grain receipts at fifteen interior primary markets aggregated 1,702,721,656 bushels, exceeding those of 1905 by approximately 250,000 bushels and those of 1904 by about 800,000 bushels.

Division of the Total. The total movement was divided into 243,735,668 bushels of wheat, 242,722,716 corn, 223,300,229 oats, 63,469,390 barley, 9,304,282 rye.

Receipts of live stock at interior primary markets during 1906, while they exceeded to a small extent similar activities in 1905, showed an appreciable decrease during the last few months of the year.

Regarding live stock the department says: Receipts of live stock at interior primary markets during 1906, while they exceeded to a small extent similar activities in 1905, showed an appreciable decrease during the last few months of the year.

A large meerschaum pipe, over 100 years old, which at one time furnished comfort for Blucher, the Prussian general whose timely arrival at the battle of Waterloo turned the fortunes against Napoleon, is an interesting relic that has come into the hands of George E. FAKE DENIED AT BOTH ENDS

Yarn of Attempted Kidnaping Repudiated by Mr. and Mrs. Bassett.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Edward F. Colby, care Mrs. G. Street, Omaha, Neb. Dispatch from Omaha in Evening Times here today represents Charles C. Bassett as being in Omaha. He is in this city and is at my house now. He has been in this city all the past week.

"This telegram was received last night," said John F. Stout, of counsel for Mr. Bassett, Saturday morning. "It ought to be rebuke sufficient for the fake story published by the World-Herald to the effect that Mr. Bassett was in Omaha and trying to kidnap his children. There never was the slightest foundation for the silly yarn in the first place."

Mr. Gorham has been secretary in the United States senate for many years. Mrs. Bassett said the story of the "kidnaping" was manufactured out of whole cloth without the least truth in it.

Who the neighbor was did not develop. At the office of Mrs. Bassett's attorneys, the sheriff sent a man to the house, but he returned without finding the least suspicious circumstance. The paper even insinuated that "kidnaping" was Mr. Bassett's home. He is in this city and is at my house now.

Mr. Bassett is expected to arrive in the city early next week. Judge Redick expects to finish the Bassett trial by the end of next week. The question of the jurisdiction of the local court in view of the decision of the Washington justices may be taken up when Mrs. Bassett's side of the case has been all presented, or it may not be broached until all evidence from both sides is in.

Mr. Bassett's attorneys are positive that they stand right on the law, and if Judge Redick should try to give Mrs. Bassett a decree, they would appeal to the supreme court of the United States.
