Eupreme Court Uphoids Validity of the Amendment to Constitution.

LAW IS SUBSTANTIALLY COMPLIED WITH

Court Also Holds that Commissioners Elected at the Same Time Have a Valid Right to Their Offices.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. II .- (Special.)-The amendment to the constitution providing for a state railway commission adopted by the people of Nebruska at the last general election, was legally adopted and the men who were elected at the same election to serve as commissioners were legally elected. This the supreme court decided this aftermoon in the test case brought by the at torney general at the request of the legislature. The opinion was written by Chief Justice Sedgwick. The syllabus follows:

Justice Sedgwick. The syllabus follows:

1. The self-imposed limitations on the power of the people to amend their fundamental law should not be so construed as to defeat the will of the people, plainly expressed, on account of a slight and shimportant failure to comply literally with such limitations, if the requirements are substantially observed.

2. The constitution requires that when proposed amendments thereto are submitted to a vote of the people, said proposed amendment shall be published at least once each week in at least one newspaper in each county where a newspaper in each county where a newspaper in published, for three months immediately preceding the next election of senators and representatives, at which election the same shall be submitted to the elections for approval or rejection. Where there is a substantial compliance with this requirement, the fact that the publication was made for one week less than the required time in one county of the state will not invalidate the amendment.

3. The manner of voting upon a constitutional amendment and the general conduct of the election are for the legislature to provide, subject to the limitation that "when more than one amendment is submitted at the amme election, they shall be so submitted as to enable the electors to when more than one amendment is submitted at the same election, they shall be so submitted as to enable the electors to vote on such amendment separately. And when the legislature by resolution submits such question at a general election as required by the constitution it will be presumed that the legislature intends that the requirements of the general election law are to be observed.

4. When such amendment to the constitution creates a public office, such office may be filled by a vote of the electors at the same election at which the amendment is adopted.

5. The act of 1961 (session laws, chapter

There's no good reason for any man's remaining a dyspeptic-a burden to himself and family, when he should be a producer. There's only one reason why he has been a dyspeptic and that is because he has overworked his stomach so that it cannot secrete the juices and work the muscles necessary to digest the food.

What the dyspeptic must do is to help the stomach out. It is full of a poisonous plie of fermenting, nauseating food. Instead of being assimiliated and carried by the blood to make nerve and musele and rebuild the Waste tissues, it lies there inactive.

Thaw, his face buried in his hands, might usily have been out of the court room picture today and none would have missed him. All eyes were upon the witness chair and the slight figure to blue which accurried it. During the morning and at all times heretofore Mrs. Thaw has had to sit on the edge of the chair in order that her feet might reach the floor. To make her morning: Oats. At the close of the most eventful day of the trial, Mr. Jerome announced that he ecommodate out of town witnesses he pondent Steinauer Star. would hold court tomorrow and Saturday.

Jerome is Merciless. There was no subject affecting the witof the world, all the while requiring that she should recognize and own the fault in her own words.

When Mr. Jerome was flaying Mrs. Thaw with questions as to her relations with White, demanding to know every detail, and while bitter tears were welling to her eyes, two newspaper women accustomed to harsh scenes of life, hastily left the court room and made a hasty retreat out of the big portals. At last the prosecutor himself rejented somewhat and suggested that the proceedings suspend.

Mr. Delmas thought he detected an unfavorable slant to this and protested that the witness would be able to proceed. Mrs. Thaw wiped her eyes, stiffened up a bit and nodded to Mr. Jerome to proceed. After bringing out that her relations with White continued for some time, Mr. Jerome went deeper. Mrs. Thaw admitted that in 1900, after the return from Europe, she spent the night at Thaw's apartments in New York and that for three weeks he and she occupied connecting apartments at the Grand Hotel here.

Mrs. Thaw admitted freely that the champagne which she had declared had tasted bitter the night she lost consciousness in the mirrored bedroom was no more bitter than any other champagne she had drunk. In fact she declared it tasted like all the rest and denied that she had intended for the jury to assume otherwise.

her most damaging statement to the defendant when she said he had showed her copies of cablegrams sent to Stanford influence with a certain man in London to prevent Mrs. Neshit from interfering with Evelyn continuing in Thaw's company.

Mrs. Thaw also was forced to admit that when she and her mother went abroad with Thaw in 1965 they were still drawing upon the bounty of Stanfard White. Evelyn declared she had a letter of credit for falled at the Grand Army spelling school from Mr. Waterhouse and that the assist-$400 or $500 which was given to her by White at Fraternal hall last Thursday night to ance of the club was solicited. A letter written by Mrs. Thaw in 1904 and telling of her gay life in Paris with egram. George A. Sileby, national bank Harry Thaw and a "bunch from the Tenderioin," was read to the jury by Mr. Jerome. This brought out more testimony as to "The Dead Rat," a Parisian cafe. There seemed to be nothing in the witness' past life about which the prosecutor was not informed. He seemed to have for the reason of the strenuous life rebeen able to trace her every step, largely due, doubtiess, to the typewritten statement of the mother which Mr. Jerome hurling questions at the daughter. In month or two in examining the national single-spaced typewriting the statement seems to cover fully seventy-five pages.

Mr. Delmas sent a genuine thrill through the court room by declaring that he had been informed it was the purpose of the district attorney to indict Mrs. Thaw. Mr. Jerome denied that any such statements had been made, but did not deny the purpose. This incident came about near the close of the forenoon session when Mr. Jerome, in an effort to make the defense produce ment in Bonesteel over the prospects for certain letters from Stanford White which snother rush to this part of South Dakota. Adjournment Intil Monday. Just after the lunckeon recess the district attorney wanted permission to discontinue the cross examination of Mrs. Thaw long enough to take the testimony of Drs. Deemar of Kittanning, Pa., and Singham of Pittsburg, both of whom are to testify as to traces of insanity in both branches of the defendant's family. Mr. Jerome said he was informed the physicians were about to leave the jurisdiction of the court.

Now that the $2,000 for the statue of braham Lincoln to be erected in the high school grounds is in hand it is time that the Omaha Woman's club should be exonerated from the exceedingly awkward osition in which it has been placed in the whole matter. The club has been accused of "butting in," and the impression seems to have gone abroad generally that the women have sought to take the lead in this project that so essentially belongs to the pupils of the high school.

As a matter of fact, the club has been the victim of an awkward blunder, and has been unable to vindicate itself because of the peculiar position of its member as mothers of the students and at the same time sponsors of a school the dignity and discipline of which-as mothers-they were

A committee was appointed to devise a working plan, but in the meantime the women learned that the high school EXAMINER RESIGNS students had not been consulted regarding any plan for the statue, and one after another the members resigned. A dignified silence was the only course left open to the club. A committee was finally gotten together under the chairmanship of the member who had originally presented the matter to the club, and it was finally arranged that the students be allowed to raise the entire amount for the statue. This plan, when reported to the club at last Monday's meeting, met hearty ap-

Three hundred and thirty-three new members were added to the association during the campaign of the past two weeks, these embership fees being counted in on building fund, which was increased $1,664 thereby. Twenty-eight life memberships at $25 each were among this number and a number of sustaining memberships at # each. The membership of the association has come to exceed 2,000 during the past year, but memberships are constantly expiring, and prompt renewal will be necessary if the association retains its place of fourth in the United States in point of numbers.

One of the busiest months in the history of the Visiting Nurses' association was reported at the business meeting Thursday afternoon. Fifty-seven patients have been cared for, necessitating 420 visits. Ten patients have been sent to the hospitain and there were nine deaths. The time of meeting was changed from 4 p. m. to 19:39
