pursue in securing an adjustment of the tween a Great Western freight train and water works question resulted in an exceedingly stormy session of the city coun-cil yesterday afternoon. Resolved, by the city council of Council Bluffs, That it be the sense of the council that the special water committee acting for this body, shall in its negotiations with the Council Bluffs City Water Works company consider the value of the water plant owned by said company to be not in excess of the valuation placed upon said plant by our consulting engineer and expert, W. Kiersted, namely, 5500,948.

Letter from Manager Hart. The communication from Manager Hart was as follows:

Was as follows:

We regret very much that the council has thought best to accept its expert's appraisement as an arbitrary figure, which the water works committee must use in its negotiations with the water company for purchase and contract. This action of the council as we understand it limits the water committee to buying the water plant at exactly the one-man appraisement or water committee to buying the water plant at exactly the one-man appraisement or adopting a rate schedule based upon this set valuation. It is beyond our ability to understand the necessity or the justice of any such act on the part of the council in view of the fact that the expert who fixed this value says in his letter of February 18, 1807, that "some items of this inventory are based upon meager data, etc.," and "I C. Whatever delay there was after that was caused by the holding back of the details of the report. These details were wanted so that the valuation on the different parts of the plant might be arranged so that they could be compared understandingly by others than expert persons. others than expert persons.

Mr. Alvord was requested to classify his values in the same manner that had been followed by Mr. Kiersted, all of which Mr. Alvord did, so far as possible, at considerable expense to this company and to the more comprehensive understanding of the persons who took the trouble to compare these venets.

The principal delay was occasioned by the inability of this company to obtain a copy of Mr. Kiersted's report to submit to ir. Alvord as a form for the arrangement at classification of his data upon which e was to fix the values as found by him. Mr Alvord's principal values were found refore Mr. Kiersted's report was known to the public or to the water committee.

Unfortunately the progress of this question toward a settlement is seriously checked by this refusal on the part of the council to consider any figure except the one given by Mr. Kiersted and the further refusal on the part of the council to have the city's engineer confer with the company's engineer as to quantifies that may have been figured in error.

The water company still stands in the same position on the question of contract or sale as it did when on August I, 1965, it made a proposition to the city council to sell its property to the city at such price as might be agreed upon by a board of appraisment selected by the city and company, which method of appraisment has been adopted and used herecofore without exception by other cities in settling like problems; or on the other hand if the city did not desire to buy, to treat with the city in the matter of contract or rates, granting the city the right to purchase at any time it should find itself able.

at any time it should find itself able.

Willing to Come Half Way.

This proposition was accepted by the council on October 23, 1905, and after that some progress was made toward the carrying out of the requisite steps toward the making of a contract for a tentative franchise and eventual purchase. These efforts on the part of the special water committee and the water company came to a sudden conclusion at the time the Board of Aldermen changed and the new special water committee met and repudiated all acts of the former special water committee. Since that time the water company has done all in its power to bring this question to a conclusion satisfactory to city and company alike. As evidence of the truth of this statement you have only to read the last few lines of your expert's report in which he says "and I take occasion to express my appreciation of the facilities and assistance courteously extended by the superintendent of the water works in the work of compiling an inventory of the physical property."

The water company is now and always has been willing to do its full share of the giving as well as its share of the taking and there must be some give and take in all bargains however small or however large. Under the circumstances it would not be unreasonable to hope that the council would be able to see that the share and security holders of the water company would not be willing to accept a valuation far below the appealsement of the expert that the company had employed to find the real value of its property or would they be sainfled with a price that the city's expert himself says may be subject to modification.

The water company does not want it understood that it has any criticism to Willing to Come Half Way.

expert himself says may be subject to modification.

The water company does not want it understood that it has any criticism to make of the honesty of Mr. Kiersted's report, but on the contrary it wishes to constraining the city on its good fortune in having received such a comprehensive and conscientiously prepared statement. The water company does, however, want it understood that it believes that the city's engineer is just as human as the company's engineer and hence just as liable to error. It is the earnest wish of the water company that the council will see fit to reconsider its recent action and take some forward step toward the ultimate settlement of the water question.
