DOCTORS FOR MEN

THE RELIABLE SPECIALISTS

Do You Lack Energy?

Some men are classed lary, shiftless, unreliable, careless; they lack ambitton, energy and courage and are disheartened, who really can't help being tired, worn-out and a miscrable failure. Many of these men are in failing health, unable to determine the nature of their allments, and their condition baffless their physician, too. They never know the happiness of being ingilitrated with the vinn, vigor and energy possessed by healthy men and which is so essential to achieve a marked success in life. The sufferer may cat well, sleep well and possibly never complain, but an unaccountable languer clings to him which he cannot shake off, robbing him of all ambitton for business or pleasure. Nervous Debility will account for this condition in a large majority of cases. Men who find that the condition we have described corresponds with the condition of their own health should consult the eminent specialists of the State Medical Institute without unnecessary delay, Come to our office and we will make a thorough, searching and scientific examination of your aliments free of charge, an examination that will disclose your true physical condition, without a knowledge of which you are groping in the dark and without a thorough understanding of which no physician or specialist should treat you.

The Trained Nurse. OMAHA, Feb. 21 .- To the Editor of The Bee: The daily criticism upon her shortcomings, the deep and widespread dissatinfaction felt at the lack of thoroughness in the work of the nurse has led me to ask myself the reason why. I hear on all sides "inefficiency, superficiality and lack of thoroughness.

Where is the difficulty? I ask the public to be kinder to the nurse herself by inquiring into the causes that bring down such appellations upon her head. Suppose we inquire regarding the hospitals and the training schools from which they say they hold a diploma. Those who give thought to this subject know that there the first responsibility lies. The hospitals are entirely responsible for the class of women they graduate as The so-called training schools of the hospitals in the city of Omaha are graduating women as nurses who could not possibly pass the state examination of those states wherein the state registration law is in effect, and they are neighboring It behooves the state of Nebraska to fall in lise, but it can never do so as long as the present standard of nursing continues and that standard is due to the medical profession who are willing to accept the services of so-called trained nurses. In the hospitals of this city surgery is the predominate feature. The women become proficient in the technique of the operating room, but they absolutely lack the technique of the sick room. They cannot even give a bath intelligently; they appreciate nothing of the necessity of smallest details, delicate considerations and gentle, refined thoughtfulness. Nor is or of discipline taught; a professional atvery general ignorance and helplessness in "Oh, is that so, boys, some of you in a branch of knowledge that from time imwoman's stronghold-that of household

(She must be a woman of keen preceptions, of observation, of judgment, of an educated mind and of experience, because the physiclan depends upon her to furnish the information needed to enable him to give the necessary orders." Are the schools of Omaha sending forth women possessing even one-third of such requirements? Are they offering adequate instructions and opportunities to those whom they have in training and who in probability would meet those qualifications-if given the broad, modern training? I contend it is rank injustice to the woman to let her leave under the false impression of being a graduate nurse. No words can express the injustice of it to the profession of nursing. Above all, what of the public? Is it to be the victim of this inefficiency, super-ficiality, lack of thoroughness? Do the hospitals think for one moment that their

> The Omaha hospitals have much to learn. If the medical profession and the public continue to allow the present standard to exist it lies with those nurses who have the love of their profession to come forward and demand that their profession be recognized as a profession, demand that superintendents of the hospitals broaden and improve the existing conditions. All work demands a standard by which to estimate its usefulness and test its power. It follows that there should be an established rule by which the education of nurses may be measured. It is the duty of the graduate nurses in Omaha who appreciate this to make that rule, work for and the public understand that there is a and the public understand that there is a standard of nursing and that you stand for that and refuse to acknowledge any other.
