FREMONT-J. Lutro, guardian of Ole Ramstad, has brought suit in the district court to set aside a deed given by his ward to James McVicker of this county, on the ground of fraud and want of consideration, to a tract of land of the value of $15,000. He alleges that Ramstad, who is quite old, is in feeble health and had implicit confidence in McVicker, who without any consideration persuaded the old man to give him the property.
RULO-Dock Davis, a bartender in his brother's, Edward Davis' saloon, undertook to quiet Walter Paimer. In doing so he struck across the bar with a piece of gaspipe and hit Paimer in the head. Davis ran around the bar and dealt Paimer several more blows over the head with his plece of gaspipe, fracturing the skull. Paimer lay in a semi-conficients condition for many days, but the prospects now for his recovery look brighter.

The ceremony was at the Baptist church, after which a reception was held at the Doty home. The rooms were deco-rated in white and pink. Mr. and Mrs. Burke immediately left for their home in North Platte. Mr. Burke is a member of the clothing firm of Burke & Schats. VALLEY—While A. C. Hull, a farmer living northwest of Valley, was hauling corn to the seed house his team became frightened and ran away. Mr. Hull lost control of them and as they turned a cor-ner he was thrown from the wagon, and, as his feet were entangled with the lines, he was dragged along until they were stopped. He was taken to the hotel and it is not yet certain how seriously he is hurt.
