PRESENT CENTURY ONE OF CONQUEST

Rev. J. W. Conley Says Churches Are Drawing Closer Together, but Permanent Unity Must Be Based on Christ.

"Is Christ Increasing in His Church" was the topic of the Sunday morning sermon by Rev. J. W. Conley of the First Baptist church, who took as his text the words of John, when he said, "He must increase, but I must decrease." Although John was an extraordinary character, when the Savior came the multitude turned from John to Christ. John explained that was what he intended should happen, and said He must increase, but I must decrease. John saw that the needs of the world were that Christ should have a large place in the thoughts of meq.

"Christ is influencing philosophy and all great educational movements and henevo-lent institutions which had practically no existence until Christ appeared. The case of every individual depends upon the growing of Christ within.

"Is there a growing recognition of Christ in His church? Some say yes, and some say no. We are justified in saying yes if there is a growing unity among God's people. The burden of Christ's heart was the unity of His people. Christ cannot be the author of discord, and if He had His proper place in the church there would not be 150 denominations and divisions in this country. Whatever may be the difference in creed, if we have the spirit of Christ we will be brothers in Christ.

The principal difference in creed is simply a difference in principle. Christ came to bear witness of truth. It should not be a question of what Luther or Calvin say, but of what Christ says. If we would come to the central thought of magnifying Christ we would be better off.

The churches of God are drawing closer together and less and less separates the different denominations. The movement to evangelize the world is coming to the front. But unity to be permanent must be based on Christ. If a church loses sight of the central thought of Christ its works will fall

WAY OF THE CROSS THE ONLY WAY Other Roads Lead to Other Crowns

Than that of Heaven. John F. Poucher, pastor of Seward Street Methodist Episcopal church, yesterday morning delivered an interesting discourse on "The Cross." Rev. Mr. Poucher explained that while worldly crowns are sometimes won by mere chance or chicanery, there is but one way to the heavenly crown, and that is through the cross of Jesus Christ.

"The cross has long been symbolical of life. Historians agree that the cross on which the Savior was crucified was made of the tree of life," the minister said.

"Jesus has told us to take up His cross and follow Him daily. Today the cross of Christ means immortal life. To every true Christian it means sacrifice, devotion and life everlasting, by obedience to the laws of God. We must bear the cross to receive the crown. Luck and fortune play a part in worldly affairs, but in the spiritnal life there is no such thing as chance. Jehus takes no advantage of men's ignorance, and He sets forth in plain and unmistakable language that everyone must deny himself and take up his cross. There are no favored ones-there is the one life Guy W. Wadsworth, D. D., president of Bellevue college. The pulpit was filled by Dr. Wadsworth on account of the departure of the former pastor, Rev. Hubert C. Herring, D. 'With this message we are shown God's uirements of men," said Dr. Wadsworth. "It tells us practically all that God requires of you and me. For we live in the midst of a world when men sometimes forget the the necessity, nay the privilege, of walking humbly with their God. The world will never grow old enough to grow away from this kind of gospel-let us do justly. This is an age of the square-deal, which is referred to in our text. A square deal in business in politics, in government, in all the relations between man and man. First, that every man is to be just in the sight of God and man. "That men have possibilities to advance the work of the church distinct from those of women is indicated by history," said Rev. Mr. Hosman, "The first announcement of the advent of Christ was given to men; Christ chose men for his apostles; with the early church the masculine element was very pronounced; and since then the strong movements have been championed and marshalled by men. A passive, monastic, feminine type of religion has never appealed to men.

"The underlying principle of the brotherhood is to emphasize the masculine element in church work. This men's movement is fast becoming world-wide. The pioneer in this is the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, organized in 1883, and is confined exclusively to the Episcopal church. The Brotherhood of Andrew and Philip was started in 1888 and is now interdenominational, represented in twenty-three different communions. In Methodism, prior to 1898, there were twelve or more different brotherhoods. These have been merged into two, the St. Paul's, with 600 chapters and 30,000 members, and the Wesley, with 500 chapters and 20,000 members. The Men's League of the United Presbyterian and Presbyterian Brotherhood of America of the Presbyterian church were both organized last

Oity Engineer Rosewater Enbmits Expla-

City Engineer Rosewater has sent the following letter to the Omaha Commercial

coub:

OMAHA, Feb. 29.—To the Executive Committee of the Commercial Club: Inasmuch as members of the city council, through the city attorney, have presented a request that the Commercial club should use its influence in opposition to the passage of H. R. 157, as recommended to be passed by the committee of the whole of the house of representatives, I deem it proper to submit a general outline of the provisions of that bill, together with the reasons which prompted the drafting of the bill, and trust that in doing so I will have fully answered all the points that have been raised in connection therewith.

The main feature of this bill is the authority of the city engineer to employ men and teams and all persons connected with his department without submitting their names for confirmation to the city council. This step has been found necessary in order to remove the management of the public works department from the influences of politics and place it on a sound business basis. No business house could be successfully managed if the general manager, who had the employing of laborers and teams, were compelled to submit the name of each laborer and owner of each team to a directory of the company, which he represented, before he company, which he represented, before he company, which he represented, before he company, which he represented before he could act thereon. Especially would this be the case where the employment of teams or men, as is often the case with the city, is for a few days only.

Favored List Idea Exploded.

Favored List Idea Exploded.

The operation under the present law is such that if a paving gang is employed upon the street and has a roller man going over the surface as it is laid, if such roller man suddenly quits, all work must necessarily be stopped and the material that is on hand wasted, until a session of the mayor and council can be held to act upon the name of a new roller man, who cannot be employed until his name is confirmed. If the name of this roller man is unsatisfactory to some members of the council, it is relerred to a committee and a week usually must pass before the confirmation is acted upon. In the meantime the entire interests of the city must suffer. The same is the case where a gang of men is employed and a few extrateams are needed to carry on the work as it progresses.

It has been claimed that the council can have a large number of teamsters and teams submittled and approve the same and the engineer, therefore, can select from this list, so that he need never wait for the action of the council to enable him to proceed properly with his work.

This assumption in itself shows a pernicious condition of affairs—that laborers and teams must be branded with the words "Favored List" before their engagement can be considered. If it so happens that these laborers and teams are needed on a rallroad nearby, as is frequently the case, the fact that they are on the "favored list" does not assist the engineer in carrying on the work, he must hunt up such men as are available and as a result, must walt until a new list is approved.

Such a procedure is unprecendented and cannot be found existing in any city in the United States. The practice is pernicious and unwarranted from a sound business standpoint.

Politics in the Payroll.

It will be cialined that if the council Favored List Idea Exploded.

Politics in the Payroll.

It will be claimed that if the council does not have to confirm such employes, the engineer can use these men for political purposes without any check whatever. As a matter of fact, the reverse is true-the moment that the engineer is compelled to have the sanction of the council for every employe he must, to get such approval, subordinate the matter of employment of men and teams to matters of friendship and polities with the city council, as against public interests.

Aside from this the bill in question contains special provisions making it a misdemeanor for the engineer, or any foreman or employe under him, in any way to solicit or urge political action of any kind on the part of those under them or as-Politics in the Payroll.

man or employe under him, in any way to solicit or urge political action of any kind on the part of those under them or associated with them in public works.

This is the first step that has yet been taken to prohibit and eliminate politics from the public service in the execution of public works.

Independent of the employment of laborers and foremen upon work on the streets, the requirement that the council shall confirm appointees for inspectorships upon public works is pernicious, because it compels the engineer to compromise with different members of the council and give way to the employment of incompetent persons solely because they are political friends of the mayor or council members, to whom the latter owe a political debt or desire to use the "appointing power" to pay the same.

It also admits of manipulation by contractors, who wield political power, to secure the appointment of such class of inspectors as are specially favorable to themselves. This results to the detriment of the public service. The engineer naturally, to protect his own reputation in the execution of works which he designs, is desirous of securing good work that will reflect to his credit. This he cannot do if he is hampered in that manner.

Economy in Employment.

Economy in Employment.

It frequently happens that a few men and teams can be conveniently employed in making slight repairs of sidewalks or holes in the street. This can be done by the use of a few of the men and teams permanently engaged on street work without the employment of special persons for a few hours at a time, whereas in the absence of such consolidation and the division of authority as it now exists, the engineer is obliged to delay necessary repairs on permanent work and await the action of the council in confirming authority to employ men and teams for such repair work.

action of the council in confirming authority to employ men and teams for such repair work.

It has been claimed by the city attorney that under the proposed law, which cuts off the right of the council to confirm or reject appointments of employes and teams, that there is no check whatever on the engineer's expenditure of money. The utter absurdity of this proposition can be seen when your attention is called to the fact that every person employed must have his name placed upon a weekly pay roll, and that pay roll must be approved by the mayor and council and a warrant issued through the city comptroller before any money can be received. Thus not a single employe can be paid nor any expenditure incurred without the filing of every detail with the city comptroller and the approval by the mayor and council. The engineer handles no money whatever, not a dollar of even fees is permitted to be paid to the engineer or any of his employes under the law. All fees so directly to the city treasurer and the department simply receives a copy or certificate of such payment to the city treasurer.

In the matter of inspection of public works the confirming power of the council has been specifically parnoloses in the council

fith-west at I makes see because large contractors always exercise a large influence with members of the council, owing to their political influence as employers of men. They can and have often prucured the rejection of appointees of the engineer, under the existing system, simply because such appointees have been persons non grata to them in exercising too rigid supervision over their work.

Responsibility Centered. Responsibility Centered.

Under the existing system, therefore, responsibility for results can conveniently be shifted from one to a half dozen persons, whereas under the proposed concentration of authority the responsibility for results can be directly traced to one source, and if any person in the employ of the engineer is found to be dishopest or incompetent and the engineer's attention is called to it, he must be directly responsible for results; but under the existing system he can readily say, "I could not help it; this man was forced upon me by the mayor or council."

can readily say "I could not help it; this man was forced upon me by the mayor or council."

It will be claimed that the power to purchase necessary materials and supplies for the department by the engineer is a dangerous power. A careful examination of the bill will show that all purchases must be made by advertising for bids upon the same, and it is only after competitive bids are received that the award can be made and that must be so the lowest bidser. There is absolutely no chance to conduct any secret work in connection with the purchase of materials for public work, because all these acts must be performed as required by law and a record be shown of the same, and every bill, whether for material or labor or men, must pass through the comptroller's hands and then be approved by the mayor and council before it is finally paid. Eighty per cent of all the bills paid by the city and certified to by the engineer are for work done under contract—there is no change in the procedure with reference to acting on such bills in the new law from the laws that have been in existence ever since 1881. All estimates of the engineer must be sent to the mayor and city council for approval and then they must go through the hands of the city comptroller, who le required to keep a special account with each contractor, so that the so-called revolution in the system in reality relates only to a very small percentage of the expenditures of the city, and that only affects the day laborers engaged on repair work and street sweeping, and they must call for their pay and receipt for the same, as the engineer handles no money and is not their paymaster.

New Plan Eliminates Politics.

New Plan Eliminates Politics. The whole difference, therefore, between the new and the old law is that politics is to be eliminated from municipal affairs so far as construction of public works, cleaning of streets and making repairs is concerned, and placing these departments under a responsible head upon a business basis.

These will show you that the so-called lack of check upon the city engineer is without foundation.

It has been claimed that only the mayor and comptroller can be held for malfeasance in office under the proposed charter amendment and that the city engineer has no check whatever upon him in that respect.
