TROUP CONTINUES COAL CASE

Overrules Motion of Defense to Stop Tria on Techinal Point

INDICTMENT FAULTY, EUT EFFECTIV

the Commission of a

Judge Troup sustained the objection of he defense in the coal men's case yesterday so far as it referred to count No. 1 of the indictment, which he considered entirely bad because it alleged no act done by the defendants in restraint of trade. He over ruled the objection of the defense regarding the other eight counts. The trial proeeded accordingly. In giving his opinion Judge Troup said: "It is a rule in this court that when one judge has passed upon a given question another judge shall not interfere with his holding unless it appears utterly flagrant and wrongful. I am strongly inclined to think this is no such case and that the holding of Judge Sutton in the motion to quash the indictment in the former coal case holds here. This indictment is not in the best logical form. It would be a order to make it thoroughly representative bold judge who would pronounce it, a model. That it could be greatly improved by a redraft I am convinced.

"The case before us, however, has a ruling of the federal courts on cases apparently similar. While the federal statute does not define absolutely what a trust is, does not define absolutely what a trust is, our legislature has undertaken to state just what a trust is in this state. This indictment, while it may not be in the best form, contains valid and definite charges of what are the Illegal acts complained of.

"The question at issue here being but little touched on in precedent, it behooves us to approach it coolly and dispassionately. It must not be tried by rant and storm, nor yet by indifference."

Argument Lasts Long.

The argument in the coal case on the notion of the defendant, James A. Sunderland, to have the case dismissed because the indictment does not allege a crime was completed Wednesday morning after II o'clock. Judge Troup adjourned court then until 1:30 in the afternoon to give him time to consider the matter, and rendered his decision upon reconvening court.

It was largely a technical point on which the defense sought to have the case dis-W. J. Connell argued upon the point that the indictment names the agreement entered into at the time of the formation of the coal exchange as being the crime. This agreement, he pointed out, was made and signed by the members of the exchange more than three years ago and therefore is barred by the statute of limitations.

He further contended that an agreement to do a thing is not absolute and pointed out that no overt act on the part of the coal men is alleged.

In an examination of the constitution and bylaws of the coal exchange, Mr. Conneil found further ground for technical obections. Soliciting is prohibited.

"Soliciting for what?" demanded Mr. Connell. "Is it prohibited to solicit a man to take a drink, or what does this mean? When the indictment states that this organization prohibited soliciting for coal, it is a pure inference, for there is no suc statement in the constitution or by-laws. Mr. Connell bemoaned the fact that the' state had set up a "straw man" to be battered down and that the county would be put to great expense and much time would be consumed.

BENSON PLAN NOT APPROVED

for Model Cottage Falls of Endorsement.

The plan outlined last Tuesday to mem bers of the Real Estate exchange by E. A. Benson for a contest among architects for the submission of plans for a model cottage, did not meet with hearty approval from the members of the exchange at their meeting at the Commercial club Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Benson explained his views on the subject and thought three purses of $50 each should be offered by the exchange for the best plan for a four, five and six-room cottage. When requested to subscribe to a fund for the purpose, responses to the extent of a little less than $100 were received, and the matter was passed until the next weekly meeting. A report was received by the exchange from Lew Sholes, chairman of the longterm lease committee, in which Mr. Sholes detailed the operation of two successful leases of this character in Omaha, one for property near Fifteenth and Farnam streets and the other for the lot upon which part of the new Brandels building is now being erected. Mr. Sholes gave it as his opinion that leases from fifty to ninety-nine years were of great utility and recommended their adoption in Omaha so far as practicable. The report was received with great favor. Dr. Simones, who formerly resided in Omaha and who was passing through the city on his way to his home in Idaho, was the guest of the club and delivered a short address, in which he remarked at the great growth shown in Omaha since mortgage has been placed shall pay taxes his departure for the west several years on the property and mortgage as one piece, ago and congratulated the members of the exchange on their part in the material prosperity and advancement of the city.

> Announcements of the Theaters. At the Orpheum the regular midweek popular price matinee will be given this afternoon. The bill on has been almost unanimously pronounced the best of the season by press and public. The Fadette woman's orchestra is a strong card and as a matinee attraction has no equal on the vaudeville stage. The house has been packed at every performance this week nd large numbers of people have been turned away and the advance sale indicates many will not find it possible to secure seats at any of the regular performances and to accommodate as much of this overflow patronage as possible an extra matinee will be given tomorrow, Friday afternoon.

Why three lines?

Because three lines will give you a chance to say enough to make people understand what you want, or what you are offering. If you cut down to save words, you fail to interest people. Tell them fully and plainly.

Why in The Bee?

Because people rely on The Bee; they rely on Bee advertisers, too. Nobody pays much attention to papers filled with sensational news, manufactured without regard to truth or decency; they have confidence in The Bee and confidence in Bee advertisers.

Because, too, The Bee goes to more homes in Omaha, South Omaha, Council Bluffs and the towns in Nebraska, Iowa and the Black Hills than any other paper. A clean paper is admitted to all the homes: the mechanic is as particular what his daughter reads as the banker; he knows, too, that The Bee has been on the side of right regardless of class, and The Bee is the workingman's paper. The influence of a strong paper is not for sale, yet you get the benefit of part of this influence, each time you advertise.

Because The Bee gives its patrons more for less cost than any other paper.
