THE OMAHA DAILY BEE: SATURDAY, MARCH 9, 1907.

Has created the greatest sensation in Sewing Machine Selling ever witnessed in the west. So much so that we have been compelled to extend the limit of the club to 200 members.

In fact, we passed the 100 mark in the rush of business Tuesday so fast that the brakes wouldn't work, threfore we have decided to let it run to the 200 mark.

There will be special Sewing Machine Demonstrators on our floor the balance of this week to show the many improvements our New Home Machines has over all other makes.

It is a well known fact among Sewing Machine People and operators who have used them that the New Home Vibrating Shuttle Machine is the lightest running, as well as the best constructed Shuttle Machine on the market. We are here to convince you that our New Home Rotary is far superior to any Rotary Machine. We have other makes of Machines from $18.50 and up, any of which we sell on the Club Sale Plan at $2.00 down and $2.00 per month: If you are satisfied to save $10 to $15 on one of the best Sewing Machines made, come to us. We guarantee satisfaction. Club Sale Prices written in plain figures on each machine.

NOTED EQUESTRIENNE DEAD

Penniless as Result of San Francisco Earthquake, She Ends Days

In Want. Ending an filness having its beginning in acute form as a result of the San Francisco earthquake, Mrs. John E. Hall died Thursday at the Wise Memorial hospital. Nervous prostration and worry following her losses in the disaster which left her self and 77-year-old stepfather penniless was the cause of death. Better known to the public as Zoe Gay ton, the famous equestrienne, Mrs. Hall spent her lifetime almost before the people an actress and as a long-distance walker. Many years ago she was her own manager, taking a company on the road and played a long engagement at Honolulu. She played in Omaha in the early days. Growing old, she discontinued active theatrical work and, with her stepfather, settled down in San Francisco, where they made a living together until the earthquake. They were left without money or proper clothing.

Belleving they could secure aid if they would go to Kansas City, they at last reached Omaha last summer, but could get no farther. Ald for the refugees had been discontinued and expected help failed to materialize. Stranded in Omaha they were practically objects of charity while Mrs. Hall remained sick. They hoped she rould get better, when, never discouraged by their plight, they meant to earn their own way. The old man tottered about, earning what he could, but she only grew in. They were living at 1722 Cass street when she had to be taken to the hospital

She was then beyond aid

Trained Nurses. OMAHA, March 5 .- To the Editor of The Bee: While agreeing with the sentiaents expressed by Miss Dorsey regarding the raising of the nursing standard, yet consider the charges of "caroless and insufficient training," as entirely too sweeping. Belonging to one Omaha hospital I can answer for my "own corner." Omaha is yet in its infancy in regard o training schools and trained nursus. It is experiencing the same conditions already experienced, and overcome, by the older cities, and it is scarcely fair to expect full fledged perfection from so comparatively young a town. It, as well as others, must have its transition stage, which, judging from appearances, it is rapidly passing through.

In the past anyone posing as a nurse, and with the most superficial knowledge of a few of the necessary qualifications, could easily find employment. Her education and training were not inquired into by either physicians or patients; she was not asked from what school she had graduated, or if she had graduated at all; her former status ws not considered; but that condition is rapidly passing; indeed I think it has already passed. The hospitals, physicians and people of Omaha are demanding a better article and 1 think discovered that the majority of young women applying for admission into the training schools were without most, if not all, the qualifications which I had been taught to consider necessary in order to successfully take up the work, and I resolved to do what little I could toward raising the standard, at least in this school (I am speaking of my own experiences; of the other hospitals I know nothing) and refused to admit as a probationer anyone who had .not at least a high school diploma. I thought that by giving the profession, medical and surgical, a better article, they would soon refuse to employ any other, as what physician having had a good nurse would ever be satisfied with a poor one? In this hospital, at present, and probably in others, as much attention is given to the "sick room" technique, as to that of the "operating room." The nurses are taught the necessity of accurate observation and intelligent description; they study materia medica and know for what the different drugs are given, and for what effects they have to watch; they are taught how to bathe and handle all kinds of patients; how to glossy. For petroleum cures incipient baldmake ness, and if your hair is thinning rub some least disturbance to its occupant. They Never mind the smell. Government Ownership.

KEARNEY, Neb., March 6 .- To the Editor of The Bee: I read, with interest, Dr. George L. Miller's Aloquent prophecy of the evils that would follow government ownership of the railroads. He bate of Bryan and Whitney." The doctor talks of red rivulets flowing from confiscation. This is needless alarm. Further, he fears the political power of railroad employes, if government ownership were an established fact. Here, too, he borrows trouble. The most democratic government on earth-Switzerland-is largely a railroad owner, and no one has pointed to such evils. The same prophecies were put forth when the government sought to carry the mails. but the prophecy failed. Administrations
