The advent of March with its blustering winds ushers in the mid-land season, and with it one may expect less entertaining and pronounced quietude to prevail. This general banishment of gaiety is accepted, as the fashionables are busy with seamstresses and the planning of new spring frocks. While a large number have trosses to superintend and reports, from one who knows tells that many costly and exquisite creations are being modeled. For the past week society's attention has centered in the two charming visitors, Mrs. John F. Waggarman of Washington, who has been visiting Judge and Mrs. Doane, and Mrs. George Willard Brown of Portland, Ore., guest of Miss Joanne Wakefield. Both are here to attend the Conley-Dilworth affair, some of them pretentious, while others were of a more informal nature. Mrs. Waggarman left Saturday for her home, leaving a large circle of admiring friends who regret her departure. Mrs. Brown expects to remain some time longer, and being a stranger in Omaha on her arrival, the friends of Miss Wakefield will be glad of this opportunity to become better acquainted with her. The next two weeks will see the return of several of the younger set and a few of the married crowd whose absence has been conspicuous. Miss Julia Higginson, who has been visiting both in the south and east, will be home about the twentieth; Miss Gertrude and Miss Ruth Moorhead the early part of this week, and also Miss Ella May Brown, and Miss Flora Webster, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Wilhelm are expected home from California in a few days.

Plans are maturing that promise to make the concert of the Glee club of the university of Nebraska, to be given in Omaha Thursday evening, March 21, one of the big events of the season. The organization comes under the auspices of the Pan Hellenic club, and the dance to be given at Chambers following the concert, by the club, friends of Miss Wakefield will be glad of this opportunity to become better acquainted with her. GO-CART SNAPS

Out of Business—The Omaha Reed and Rattan Works Lets Everything Go to Finish Up. Exceptional Chance for Mothers to Get a Go-Cart Cheap. The Omaha Reed and Rattan works, formerly located at 1612 Howard street, have disposed of their factory and moved the finished goods to Fifteenth and Harvey streets, opposite the Orphanum theater. Their entire stock remaining must be sold and rest vacated by March 25th. Their fine line of Go-Carts, Chairs, Baskets, Porch Swings, Seetees and other Reed Furniture will be sold to first comers for less than the cost of manufacture. EVERYTHING MUST GO, regardless of how to close up the business of this concern. Warm weather is close at hand, and this offers a great opportunity to get new and comfortable furniture at YOUR OWN PRICE. Also a stock of high grade Go-Carts, Parasols and Go-Cart Upholsterings to be sold at 1/2 the cost of manufacture. If in need of anything in our line come early to get best selection. Range Building, 16th and Harney Sts.

WORK OF THE CLUB WOMEN

Omaha Club Has Accomplished Much During Year Just Closing. DEPARTMENTS ACTIVE ON SPECIAL-LINES. General Work of Club is Expanded, but Its Membership Has Done Much Along Particular Subjects. While numerically the Omaha Woman's club has decreased, there has never been a time in the history of the organization when its departments did better or more serious work than they are doing during the last year. That the club is regaining its former strength and prestige there can be no doubt among those in touch with its work. The highest membership was attained the year of the first exposition, when affiliation carried peculiar advantages. When those advantages had passed it was only to be expected that the membership should drop back to normal. Since then the club has made for itself a splendid record as an agency for moral, educational and civic betterment, but recently it has effected a line of progress that so frequently follows a strenuous season. The women are thoroughly awake again and the present membership is an earnest working force. Departments Hold Their Own. Notwithstanding the counter attractions of the newly organized Society of Fine Arts, the admirable equipment for study, the art department has held its own, supplementing the work of the other society, which largely duplicates its membership. The musical department has a good membership, is well attended and is progressing in the palmiest days of the club. The current topics department is larger than it has ever been and in addition to the efforts of its members, some of the best local authorities have been secured for the discussion of events of the day. The oratory department is flourishing and only a few weeks ago presented one of the cleverest dramatic programs that has ever been given before the club. Under the leadership of Mrs. Mary R. Newton, a recognized student of psychology, the department of ethics and philosophy has spent a year of practical study. The American history department has had an equally profitable year of study. The household economic department has been one of the live branches of the club and has done some of the best work in its history. Its agitation of the necessity of improvement in the city milk supply and of the correction of other evils that menace the health of the community have resulted in a public awakening that has largely corrected these evils. The department is at present engaged in an agitation for better inspection of the meat sold in the city. Last, but by no means least, the social science department has figured conspicuously in sociological work. The study of the support of child labor legislation, public playground and public bath, and an investigation and encouragement of various local charitable institutions has contributed to a busy and useful year.

Club Notes. The board of directors of the Iowa Federation of Women's clubs will meet at Des Moines Monday and Tuesday of this week when plans for the coming biennial convention to be held at Ottumwa will be completed.
