NO CONTEST ON COUNT'S WILL

Such is Statement of Three Attorneys and of the Exorsors.

INSTRUMENT GOES TO PROBATE SATURDAY

Schenk, Mahoney, Keller and Doane Say No "Bitter Contest" Will Be Waged as Is Reported.

"The will of Count John A. Creighton will go to probate Saturday. There will be no contest." This statement is backed by the testimony of three attorneys: John Schenk, brother-in-law and one of the executors of the late Count Creighton; T. J. Mahoney, attorney representing the charitable institutions mentioned as beneficiaries; Judge George W. Doane and Charles B. Keller, attorneys, representing the heirs not mentioned specifically in the mooted sections of the will.

"We may request an interpretation of the thirteenth clause," said Judge Doane. And that was the nearest "contest" testimony that was available yesterday.

Mr. Schenk, confirming the report that an agreement had been reached among the heirs and denying the story published yesterday by a local paper of a "bitter contest" pending, said: "I don't see how a paper could make such a statement. There is no ground whatever for the assertion that a 'bitter contest' will be waged over the will of Mr. Creighton. I make this statement unreservedly."

Statement by Mr. Mahoney. The agreement was reached between counsel representing the devisees mentioned in the will, including the charitable institutions which were given large bequests, and members of the family who were apparently cut off from participation in the division of the large estate.

After reading the account Wednesday evening in the paper referred to of the "bitter contest" to be entered into for the purpose of breaking the will, T. J. Mahoney said: "While I have hitherto refrained from giving any public statement regarding the rumored contest of the will on the ground that such a course would be a breach of professional conduct, I believe it is proper that the matter should be set right. There has been an understanding reached between certain institutions, which are beneficiaries under the will, and Mrs. Mary Shelby, daughter of a deceased brother of Count Creighton, and the six children of Mrs. John McCree, a deceased sister of Count Creighton, all of whom were not mentioned in the will, by which there is to be no contest interposed except on any matter which may appear to affect the formalities of the execution of the will."

"After the will is probated it is to be open to anyone interested to make any contention that may be thought tenable respecting the true interpretation of the will or the force and validity of any of its provisions."

"There is to be no attempt to settle or adjust any point in regard to the interpretation of the will, as none of the persons interested in the will had any part to get anything by virtue of the will that the testator did not intend to give him, and all are willing to abide by judicial determination as to what the testator's intent really was."

Mr. Keller's Version. Substantially the same statement was made by Attorney Charles B. Keller, who represents Mrs. Shelby and the McCree children. Mr. Keller said: "There has been an agreement made between certain corporations and institutions which are beneficiaries or devisees under the will and Mrs. Mary Shelby, the majority heir, by which no contest is to be entered into by Mrs. Shelby or the McCree heirs, who reserve, however, any rights they may have relative to an informal execution of the will as required by law."

"The will will go to probate Saturday without objection to any of the parties to any rights they may have, notwithstanding the will, or to apply to the court for interpretation of provisions or the validity of any of its provisions."

"We can't say as to what course will be pursued regarding the will after it has been admitted to probate, but it is probable action immediately will be taken looking to the judicial exposition of the terms of the document by the court."

"No questions of fact as to the capacity of the testator at the time of making the will and whether he was of a sound and disposing mind will be raised and the questions of settlement, if any, will be purely questions of law."

Judge Doane Speaks. Judge George W. Doane, another member of the counsel representing Mrs. Shelby and the McCree heirs, also confirmed the report that no contest would be made and said: "The will will go to probate without any contest or objection of any sort. It is premature to say what will be done as to conserving the interests of those not named in the will, but a judicial construction of the instrument will be asked and it is probable the persons interested and not named as devisees will contest the construction now placed on certain ambiguous clauses of the instrument."

It is deemed certain that no acrimonious legal complications will ensue as sometimes attends the probating of a will of the character in question, and the statements made to a reporter for The Bee were the first to be given out officially on the subject. In this connection Mr. Keller said: "This is the first statement made by me or my associate counsel interested in the case and this is only done in denial of misleading stories by the press and to generally clarify the situation."

Forty-five tramps escape. Carload of Prisoners Slip Away From Captain Mostyn—Many Years Ago.

"Ever have any prisoners escape from you?" asked the Anxious Inquirer of Captain Mostyn. "Once." "How many?" "Forty-five." "Yes?" "How'd that happen?" "Well, it was a rather funny deal," said the captain. "I didn't chase them very far; in fact, didn't chase them at all. It happened like this: You see, Omaha had been infested with a large floating population, commonly known as tramps, and we were rounding them up as fast as they came in. Officer Tiedman, who is now dead, and myself, were down in the Burlington yards one night, catching hoboes. We had a box car which we were using for a calaboose, and as fast as we caught the bums we locked them in the car. We had forty-five by him and Tiedman and I went to a phone to call the wagon to come and get them. When we returned the car was gone. We went far down in the yards and hunted up a switchman and asked him to help us locate the car. He told us that the switch engine had picked up all the empties and they had been taken out by a westbound train which had just departed. Well, we didn't care, but were rather glad to get rid of them, only we thought there might be a few among them who were wanted for some crime."

"Ever hear from them again?" "Not directly," said the captain, "but I read in a Lincoln paper the next day that a boxcar load of union miners who had been driven out of Pennsylvania on account of the labor trouble had arrived in the Capital City in the night, en route to Colorado, and were being fed by the local charity association. Of course I never said anything—except what I said to Officer Tiedman, and he never told."

A. K. NUCKOLLS WILL BUILD Walnut Hill Grocer Resumes Plan of Putting Up Structure of His Own.

A. K. Nuckolls, proprietor of a grocery store at Fortieth and Cumming streets, is planning to build a two-story and basement brick store on the lot recently bought by him at the southwest corner of Fortieth and Cumming streets.

The plans for the new store are being drawn by Architect J. B. Mason and the building will cost about $6,000. The second story of the building will be used as an apartment. The lot has a frontage of 35 feet on Fortieth street and 55 feet on Cumming. Bids for construction will be received in a few weeks, as soon as the specifications are completed by the architect.

Mr. Nuckolls has been occupying rented quarters owned by Dr. B. D. Mercer and contemplated building his new store last spring, owing to an increase of rent, but was delayed one year.

ALL NIGHT JOB FOR AUTOS

Hundreds of Men Work Hard to Prepare Auditorium for the Show.

SECOND EXHIBIT STARTS OUT ON TIME

Display is Comprehensive and Men of Various Big Plants Are There with Their Products.

Although hundreds of men had to work all of Tuesday night to make the building presentable, the second annual automobile show was able to open its doors on schedule time in the Auditorium Wednesday morning. Snow started to fall just in time to make the streets damp and spot the brass on the machines, but another large force of men was put to work to remedy that difficulty, and the big show was ready on time.

Nine dealers are exhibiting, which utilizes all the floor space of the arena, as well as the stage, where the big airship floats in the air and the moving picture exhibit is given. The exhibitors are: The Maxwell Automobile company, H. E. Fredrickson, the Kimball Automobile company, the Rambler Automobile company, the Lincoln Automobile company, the Powell Automobile company, J. J. Derigott, Louis Fiescher and the Townsend Gun company.

Machines large and small are shown, machines in the full glory of every known accessory and machines stripped of all glitz and showing simply the skeleton. No gasoline is allowed in the building, so the engines cannot be shown in action. No decorations are permitted.

Causes and Clothing. The first sight to greet the visitor's eye is a full line of canoes, motor boats and auto clothing, exhibited by the Townsend Gun company. The space is divided about equally among the dealers, who are showing all the machines they are able to crowd into the space allotted to them.

One of the novelties of the show is a new car for George Rogers with a large box in the rear, which is really so constructed as to be part of the machine. This is for carrying cigars. Big sizes and little sizes are shown in profusion, as well as all sorts of runabouts, victorias, broughams and touring cars. The central space is allotted to the Powell company, and here is erected a pyramid, on which is displayed a large variety of lamps.

The largest shipment of machines ever brought to Omaha, by express was delivered to the Rambler company by the American Express company. The car was one of the special ones used here during the horse show and contained five large Rambler touring cars, which will be on exhibition at the show. One of these, the model 24, four-cylinder, was one of the handsome cars on exhibition at the Chicago show and is already sold, and after the show closes here will be delivered to Mrs. Lillian Maul of Omaha.

Some of the Experts. George Cox of the Rambler factory at Kenosha, who made so many friends while in attendance at the Automobile show here last year, is in the city and will assist the Rambler company in handling its exhibit. Ed Mockett, the Rambler agent of Lincoln, is here and expects to remain the entire week. E. L. Benedict of Coia, Ia., and Mr. Lana and F. A. Stevens of Harlan, who look after Rambler interests at these places, are at the show.

F. J. Alvin, western manager of the National Sales Corporation and the Motor Car Equipment company, and the Black Hawk batteries is present. H. F. Robinson, from the Pope Toledo factory, arrived in Omaha Wednesday morning and will be found around the Powell Automobile company booth during the show. Mr. Putnam of the Connecticut Car company was an early arrival Wednesday and will remain throughout the show. Mr. Long, representing the Exide Storage Batteries, and W. E. Beardsley, representing the Franklin air-cooled cars, arrived Wednesday from the Minneapolis show. They report that town as going automobile crazy, the only limit to making the supply of cars.

The O'Donohue-Redmond-Normile company has fallen in with the automobile show idea and has decorated one of its large windows with automobile effects. Although this firm does not deal in autos, it has placed a large automobile in one of the windows. The automobile, however, is made from grocery packages.

OLD SORES FED AND KEPT OPEN BY IMPURE BLOOD. A great many people have an idea that old sores exist merely because of a diseased condition of the flesh where the ulcer is located. They patiently apply salves, powders, plasters and other external applications, but in spite of all such treatment the place refuses to heal. Whenever a sore or ulcer does not heal readily the blood is at fault; this vital fluid is filled with impurities and poisons which are constantly being discharged into the place, feeding it with noxious matter, which makes it impossible for the sore to heal. Old sores may be the result of an inherited blood taint, or the effects of a long spell of sickness, or again the circulation may be contaminated with the collections of refuse matter which the different members have failed to expel through the channels of nature. Whatever the cause the blood becomes steeped in poison and a cut, bruise, scratch or other wound often develops into a sore, fed and kept up by these impurities, causing it to eat deeper into the surrounding tissue, inflaming, festering and causing pain. External applications can only keep the sore clean; they cannot cure the trouble because they do not reach the blood. S. S. S. cures Old Sores by going to the very bottom of the trouble, driving out the impurities and poisons and purifying and building up the entire circulation. When S. S. S. has removed the cause the blood becomes rich and healthy, the sore begins to heal, new flesh is formed, the place scabs over and is soon permanently healed.
