Strictly good cows and heifers were also steady and in fair demand at last week's closing prices. Inferior and common grades on the other hand were slow and duli throughout the session, with prices generally a little ower. What few stockers and feeders there were met with pretty fair sale at good steady prices. Feeder buyers helped out a good deal on the warmed-up cattle, taking a good many that otherwise would have had to go to the killers at less money.

HOGS—Packers first bids were generally a little bit lower than last week, but sollers held on and forced them to raise their offerings until they were steady with Saturday. At that point sellers cut loose and practically everything in sight changed hands in a short time. As will be noted from the sales below, the hogs sold largely at $2.458.50, the same as at the close of last week, with $6.67% a popular price. These prices on an average are $77.50 lower than the market on Monday of last week. Representative sales:

ceiving, and that was the case with today's sheep run. Of the number reported in only about one-half was on sale, the remainder consisting of wethers and lambs consigned to an eastern shearing point and only halted here for feed and rest. Counting these in with today's receipts, there was a total of 5,700 head in the yards, which was larger even than Chicago's run.
The market opened active and fully steady with last week, desirable sheep and lambs as 8.50. Practically all the early killers to make changed hands in very good season in the morning. The common and medium grades were a little slow and the sparket closed dull and weak on this kind.
