

EASTER Confectionery

Includes many novelties this season. Of course, the Easter Eggs and the Candy Rabbits are here, as usual, but we have other candy ideas that will delight the children. Bring them so they may see the cute things we have.

A box of Bon Bons as an Easter Gift is quite as acceptable as flowers. Of course, you want to be sure of the quality. If they come from as you will know that they are right and will be more highly appreciated than any other kind.

FASHIONABLES GO INTO SECLUSION NOW

Hostesses and Fair Visitors Declare Intention of Observing at Least the Last Week of Penitential Season.

To a Chapter.
Tomorrow night, when three of us are sitting at the play, I should chance to hold May's hand, Please look the other way.
Later, as in carriage, we are speeding homeward, say Dear companion, don't see my arm—Pray look the other way.
But when at last we're in the hall,
When I begin to say good-night, Don't look—don't even stay.

Preparations are very general now for Easter. Socially the past week has found society dominant. But holy week has now been ushered in and promises to be one of deadly monotony. Not a single large function has been scheduled and only a very few visitors remain, and they have declared their intention of spending the next seven days either at church or in seclusion. So if no more charming visitors are expected such will be the fashionable outlook for the remainder of Lent, with that momentous little word "ir" holding in abeyance a large number of entertainments—principally given-in-honor affairs. But it is just as well to have these good times incorporated in the strain-jacket of memories for a time, so as to give the fun-loving element time to become pious and step out of the Lenten season with dignity, instead of in a disheveled manner, suggestive of strenuous living.

The largest group of the week was the concert given by the Mandolin and Glee club of the University of Nebraska at the Boyd theater Thursday evening. This concert was of a high order of excellence and would have been a credit to any college organization in the country. Moreover, it had the added prestige in Omaha of being given under the auspices of the Pan-Hellenic club. In spite of this its reception by the local social set was cold, both at the concert and at the dance which was given in honor of the members by the Pan-Hellenic club at Chambers' hall after the program.

Three years ago a similar organization gave a concert in Omaha. It was no more widely advertised than the concert by the Nebraska boys. It was not nearly as good a show, but society turned out en masse.
The Yale men received the heartiest and most enthusiastic sort of welcome. What was the reason for this? Was it that distance lent enchantment to the boys from the east, an enchantment that was lacking in the organization that came up from our own city?

Whatever may be the reason, it is evident that Omaha needs handed to her a pasport from one of the large eastern colleges before she can bubble over with enthusiasm and wish herself again a college boy or girl, as the case may be.

WORK OF THE CLUB WOMEN

District Meetings for Nebraska Have Been Chanced Somewhat.

TWO CLUBS IN TENNESSEE ARE UNIQUE

Matter of Keeping in Touch with the Activities of the General Federation One of Importance to the Membership.

The following schedule for district meetings of the Nebraska Federation of Women's clubs has been made: The second district held its meeting in Omaha this month; the first district meets at Lincoln April 22 and 23; Third district at Stanton April 24 and 25; Fourth district at David City April 26 and 27; Fifth district at Holdrege April 28 and 29. The Sixth district will hold its meeting at Shelton, but the date has not been announced.
There have been some changes in the schedule since first announced.

Unique Tennessee Clubs.
Anna B. A. Brown writes to the Federation Bulletin of two unique clubs in Tennessee as follows:

Two very notable clubs in the Tennessee Federation are the Housekeepers' club of Memphis, the only one of its kind in the south, and the University association of the University of Nashville.

The Housekeepers' club was organized about twenty years ago in Memphis by Mrs.
Henry C. Myers, who has been its only president. It offers this year courses in domestic science and housekeeping in general, and has plans for a municipal laundry, a bureau for furnishing domestic service, and its members are club house wives, and for having domestic science become a permanent feature in the curriculum of Memphis public schools. The members are drawn from this city's leading club and society women. This club took a leading part in the autumn session of the University of Nashville.

The Women's association of the university of Nashville is named for one of the oldest and most honorable institutions in the south. From this university men of more than national reputation have been graduated, and the association members are the daughters of these men and the teachers and wives of the professors. The meetings are literary and social. The object of the club is to aid the university by helping to erect a monument to the memory of George Washington, who entered a new sphere of usefulness in 1833—that of preparing the young people of the south for teachers.

General Federation Activity.
It is a frequent complaint among club women that they are unable to keep in touch with the General Federation and its activity and occasionally a club withdraws from the national organization for the reason that the benefits of membership do not justify the membership fee. To meet just this need the General Federation some time ago adopted an official organ, The Federation Bulletin, which is carefully and successfully read must go far toward acquainting club women with the activity and issues of the general body and convince any member that the annual dues are little enough prices to pay for even a sampling part in this great work of women.

To be sure, the daily papers use all the news obtainable regarding the General Federation, but there is much and an important part, too, of the work of the club world that the daily papers have not room for and that club women do not afford to miss. And this is the part that affords the chief inspiration. Each number of The Bulletin includes a report from the president, general officers and chairmen of committees besides articles from some of the best authorities on the subjects to which the federation is giving its attention. The editorial page is in itself worth the price of the magazine, while the reports from various state federations should be of great value to all. The Bulletin is published at 123 Beacon street, Boston, by the second vice president of the General Federation, Miss Alice W. Ward, and is edited by Whittier, president of the Massachusetts Federation.

Help Sioux City.
Mrs. Emma F. Byers, general secretary of the local Young Women's Christian association has returned from Sioux City where she has spent the past week in conference and the preparatory work for $20,000 building campaign for the Sioux City association. Mrs. Byers was one of the principal speakers at a banquet given to over 200 people Thursday evening in the interest of the project. The campaign will open April 1.

Club Notes.
Mrs. J. H. Shary preside at Tuesday afternoon's meeting of the current topics department and the speakers will be: Mrs. C. W. Hayes, L. H. Healey, Mrs. G.
S. Rogers, Mrs. C. R. Glover and Mrs. W.
H. Wilbur. There will be music by Mrs.
F. C. Sanford.

Mrs. Byers will address the social science department at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon on "Parental Responsibility to the Home." Mrs. Harriet H. Heller will lead the discussion to follow.
The Young Women's Fellowship club of the Young Women's Christian association met Thursday evening and planned for committees for next year's work. Following the business session Dr. Patchild gave a lecture before the club.

Opening of Second Floor.
An army of decorators and artisans were working until a late hour Saturday night putting Brandeis store in a state of perfect preparedness for the opening of the second floor tomorrow.

It is considered fortunate that the second floor is ready at the time when the most beautiful and dainty of flower-ers, the Easter lily, is in bloom. The chief feature of decoration. It will be an Easter lily opening throughout. Thousands of Easter lilies are banded in the court, on the columns and in the bark boxes surrounding the light well on each floor. Easter colors and symbols are effectively used.

The general scheme of decoration in the windows will be orange trees with orange blossoms, daisies and maidens' hair ferns. One window shows a French chiffon voile suit from Drecoil and a blue voile French summer suit from France. The next window reveals a French gown from Paquin. The central feature of another is the famous $1,000 lace gown from Raudnitz. In a fourth window appears a champagne gown and a leather-colored gown from Ch. Ignatz and Parreau. The chief attraction in another is a Worth gown of gray meshed chiffon. The hats, charmingly displayed on the figures, are all French patterns, imported expressly for Brandeis. Their is perfect color harmony in each window.

Experts in matters of style declare the assemblage to be one of the most pretentious arrays in point of exclusive style ever gathered by a western house.

Men to Wear Purple.
According to London—"men's wear"— purple will be the fashionable color for men's lounging suits this summer. A Dresser, the tailor, is said to be the first to wear a suit of this color in Omaha.
