ther infunction has risen above the bled forizon of South Omaha's political sky. Hugh Murphy Saturday secured the services of a restraining order to prevent the city officials or the police force from sterfering with him in the memowal of paving material along the course of Missouri awenue. He alleged in his petition that the South Omaha officials had wrongfully threatened to use the police department to prevent bis removing material which he had delivered on the ground last winter before the relinquishment of his contract. The city had paid to him above 5,000 before any paving was laid. It is admitted that the material on the ground is valued more than the amount that Murphy received by over $1,000. The way the matter is tied up at the present time the paving annot proceed and the city is just as determined that the material shall not be

As soon as the restraining order was served the city attorney went to Omaha and secured a modification of the order of the court which also prevents Hugh Murphy or his employes from attempting to remove the material from the street in controversy. Affairs are therefore in the same state of rest as they have been for the last year or so in that section of the city. The only difference is that the courts will try the merits of the contentions between the city and the contractor. Then It may be possible for one or the other to take some more definite action.

Case of Exceptional Depravity. A story of human depravity developed in police circles yesterday. The man whose name is connected with the atrocity is John Simms. His victim is a little girl, while they were gone he is said to have committed a criminal assault. This the little girl concealed from her parents because the man had prometed to the daughter of Edward W. Stephens, a mechanic at the Comaha Cooperage company. The family lives at the corner of Twenty-seventh and M streets and Simms has been a boarder in the household. The time of his last offense was a week ago Tuesday night. Stephens and his wife went out during the evening with their other children, leaving Simms alone with the little girl. While they were gone he is said to have committed a criminal assault. This the little girl concealed from her parents because the man had prometed to have committed to the parents because the man had prometed to have committed a criminal assault. His victim is a little girl, her parents because the man had promised her a doll and some candy. Later ur infectious disease forced the little child reveal her pain to her mother. The child, who is scarcely 8 years of age, was taken to Dr. Davis, who suspected that she had been the victim of depraved and victous maltreatment and he told his suspicions to the parents, When they find taken the child home they questioned her, and with many tears she confessed that It was Simms who had been guilty. She said, so they gathered from her broken story, that Simms had been gullty for over a year and that she had kept still because of his presents and promises. On learning the truth Stephens drove Simms out of the house at the point of a knife, having, it is said, first broken a chair over his back. He declared that he would have killed the man if he had been able to catch him. After the man had gone they waited a day or two before deciding what bey would do. At first they went to Judge C. Caldwell, who advised them to go before the county attorney, as the case was out of his jurisdiction. It was in this marner that the police first learned of the

An effort was made to locate Simms last night. A description was sent to surround ing points by the chief, who says he will bring him to justice if possible. If the parents of the child are reluctant to prosecute it is likely that the juvenile authorities will have no such scruples. Such depravity has been receiving special attention at their hands, several cases having been investigated lately. Simms was in the city Thursday. It is now thought that he went to Nebraska City.

Defends the Greeks. Albert S. Russell sends the following com munication, which is self explanatory; The writer in reading of a recent "Exodus of the Greeks" in an issue of March 23, noticed the phrase, "Giving place to more desirable classes of workingmen." This I think is hardly fair, since there are found both desirable and undesirable people in all nationalities. I am sure there are many who are able and worthy laborers among the Greeks. I have seen many who would "fill the bill" and be a benefit both to their employers and themselves. their employers and themselves.
