NEW LAW WILL OPEN UP LAND
State to Isolated Portions Good Key to Many Valuable Nebraska Acres.

A new law has been enacted by congress which is of interest to the people of Nebraska, as it changes the law governing the sale of isolated portions of land in western Nebraska. Heretofore not more than 100 acres could be sold at one time. The new law reads:

"That within the territory described in said Kinkaid act, approved April 22, 1904, it shall be lawful for the secretary of the interior to order into market and sell under the provisions of the laws providing for the sale of isolated or disconnected tracts or parcels of land of any isolated tract not exceeding three-quarters section in area, provided that not more than three-quarters section shall be sold to any one person."

Approved March 5, 1907.

These lands are sold to the highest bidder and must bring $15 per acre. D. Clem Deaver, superintendent of the land-office information bureau of the Burlington railroad, in speaking in this new phase of the law, says this will throw open a good many valuable tracts of land in Nebraska which have heretofore been overlooked because they were not available for purchase and because there was not 80 acres, which a man was entitled to take under the provisions of the Kinkaid act.

ORE STEAL STORY DOUBTED

Report of Elzeb Graders Shipping to Omaha Frustrated Fishy.

NO CHANGE TO GET IT OUT OF COLORADO

Federal Secret Service Men and Manager Page of Smelter Regard Story as Downright Falshood.

The story from Denver to the effect that Omaha is the headquarters of an organized gang of "high graders" and "ore dump looters," who dispose of their stolen ore in Omaha on commission, is pronounced by Omaha men, claiming to be in a position to know what is really taking about, as downright false. Walter T. Page, manager of the American Smelting and Refining company, said:

"I do not think there is anything to the story, which on the whole looks to me like a first-class fake. In the first place, stolen ore of a high grade could not be shipped from Cripple Creek or any other district in any quantity without the knowledge of the mining authorities of the district. The only possible way that valuable ores that have been stolen can be disposed of is at the small smelters. No ores are accepted for treatment by any of the large smelters unless the smelting companies know from where the ores come and that the consignment is properly stamped. In the case of valuable ores being sent in small quantities, the smelters first ascertain the origin of the shipment by communicating with their agents in the district from which the ores are shipped. Hence it would be less likely that the ore thieves would send the ore a long distance, as to Omaha, than to have the ores treated at small smelters in the vicinity of the mines, where no questions would likely be asked.

No change in the American Smelting and Refining company takes no chances in treating any ore to which the slightest suspicion could possibly attach. No ores are disposed of to this concern on commission. While it may be possible that stolen ores are shipped through Omaha, and the fact that some of our gang of ore thieves do dispose of their ores in this city for treatment in Omaha, I do not place the slightest credence in the story. The Davis-Sacramento line is still blocked. The San Francisco-Sacramento line via Martins and Stockton is open. The San Joaquin Valley line is open. The coast line is still blocked by tunnel between Santa Margarita and San Luis Obispo.

The United States secret service department has nothing to do with any shipments of the precious metals except in bullion or coinage form. One of these officials more or less familiar with this work said:

"The Denver story looks very fishy to me and I do not believe there is a particle of truth in it. The Mine Owners' association of Colorado has one of the most perfect detective systems in the world and it would be next to impossible for the 'high graders and looters' to send any valuable ores out of Colorado to any smelter without immediate detection. The trust also has a perfect system of detection against any irregular practices in this line. The government has nothing to do with ore shipments, but I know from practical experience and observation that no valuable ores can be shipped out of any mining district in small or large quantities without the knowledge of the detectives of the Mine Owners' association, and then no shipments are made without being accompanied by guards who watch the shipment from the moment it leaves the mine until it reaches the smelter."

NO CHANGES

This inventory states no values in figures, but is a list as nearly complete as possible of the stocks, bonds and other holdings of the estate. It will then be the duty of the appraisers and the executors to determine the value of the holdings. This will take a number of weeks.

LOCAL RATES NOT EXORBITANT

Fire Insurance Men Say Conditions on Pacific Coast Do Not Apply to Omaha.

Denial is made by the majority of Omaha fire insurance agents that rates are too high, as is asserted by the Chamber of Commerce of Spokane, which is to appeal to President Roosevelt for relief. It is alleged by the Spokane authorities that rates in the western part of the country are excessive and that a great per cent of money received is expended for padded salary rolls and unreasonable expenses.

"That does not apply in Nebraska nor, I believe, east of the Rocky mountains," said Jay White, president of the German Mutual Fire Insurance company of Omaha, when asked regarding local conditions. "There is no agreement as to rates here, as all rates or special agreements are declared off in this state. The wholesale rates are very low in Omaha, which is a criterion of the rates on other risks in the city; so low, in fact, that many companies will not write insurance. The rates are down to the minimum and almost to the danger point."

Anderson G. Beeson of the Nebraska Bureau of Fire Insurance Inspection expressed himself in similar terms and said: "Such an idea is ridiculous when it is remembered that the surpluses of many companies have been entirely wiped out during the last year and assessments made upon the stock holders to cover deficits, while many companies have gone out of business. There is no agreement as to rates in Nebraska, although an advisory tariff, containing maps of the entire state, is published for the aid and guidance of agents, who are not able to inspect risks in person."

"I believe the Spokane people have reference to what is known as the 'Dean schedule,' which advised an increase in rates after the San Francisco disaster and which has been found to be necessary. The fundamental principle of fire insurance is the law of average and the fact that surplus funds of many companies have been expended and the companies almost made extinct is not significant of excessive rates."

SENSATION IN SAFE THEFT

Suspicious Point Strongly in Certain Direction, Threatening Surprising Developments.

No further progress has been made in the solution of the mystery which surrounds the robbery of the safe in the offices of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, 414 to 416 New York Life building, Tuesday night. Entrance was effected to the cashier's office through a window in the inner court, the combination safe opened, the strong box on the inside unlocked and a sum now estimated to be at least $1,000 taken. Suspicion is very strong in certain directions, but evidence upon which to act is unavailable. The officers are still at work on this case and expect some sensational developments.

ALL WILL GET MORE IN TAXES

Every City and Town Benefited by the Terminal Taxation Law.

BURLINGTON OFFICIAL ADMITS THIS

From All Railroads Omaha Will Derive in City Taxes About Hundred and Twenty-four Thousand More.

With the passage of the terminal taxation bill, the railroads are busily engaged in figuring just what added tax this new law will compel them to pay—they assume the governor will sign the bill at once. Towns and cities in Nebraska will be benefited by this law. Under the new law the state, county, school and road taxes are assessed and distributed by the state board. The cities will tax all tangible property except the rolling stock, franchises and credits, which will go to the state board to fix the value and apportion mile for mile. The proper value on these is then given to the assessor to return on the assessment of the tangible property and to apply to the local levy.

The Union Pacific is now paying about $2,000 city taxes to Omaha and the attorneys and Tax Commissioner Scribner figure this will be increased to about $6,000.

"We have figured it out that the Union Pacific will have to pay $40,000 additional in the state," said Edson Rich, attorney for the Union Pacific.

"Of course, I do not know what the assessment will be," said Tax Commissioner Scribner, "but I have my own ideas on what it ought to be. The property is not assessed as yet, but I have an idea it will add between $50,000 and $70,000 to the taxes we pay to the municipalities in Nebraska."

"We have 210 stations in Nebraska which will be affected by the terminal taxation bill," said Tax Commissioner Pollard of Burlington. "I have not figured what the extra cost will be to us, as I do not know what the assessment will be. I think there will hardly be a town but that will receive more taxes than it did under the old law. I figure it will cost us between $1,000 and $30,000 more in the city of Omaha."

FORTY-ONE YEARS IN OMAHA

Over Long Stretch of Time Judge Gustave Anderson is Looking Into the Past.

United States Commissioner Gustave Anderson is recalling the fact that just forty-one years ago Wednesday morning he first came to Omaha, a green Scandinavian boy, who could neither speak, read, write or think in English. However, he soon caught on. The first public position he ever held was that of jailkeeper in Omaha. Afterwards he became police judge and held that position many years, when he was appointed United States commissioner so long ago he has forgotten the date.

"In the old police days," he said, "it was not an unusual thing to have as high as seventy-five prisoners in the jail. They were mostly of the tramp variety. We had a rock pile then at the corner of Sixteenth and Farnam streets, where the Board of Trade building now is. The tramps didn't like the rock pile a little bit, and soon learned to give Omaha a wide berth.

"The slang that is now common to the criminal class and which is heard about the police station and courts did not exist then. Plain United States was good enough for us in those days. We had to handle some pretty tough characters in the '70s, but I do not think they were generally any worse than they are today. I believe, though, we had more of them. The years roll around so fast that I can hardly keep track of dates, and some of these old memories seem to be realities of but a little while ago."
