OMAHA JUDGES ARE PRAISED

Commended by Washington Official for Their Stand on Divorce.

UNCLE SAM GATHERING STATISTICS

No Significant Has Situation Become that Government Has Hundred and Fifty Agents in Field.

"I notice the district judges of Omaha are taking a firm stand on the matter of divorce," said M. H. Thorpe of the census bureau at Washington, who stopped in Omaha Friday noon to spend a day in sight-seeing while enroute to San Francisco.

"The census bureau is gathering statistics on the question of marriage and divorce, but in making slow progress. The bureau has had 200 agents in the field since last July, going over the records in the larger cities. The task is larger than was expected, consequently the delay, but a bulletin may be expected in a short time giving a preliminary report on some of the findings.

Figures from Cities. "After all the statistics from the cities that will be of greatest interest, for it will be well known that divorce prevails to a larger extent in the cities than in country districts. When completed the statistics will show the number of marriages and divorces for the twenty-year period from 1887 to 1907.
