CATTLE—There was a very fair run of cattle this morning, but of the number reported in some twenty cars were direct to packers and not offered for sale.

Beef steers were slow and dull packers evidently feeling that they were entitled to a little concession with the result that they were generally bidding lower. While the offerings were not very large it took some little time for buyers and sellers to get together, but the cattle were finally sold at prices anywhere from steady to a little lower.

Cows and heifers were in fair demand and the market on the desirable kinds at higher than steady. While the trade was not exactly what might be called active there was enough movement to effect a clearance of the most of the cattle in reasonable season.

There was nothing new in the stocker and feeder trade. The demand as has been the case all along was fair and prices generally about steady.

HOGS—Hogs opened about where they left off yesterday. In other words, hogs sold largely at $6.42½@6.47½, with some of the good light hogs selling up to $6.50. The trade was a little slow in getting started, but when the ice was once broken the hogs moved off more freely, so that the bulk changed hands in good season. As compared with yesterday's general market prices today were about 5@c lower.

Some late arrivals did not fare so well, the market closing very slow and dull, with a few loads unsold with no one trying to buy them.

SHEEP—After the big run of 107 cars yesterday, today's receipts looked like the next thing to nothing. Considering the large run yesterday, the market was in exceedingly good shape, buyers taking hold freely and paying very good prices for the desirable killers.

With light receipts in sight this morning, and with the demand still good, buyers were out early and it did not take them very long to clean up the most of the offerings. The prices paid ranged anywhere from strong to 10c higher. In other words, whatever weakness was developed in yesterday's market was fully made up today, this, too, in the face of the fact that the Chicago market was posted as slow and weak, with the receipts only 13,000.

NEW YORK STOCKS AND BONDS

Market is Halting and Irregular on Extended Profit Taking.

BIG DECREASE IN BUYING ORDERS

Early Rise on Higher Prices in London Followed by Wavering and Uncertain Movement.

NEW YORK, April 2.—The stock market was affected today by the pace at which the recovery has been going from the extreme depression of the first part of last week. A disposition to take profits on the considerable recovery which has occurred is coincident with a lessened inclination to buy stocks.

The sustaining measures which have been apparent for several days past were not entirely withdrawn, however, and the consequence was a halting and irregular movement of prices which testified to the conflict of forces in the market. The conflict relapsed more and more into professional hands and the quotations increased in dullness. The measure of support in the market were particularly effective against the unfavorable influence of the fall in prices in London. The prices made in London early today after a triple holiday were much higher than where they left on Thursday and the tone was firm. Those early prices in London were regarded as largely nominal and the support in the local market here had no difficulty in bringing quotations well over last night's level. The aggressive strength of a few stocks had a large sympathetic influence on this result. It was from this restored level of the market that the movement became wavering and uncertain again. There was no immediate development in affairs to account for this action and it was attributed largely to technical causes. The large covering operations by the bear party for several days past have served to reduce greatly the outstanding short interest in the market which deprives the market of a potent demand for strength. Buyers during the depression appeared as sellers to take profits. Some attention was paid to the course of the news from Washington and some part of the heaviness in the Harriman stocks was attributed to the sentimental effect of the position of antagonism between the president and the head of that system revealed by publications during the
