Unsettled and Nervous Market Caused by Conflicting (rop Reports.

WHEAT CLOSES STRONG AFTER REACTION

Brouth in Southwest, with Reports of Frost and Further Damage by Bugs Strengthen Entire List.

OMAHA, April 13, 1907. Conflicting news caused a nervous and strate market, but with strength predominating. Reports of further ravages by the green bug in Missouri and Kaussas caused early strength in the market, but a later reaction caused a recession in prices to below the opening figures. The loss was recovered near the close which was hervous but firm.

Australian shipments were lighter and the general statistical situation apparently favors the oull side. It was resported that dry weather shill prevailed in the winter wheat best and heavy frosts were reported in some sections. Favorable weather reports were received, but the weather is becoming unsettled and the future course of the market is a matter of great conjecture. Traders look for a wild market next Monday and long commitments were few. The cash demand has improved, but receipts are only normal. May wheat closed strong and sail options scored a net advance of ac. There were a left transactions in September options, which opened arms at 76c bid and advanced to.
