> More Staple Than Any "Staple"

All staples in our markets are unstaple in value as compared with a policy in the Mutual Life Insurance Company. Cotton, wool, wheat, steel go up and down through the years, while such a policy steadily gains in value. Stocks, bonds, securities rise and fail, but such a policy never depreciates-it is always worth more as time goes by. A policy, therefore, in should be prized, not alone for its present, but also for its improving value. It stands for security and solidity; for the satisfaction of the policy holder and the comfort and care of his beneficianes. Such a policy, in time, becomes beyond price. The man of responsibility, the man of prudence, who lacks such a policy should get started with the Mutual Life Insurance Company.

For the second time in a year Mrs. Cordella Sundean has applied to the district court for a divorce from Herman Sundean, to whom she was married three years ago Last December Judge Troup dismissed her petition, holding she had not shown sufficlent grounds for a decree. She is about 60 years old, while her husband is a little over 40. He asserted at the former trial it was agreed when they married he was to look after her property, consisting of a large number of rented houses, but she contends he will not work and bases her application on the ground of nonsupport.
