MATCH STORY WITH MORAL

Why Children Should Not Be Permitted to Meddle with Dangerous Things.

The following fable for children is condensed by Ohio's fire marshal from one for which the British fire prevention committee recently awarded a prize to Mr. Bengough,

On the shelf of a dark cupboard there once lived a large family of matches. They, were very happy together in the same box.

They had made friends with a little mouse, a rat and a great black beetle. These three came to the cupboard every day to search for food, and sometimes they all gathered together to tell each other stories or to chat. Their talk was almost always

One day when they were congregated together the biggest match in the box spoke

"I hate children," he declared. "I should

"Oh!" exclaimed the mouse, the rat and the bettle. "Oh, what a bad thing to say?"

And they all trod upon one another's toes

as they shrank to the back of the shelves, trying to get as far as possible from that

"But," excisioned master rat, "why do

"That's just it" exclaimed the big matchs you hate children? Children are very nice like to burn every one of them!"

SALE OF TIMBER, WASHINGTON, D. C., March 7, 1907.—Sealed bids marked outside, "Bid, Notice of Sale, February 4, 1907. Black Hills." and addressed to the Forester, Forest Service, Washington, D. C., will be received up to and including the 22d day of April, 1907, for all or any part of the merchantable insect-infested or dead timber on certain areas of about 695,600 acres in all, to be designated by the forest officers, located in that part of the Black Hills Forest Reserve south of the Laurence-Pennington county line, and sections 1 to 12, inclusive, of both T. 2 N., R. 3 E., and T. 2 N., R. 4 E., B. H. M., Black Hills Forest Reserve, South Dakota; estimated to be 250,000,600 feet B. M. of yellow pine sawitimber, log scale, more or less. A deposit of not less than one-fourth the value of the timber which it is estimated will be cut in the first year of the sale must be sent to the Special Fiscal Agent, Forest Service, Washington, D. C., for each bid submitted to the forester. When any timber on a valid claim or patented land is included in a sale because of being infested with insects its full sale value will be paid to the claimant or owner. The right to reject any or all bids is reserved. For further information and regulations governing sales, address J. F. Smith, Forest Supervisor, Deadwood, South Dakota. WM. F. COX, Acting Forester. when are they good? Are they good when they make playthings of us? Are then good when they rub our heads against the wall just to make us blaze up and rage? No, no; it is because children are bad and disobedient that we hate them. If they interfered with you as they do with us, you would hate them, too. Master rat, have children ever rubbed your head agains "I should just like to see them," replied the rat, indignantly, "They run away, screaming when I'm about. Not that there is any reason for them to be much afraid?

I should never touch them if they let me alone." "Ah " exclaimed all the matches together, If they let you alone! Don't you see that is the point? If they let us alone, we might like them, too!" "You are merciless creatures," said Master Rat. "I should advise children to keep away from you, I wonder, though, that they are not frightened by your loud cracks ling voices and your horrible smell." "Yes, we are merchless," retorted the Big "Wretches," cried Mr. Beetle. "I must teil the poor children how you are scheming to hurt and kill them. They think you pretty harmless toys," All this time Master Rat had stood by speechless with indignation. At last he he panted out. "And I," spueaked Miss Mouse, But the matches only laughed again, How can you tell them?" they jeered, Do you know the language of children?" "No, but when I see children playing with matches, I shall buzz until they drop them in surprise. They will know that means

Where the Patch Belongs.

A New Englander recently had occasion to engage a gardener. One morning two applicants appeared—one a decidedly decent looking man, and the other of much less prepossessing appearance and manner.

After very little hesitation, the man of the house chose the latter applicant.

A friend, who was present, evinced surprise at the selection, asking:

"Has that man ever worked for you before?" "Has that man ever worked for you before?"
"No." replied the other; "in fact, I never saw either of them until today."
"Then why did you choose the shorter man? The other had a much better face,"
"Face!" exclaimed the proprietor of the place, in disgust. "Let me tell you that, when you pick out a gardener, you want to go by his oversils. If they're patched on the knees you want him. If the patch is on the seat of his trousers, you don't."—
