Captain Jack O'Nell of the police force had an automobile ride yesterday morning and acted as his own chauffeur, despite the fact that the motive power was supplied by a wagon and team. Saturday night a party of Omaha sports abandoned the auto on Second avenue and Twenty eighth street. The avenue has been recently graded up and the auto slipped in the mud into the ditch at the side. Footprints showed that the members of the party, which fincluded two women, had worked hard to get the machine out of the mire, but failing to do so, had abandoned it and made their way back to Omaha either by

Word was received at police headquarters early yesterday morning that an automobile, apparently without an owner, was in the mud on Second avenue and Twentyeighth street. COSTS TO KEEP WORD TRUST

Iswa Corporations Are in a Hurry to Strike Word from Title.

Board of Control is Having Some Difficulty Securing Superintendent for Boys' Industrial School.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) DES MOINES, April 21 .- (Special.)-A large number of Iowa corporations with the word "trust" in their title, have just learned that if they retain that word "trust" they must submit to an examination by the state auditor's office. Since then there has been an effort tents and this, it is believed, will fully to line up the trust companies and make the examinations. Many of these have resisted the examination, being in ignorance of the law. The opinion of Attorney General Mullen was secured just before his term of office expired and he declared that there was no question as to the intent of the law. It has now been put up to the companies to eliminate the trust word and business or else submit to the examination and many of them are eliminating

Governor Cummins met some of the business men of Des Moines at lunch and gave them to understand that while he thought the smoke nuisance bill, which applies to Des Moines only, was a very bad bill, he considered the smoke nuisance much worse and would likely sign it. "He made the suggestion to them that if they would go down to the city hall and get the council to pass a good smoke nuisance ordinance that would abate the trouble he would veto the law.

The insurance bill has been given a hearing by the governor and is still undecided. The inobriate law is one that the Board of Control has been recommending to the legislature for some time. Since the law MAIL CARRYING RATES HIGH providing for sentencing inebriates to place where their inebriacy would be treated as a physical allment, such as insanity, there has grown up the custom to Tidewater Virginia, the visitors with the district court judges and officials not stay long unless the greedy hotel men of sentencing vagrants and tramps under revise their program. Probably all of these laws will be definitely decided upon next week. No More Deep Wells. For the time being, at least, the state o owa seems to have changed its policy as to deep wells. In the appropriations for the Board of Control by the last legislature there is an appropriation of $32,000 for the water supply at the Glenwood school for the feeble minded. The state spent thousands of dollars endeavoring to get a they must change their methods quickly water supply for the Gienwood institution by seeking deep wells. Two or three were failures. The $32,000 now appropriated has the provision that it is to be spent in getting water from the gravel beds of the Missouri valley and providing further that before it is drawn the Board of Control must file with the auditor of state a certificate that it is impossible to get a sufficient supply from the deep well and further that the deep well shall not be sunk deeper than 1,200 feet. Iowa has had trouble getting water at other institutions. When the sites for many of the institutions were selected scenery and political pulls had more to do with the selection than the water supply, hence the trouble. Hunting Successor to Colonel Drake The State Board of Control is having some difficulty in finding a successor to Colonel Drake as superintendent of the Industrial School for Boys at Eldora. There are many politicians seeking the place because it pays $1,800 a year and all expenses except clothing, but the board is not in politics and is not susceptible to political in fluence. Vague stories are in circulation as to the reasons for Colonel Drake's leav ing, but all are more or less incorrect When Colonel Drake was at Boneville, Mo. he built the institution up from one build ing to eleven, the brick for all of which was manufactured on the ground and the work of erecting was all done by the boys in the institution. The institution was complete in every detail with underground tun nels connecting every building. While there Colonel Drake's wife died and while he was in one of the tunnels with a workman the tunnel caved in killing the workman and all but killing Colonel Drake. Being sensitive man he was unable to keep up under the multiplied troubles and suffered a nervous prostration from which he never fully recovered. He went from Boneville to Eldora at less salary in the hope that a change of scene would benefit his health but without the realizations of his hopes. All sorts of political influences is being brought to bear on the hoard to make political selections for the new superintendent. There are a dozen or more applicants. and a good position awaits a good man when he is found. The board is hunting for a man of large heart and a taste for teaching boys. He must have a mechanical turn for the boys are taught trades. The first requirement that the board makes is that the man must be of unquestioned moral character. The board is hunting furthermore for a young man in the hope that he will make the Eldora institution his life work.

The Navy department is waiting with a great deal of interest the outcome of the tests of submarine torpedo boats which are to be made early in May in the waters of Long Island sound. The appropriation for the next fiscal year for $3,000,000, this sum is sufficient to pay for the construction of six vessels of the highest type. The tests to be made are between boats as to what are known as represented and the fleet gathered in the Holland and Lake type and whichever one proves to be the most effective under the water and on the surface will be cellent idea of what has been done toward adopted as the type for the navy in the future.

Up to the present time the half dozen or so submarine boats purchased by the navy have been made on the modified lines of the original Holland boat. But the Lake people claim they have a superfor vessel and the test will demonstrate whether or not their claim is worthy of consideration. The fight is between the octopus of the electric boat company's design and the Lake built by the company bearing that name. Each company claims superior navigating abilities for its own production and these claims are to be settled by a board over which Commander Marix will preside,

When submarine torpedo boats were first added to the navy they were not popular among officers and men, but since President Roosevelt and Commander "Dick" Wainright, of Gloucester fame, tested subsurface navigation personally no difficulty has been experienced in finding officers and crews to man them. The submarine torpedo boat has come to stay and it will undoubtedly prove an effective means of coast defense should this country get into another foreign war,
