TREASURES IN ANTIQUE AND PAWN SHOPS

Heirloom in High Favor with Summer Girl of 1907—Cameos Counted Especially Good—Bracelets with Short Sleeves.

The high-backed combs of our grandmothers' time, the hair jewelry popular fifty years ago, cameos and old-fashioned pieces of jewelry in general, have been revived to decorate the summer girl of 1907. Women without old jewelry of their own are searching the antique shops and even the pawn shops for heirlooms whose owners have been obliged to part with them. The fashion has brought unusual prosperity to one shop whose owner has been in the business for more than forty years. The place is filled to overflowing with curios of all sorts gathered from the four corners of the earth and each one of them has some special value, from the standpoint either of antiquity or of exquisite workmanship. For the owner of the establishment is not a mammoth worshiper, but loves the business for itself. He bought every piece in his collection because he saw something beautiful in it, and if he doesn't sell it, why, he is able to enjoy it so much longer.

Topaz, amethyst and coral are perhaps more in demand than any others of the semi-precious stones. The corals are scarce. The best comes from Sicily. Some are imported from Japan, but they are speckled or mottled with white and are not so delicate and pretty as the Sicilian. While a small neck string can be purchased for $5, the long coral neck chains cost as much as $150.

The hair jewelry is also somewhat scarce. Fifty years ago it was the fashion for a woman to have various articles of jewelry made from her own hair or that of friends. These ornaments were mounted in gold, perhaps with the addition of pearls as a further ornamentation.

Usually there were included in a set a necklace, a bracelet and earrings. In one set which has been brought out of a jewel box after long confinement there the necklace is made of hair finely woven in a long circular strand, after which it is separated to imitate beads by narrow gold fillets. A gold ball is placed directly in the center, from which depend two bells made of hair with tiny gold clappers.

The bracelet is in the shape of a double bow knot with a gold ornament in the center, and two bell-like sections dangling from them. The earrings are bells. In its day such a set cost about $100 for the making.

It was an art in itself, the weaving and plaiting of the hair into ornaments. Now there is scarcely to be found any workers who are familiar with the art.

Semi-Precious Stones.
Possessors of cameos can utilize them easily now. One of the most effective methods of setting them is in the shape of a dog collar.

One young woman who discovered in the family jewel box a lot of old cameos belonging to her mother had them arranged in this fashion. The largest cameo, the brooch of the set, was set in front with the earrings on either side and the smaller stones reaching around to the clasp at the back, the cameos being fastened together with three rows of tiny flat linked chains.

While mythological characters are used largely in the design, the largest cameo is an old custom which is being revived today of having the features of some dear friend or member of the family carved thereon. One woman whose first child died shortly after birth had its lineaments delicately worked out in cameo style on a large bracelet, which she still wears in lieu of any other jewelry.

Broad gold bracelets are popular with young folks and meet a want long felt by those wearing short or elbow sleeves. One favorite style frequently seen in the book chain bracelet and consists of many overlapping pieces of thin gold. These are usually about an inch in width, while the neck chains to match are not more than a third as broad.

Heavy flat bracelets, carved and wrought, are also being worn, and old Greek coins linked together form others of the many quaint arm ornaments which the fad has unearthed. Caruncles framed in settings of old yellow gold are effective, and amethysts, cut oblong and set in flat settings of chased gold, are equally beautiful.

One of the developments of the old jewelry fad is the fancy of collecting watch bridges, which are small circular pieces of gold or silver cut out in open work fashion and covered with fine chasing. These bridges were used upon old-fashioned time pieces made in Switzerland and England. They are used also to form bracelets, necklaces or belt buckles, or are used to join semi-precious stones in the form of a necklace. One dog collar recently seen showed alternate watch bridges and corals. No two of these bridges are alike, for the reason that they were all made by hand.

Spunners Desire an Advance.
PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 20.—A request for an advance of 10 per cent in wages, to take effect next Monday, will be served at once upon all mill owners in Rhode Island who have not already signified their intention of following the lead of Fall River and New Bedford in advancing the wages of the textile operatives. This action was voted yesterday at the annual meeting of the Rhode Island Spinners' association, held at Pawtucket. The proposed advance, although asked by the male spinners as an organization, was requested for all textile operatives, weavers, loom fixers and slanders, tenders, as well as spinners.

Married Women

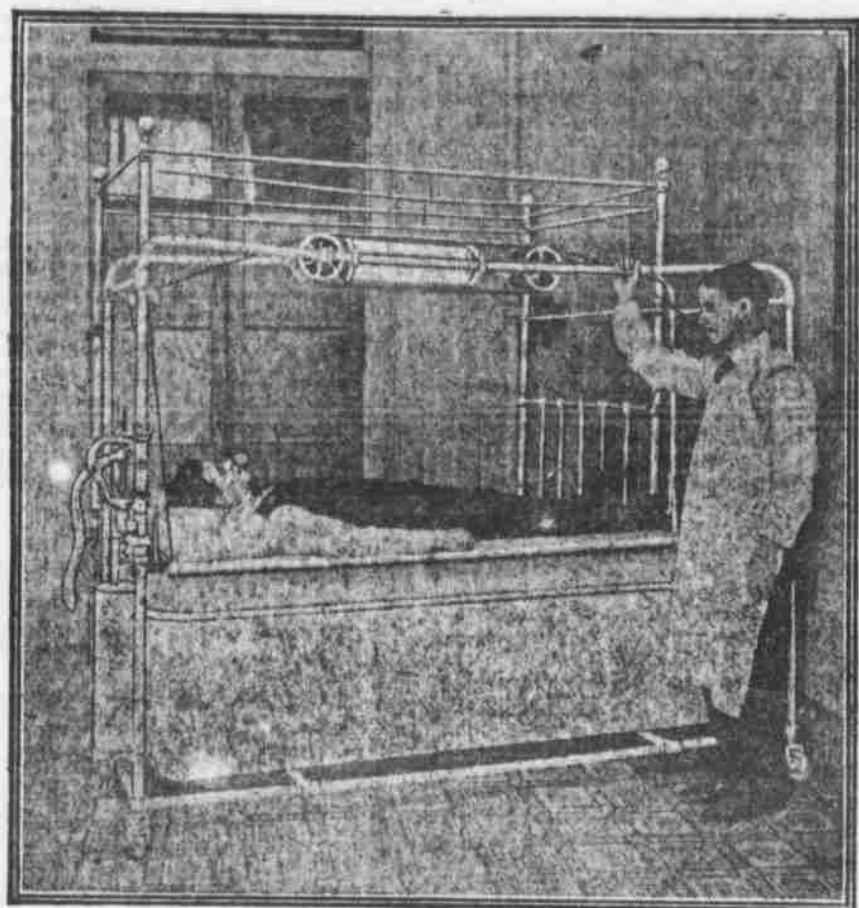

Every woman covets a shapely, pretty figure, and many of them deplore the loss of their girlish forms after marriage. The bearing of children is often destructive to the mother's shapeliness. All of this can be avoided, however, by the use of Mother's Friend before baby comes, as this great liniment always prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of her form. Mother's Friend overcomes all the danger of child-birth, and carries the expectant mother safely through this critical period without pain. It is woman's greatest blessing. Thousands gratefully tell of the benefit and relief derived from the use of this wonderful remedy. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Our little book, telling all about this liniment, will be sent free.

WORK OF THE CLUB WOMEN

New Jersey Domestic Service Corporation Organized to Overcome Servant Problem.

SOCIETY FOR PROTECTION OF PASSENGERS

Women Propose to Investigate Transportation Nuisances with View to Bring About Improvement in Conditions.

The Society for the Protection of Passenger's Rights, composed of about forty prominent New York women, with Mrs. John Fowler Trow as president, has been organized and has commenced investigation of all things pertaining to street transportation of passengers in the city of New York and its environs. The work is being carried on under five committees, one to attend to the elevated, another to the subway and a third to the surface lines. Another committee will investigate transfer evils and another will look after the Fifth avenue stage. The cause of over-crowded cars, Brooklyn bridge breakdowns, car ahead chases, the dirty condition of cars and lack of courtesy on part of conductors are among other things receiving attention with a view of improving transportation service. If after presenting the facts and result of their investigation companies a marked improvement is not evident the society will take the case into court and is fully prepared to sustain the cause of the people against the corporation. The work of this organization is being watched by club women in other large cities and in several places civic improvement committees and clubs have undertaken a like work.

Domestic Service Corporation.
An association of prominent women of Montclair, N. J., have formulated a plan by which they propose to solve the servant problem. They propose to organize a Domestic Service corporation and have called a public meeting to discuss its details and secure the support and co-operation of the householders. They propose to "do away with the drudgery of the kitchen and substitute for it a perfectly equipped, skillfully managed central plant which shall prepare all the family food, bring it to the house three times a day and take away the soiled dishes, leaving to the housewife only the pleasant task of arranging the table as it suits her fancy."

Women's Press Day at Jamestown.
The Women's National Press association some months since accepted an invitation from the governing board of the Jamestown exposition to hold a conference and special day for women engaged in literary and journalistic work. This conference will be held June 7 and 8. A cordial invitation is hereby extended to all members of the council of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which will meet at the Jamestown exposition the same week, to attend the special day exercises of the Women's National Press association.

School Teachers' Bill Vetted.
Mayor McClellan of New York has vetoed the much discussed teachers' equal pay bill and the New York Board of Education has suspended two teachers and threatens to suspend others for going to Albany to work for the passage of the bill. This state of affairs illustrates the disadvantages of two things against which club women and others have long contended—"indirect influence" for women and school boards appointed by the mayor instead of elected by the people.

SOUTHERN WOMAN'S INVENTION
Intended to Benefit Hospital Patients—Mrs. Muller's Double Philanthropy.

A southern woman has been practicing philanthropy of two different kinds in New York for the last year. For one thing she has been providing for northern consumption southern dishes good to eat, and in addition she has been trying to persuade the hospitals to adopt an idea which she thinks would be of benefit to the patients.

She is Mrs. Caroline Nicholas Muller of New Orleans. Mrs. Muller, who is 65, is the daughter of Robert Carter Nicholas, United States senator from Louisiana, and a direct descendant of Robert Carter, commonly called King Carter, who was twice royal governor of the colony of Virginia and president of the house of burgesses.

For many years she was prominent in the social and club life of New Orleans. She was the first secretary of the Quakers club and a member of the board of managers of the Woman's club and of the Woman's exchange. In 1890 she founded the first training school for nurses in the city. This school subsequently developed into the Charity hospital. It was through her visits to the patients that she was impressed with the great need of some apparatus by means of which very sick persons could be moved from bed to bath tub, carriage and operating table.

"A nurse told me one day," she said, "that she had given five baths that afternoon to typhoid patients, and that she had been obliged to have the assistance of six other nurses in making the transfer from bed to tub. It occurred to me that there must be some way in which those suffering from typhoid could receive the prescribed treatment without involving the expenditure of so much physical and nervous energy on the part of the nurses."

After studying the problem long Mrs. Muller invented a device which she thinks accomplishes that end. A model has been in use in the Charity hospital, New Orleans, for four years. It consists of an open framework of enameled iron, comprising four vertical posts on wheels, connected at the top and bottom by horizontal bars. On the upper horizontal bar is a group of pulley wheels, from which is suspended by steel wires a platform of woven wire and perforated rubber.

By turning a screw the platform can be made to swing horizontally or to descend a distance of several feet. It is raised by means of a hydraulic pump attached to one of the vertical posts. By means of this apparatus patients in the New Orleans hospital are moved. Twice a week so dispatches to one of the branches of the Woman's exchange a consignment of delicacies, which she says "northerners have no notion of concocting." In the first place, there is chicken gumbo which no one who had not at some time or other been in the confidence of a real old time Creole knows anything about. Secondly there is the genuine Lady Baltimore cake, whose deliciousness is beyond dispute. No recipe for this dainty is considered authentic unless its pedigree is attested by a notary's seal. A number of New York women firmly believe that Mrs. Muller possesses one of the great and jealously guarded originals, for they refuse to purchase this particular kind of cake from any one but her. She also makes pralines, the confection rendered famous by the turbaned old negro mammy of New Orleans, who sell them on the street corners. They bear a faint resemblance to that combination of maple sugar and pecan nuts and cream known as Mexican kisses, but Mrs. Muller insists that the two are not to be mentioned in the same breath.

STUDY OF THEOLOGY VITAL

Importance of Divinity Education Emphasized by Rev. L. O. Baird.

GROWTH OF MODERN THOUGHT DEMANDS IT

Better and Stronger Churches Are Built Thus, Says St. Mary's Avenue Pastor to Ministerial Union.

Rev. Lucius O. Baird of St. Mary's Avenue Congregational church delivered the principal address before the Omaha Ministerial union at its regular monthly meeting in the First Congregational church Monday morning. His subject was "Theological Preparation for the Ministry Today."

He sought to show that with the growth of modern thought and educational systems the theological seminary must keep pace with the secular educational institutions and that theological preparation for the pulpit is more necessary today than ever and that as a rule the ministry of today is on a higher intellectual plane than ever.

The spiritual training has kept in active touch with other studies of the theological seminary and the result is an improved ministry and the building up of better and stronger churches.

State Sunday School Meeting.
G. G. Wallace, chairman of the executive committee of the Nebraska State Sunday School union was present at the meeting to interest the ministerial union in the approaching state Sunday school convention, which is to be held at Hastings, June 19-20, and urge the co-operation of the ministers.

He gave a brief outline of the program of the convention, stating that some of the foremost Sunday school men of the United States had promised to attend the convention. As a preliminary to the convention Mr. Wallace said Mr. Knapp, founder of the religious school of pedagogy at Hartford, Conn., would be in Omaha June 15, to remain until the following Monday and would speak in some of the Omaha churches the morning and evening of Sunday, June 16, on Sunday school topics, and that he would speak before the ministerial union at its meeting Monday, June 17, if the union so desired. He also asked that the union participate in the formal dedication ceremonies of the new Young Men's Christian association building.

A motion prevailed asking Mr. Knapp to deliver an address before the union on Monday morning, June 17.

New Members Taken In.
Two new members were elected to membership in the union, Rev. Julius Schwarz of the German Presbyterian church and Dr. Tiff.

The committee on the tent evangelistic meetings proposed for the coming summer in Omaha submitted a verbal report. The plan contemplates dividing the city up into districts and providing a tent for these services. The ministers of the several districts met at the close of the meeting to arrange plans for their respective districts, which will be reported at the next meeting of the ministerial union.

A meeting of the chorus choirs of all the churches will be held at the First Christian church tabernacle, Nineteenth and Parmen streets, the evening of June 4 to arrange for the musical programs of the tent meetings.

Resolutions of condolence were adopted relative to the death of Rev. B. F. Diefenbacher, a member of the union.

GOOD OLD DAYS ARE HERE
Tin Star Detective Is Still Abroad Putting the World at Rights.

The good old days have come again. Armed with a nickel-plated badge, a leather "billy" and books of instruction on "How to Be a Detective," G. A. Walker was arrested by Patrolmen Good and Peck Saturday night and locked up at the city jail charged with impersonating an officer and carrying concealed weapons. The instructions were issued by a "detective agency of Cincinnati and contained such valuable information as "How to Work a Detective Case," "How to Find a Clue," "How to Catch a Counterfeiter" and other subjects of like interest.

Walker asserted he was a sure-enough sleuth before Judge Crawford in police court Monday morning. He had paid good money for a badge and ought to be. The case was continued for a day.

HIGGINS MAY PLEAD INSANE

Murderer of Mr. and Mrs. Copple Believed to Be Contemplating This.

COUNSEL REFUSES TO DISCUSS IT

Streams of Curious Persons Pour Into Jail Sunday to See Prisoner, Who Is Disgusted at Them.

It is believed by those familiar with the case that insanity will be offered as a plea by L. B. Higgins, the Copple murderer now in the county jail here, to save his neck. Thomas A. Hollister, his attorney, Monday morning declined to say whether or not he would offer this plea in behalf of his client. He also declined to make a statement, saying he would wait until Mrs. Higgins arrives from Denver before outlining his course. Higgins himself was somewhat morose when visited by reporters and declined to talk to them about the case.

Higgins does not know when his mother will arrive. The last letter he received from her stated she would come as soon as she could. The letter indicated she has no money to pay her expenses out here.

The solitary cell in which Higgins is confined was visited by a large drove of people Sunday. Higgins expressed considerable disgust at the number of visitors he had had and said he preferred to be left alone. Mrs. Shinnock and the other women who conduct religious services at the jail Sunday held special services in Higgins' cell. Rev. B. F. Fellman is also a frequent visitor. The services are said to have made a deep impression on Higgins, but he declined to discuss them. A liberal supply of religious tracts was in his cell Monday morning. If he has gotten religion it has not affected his love for cigarettes. He was putting one of them Monday morning and had several packages of tobacco and cigarette papers piled near the head of his cot.

The jail authorities say they do not know when he will be taken back to Pender for the preliminary hearing, but it probably will not be for a week or more.

Granite Cutters' Strike Settled.
MILFORD, Mass., May 20.—A strike of 200 granite cutters, who have been out since April 1, was settled at a conference which came to an end early today. A compromise was reached so that the men will receive 6 cents an hour with a half holiday Saturday. They demanded 8 cents an hour.
