FLEENOR SOON RECAPTURED

Barfoot Burglar Enjoys but Brief Respite After Escape in California.

Freedom was not of long duration for John G. Fleenor, colored, alias John Carter, known as "the barfoot burglar," whose escape May 14 while on his way to the penitentiary at San Quentin, Cal., to serve fifteen years for burglary threw the police of the west into a state of apprehension, according to a telegram from Los Angeles to the Omaha police, saying that at the last he was wedged in so tight that he could neither proceed nor retreat. There he remained, roasted by steam pipes and squeezed in the small space, until obliged to cry for help. It was with the greatest difficulty that he was extricated.

Fleenor is an expert lock picker and it was by working the lock in the Harbor police station in San Francisco that he made his escape. The Omaha police had a similar experience with him after he had been captured and arrested by Chief Donahue and Captain Dunn, many years ago, when they were traveling together as detectives, after a fierce fight in a building on Cuming street, when nearly the entire front of the place was ruined in the fracas.

After being placed in a cell in the old Jackson street police station the navy picked a "Yale" lock, got out of his cell and crawled along over the cells in an attempt to reach the sidewalk. The space was narrow under the ceiling, however, and at the last he was wedged in so tight that he could neither proceed nor retreat. There he remained, roasted by steam pipes and squeezed in the small space, until obliged to cry for help. It was with the greatest difficulty that he was extricated.

Reliable articles, like Dr. Price's Delicious Flavoring Extracts are the cheapest in the long run, if health is to be considered.
