

GROWTH OF SOCIALISM

Increase of Movement Causes Official of Austria Considerable Alarm.
CHRISTIAN SOCIALISM NEWEST NAME
High Church Dignitary Declares it is Neither Christian Nor Socialism.
GREAT CHANGE EFFECTED IN YEAR 1895
Karl Lueger was Then First Elected Burgo-master on This Platform.
MANY FUTURE DIFFICULTIES IN VIEW

VIENNA, June 1.—(Special.)—The growth of socialism in Austria, and especially of Christian socialism, which a high Catholic dignitary has pronounced to be "neither Christian nor socialism," has certainly been viewed with alarm by state as well as by church, and there are many different rumors as to what is likely to be done towards the checking of movements of this nature.
It is undoubtedly true that the political of the ancient city of Vienna can hardly be grasped even today without some idea of its history. It was at one time strongly liberal, but it is the home of Christian socialism, which controls the municipality and predominates everywhere. There will probably be a stronger leaning of social democracy for many years to come, but liberalism appears to have ceased to exist as a factor to be reckoned with when it comes to questions of Parliament and questions of government.

The population of Vienna should be divided into three classes: the rich and one influential bourgeoisie, the small tradesmen and the workmen. There is no great industry and but very few manufacturers. It is the home of the small shop keeper and the man who works at his house for the middleman, either on leather or in jewelry or in fancy goods. Their work is of the very best and commands high prices, but they do not always see a full profit and are therefore intensely bitter against the middlemen who organize the trade for them and secure a large share of the gain to themselves. Most of these men are Jews and this fact undoubtedly accounts for the strong feeling of anti-Semitism that has helped create Christian socialism.

When the constitution was given in 1861 the franchise was high and the richer bourgeoisie had everything their own way. They were liberals and the corporation was partly represented, and what there was in the lower council belonged to what was then called the democratic party, and in 1868 Karl Lueger amongst its members.

Great Change in 1895.
The great change was effected in 1895 when Karl Lueger was for the first time elected burgo-master of Vienna, but Christian socialism was not very popular with the authorities. They had been very violent in their language and in their methods of procedure and this election was not finally ratified until ten years ago, since when Karl Lueger has held undisputed sway in the town council, assisted by an able body of men, among whom Albert Seidman is the representative of his leader during his present illness, while Dr. Weiskirchner as chief of the vice burgo-masters, is discharging his duties at the town hall.

It can be understood that there are many possibilities of future troubles between the social democrats, the Christian socialists and the liberals. In the campaign through which Vienna has just passed one great subject for dispute between the Christian socialists and the liberals is the great change which has come over Vienna, 1895 transformed into one of the most beautiful cities of Europe, through the elimination of the old and the substitution of the Ringstrasse. Both of the parties have claimed this as their work, but the fact remains that these improvements were started by the liberals and carried out by the Christian socialists.

The former Countess Festiche, who married the gyepi violinist Nyary, has been disinherit her father on the ground that her marriage makes her unworthy of the family.
Just before her marriage her father had made her a present of a house in Budapest worth $800, in anticipation of her marriage with Nyary, to whom she was then betrothed. The countess on her marriage presented the inheritance to her father.
Countess a Pious Wife.
The gift has been revoked by the father of the countess and, according to Hungarian law, this really does cancel the settlement of the house on Nyary. The countess is therefore a penniless bride. She is stated to be seventy three.

MURDER IN FREEPORT, ILL.
Box Shows Young Matron Whom He Thought Was Girl Who Had Killed Him.
FREEPORT, Ill., June 1.—Mrs. Edna Hummel, 19 years old, was shot to death today by Herbert E. Springer, 13 years old of Rockford, Ill., who chased Mrs. Hummel through a crowded street, thinking she was another woman. Springer tonight received from an alcoholic stupor and saved over the fatal mistake. He fired three shots at the woman, the third bullet striking her as she was fleeing into a grocery.
Springer was arrested. When it was made known to him that he had shot a woman whom he did not know, mistaking Mrs. Hummel for a Rockford girl, who he said had "thrown him over," the prisoner saved for hours.

LONDON, June 1.—(Special.)—The man in which globe-trotters of America continue to do London remains a mystery. It is a curious thing that the very American who gave more insight in a fortnight than the average Londoner can see in a lifetime. Mr. Paul Dickey, late of Texas, later of the University of Michigan, where he played on the football team, has been interviewed and has given the untold secret of the "hustling."
"First," he said, "I knew just what I wanted to see. I wanted to see the things I had read about—the things that I had pictures of. That is what we all want to do when we come across the sea and sail in St. Paul's and attended to it. That was my luck, and a very good lunch it was, too. In the afternoon I had a look at some of the rooms in the British museum and went on to the Zoological gardens.
"I tell you the way you can get around in this town is a wonder. All you've got to do is to ask one of the policemen and board a motor-omnibus, or go down into a tube. Of course, one can get lost easily, but then I haven't had time to get lost."
American Meat Satisfactory.
In giving instruction for the weekly issue of one pound of preserved meat to the army of London, the War office has sent the following letter to the commands at the home stations:
"The establishments in which the brands of American tinmed meat now being issued to the troops are manufactured have been carefully inspected by officers sent specially to America for the purpose, and their reports have satisfied the army council that the quality of the tinmed meat used and the conditions under which it is prepared and canned by the firms now in use are of the highest standard."
Richard Boorer, who lost the power of speech six years ago by falling over a dog down stairs, recovered it the other day at Croydon workhouse by the happy device of preventing another accident. He got a shock in doing this. The king of the officers of Croydon workhouse says that it will not be possible to use this casual miracle as a precedent, because in such cases one never knows just the kind of effectual surprise to spring upon the patient. He is confident that they have been hanging tables and dropping things for a long time, but that none of these manifestations had apparently attracted the attention of Boorer. There is a story that Boorer once saw his old master in a new house because he was an excellent organizer, but it has been observed since the lemonade incident that Boorer was a law unto himself.

WOMEN ARE IN PARLIAMENT
Finnish Legislative Body Has One-Sixth of Membership from Weaker Sex.
HELSINKI, June 1.—(Special.)—The new Finnish Parliament is remarkable for the fact that one-sixth of the deputies are women.
The granting of female suffrage was followed by a striking success of women candidates in the recent elections. Forty-nine candidates were nominated and nineteen were elected, the votes recorded by women in many instances showing a preponderance over those cast by the men.
This was largely due to the enthusiasm of the women voters as organized by the women's rights movement.
In several places the women were heard to say that the voters might be properly instructed in the duties that were expected of them.
The Swedish party elected only one woman, Miss Dagmar Nyqvist, one of the candidates in the women's rights movement.
In general the women's suffrage was heard to say that the voters might be properly instructed in the duties that were expected of them.

ONE WAY THEY DO IN SIAM
King About to Visit France Has Some Peculiar Ideas About Flirtations.
PARIS, June 1.—(Special.)—As at present arranged, the king of Siam will not arrive in Paris for several days yet. He will only spend a few days here and then proceed first to London, then to Denmark.
King Chulalongkorn's approaching visit is heralded by anecdotes. One just told which he returned. The king is said to have visited the Paris Exposition in 1904. An English commercial traveler, so the story runs, was at Bangkok and was graciously received by the king of Siam. He was invited to visit the palace and saw some of his majesty's many wives. He is an engaging young man and one of the ladies, a charming Annamite, cast him glances which he returned. He was invited to have invited nothing, but he signed to an attendant. When the Englishman was being ushered politely out of the palace a court official stopped him in an ante-room. A slave came up and, kneeling, presented to him the freshly cut off head of the young Annamite on a silver charger. The hint was unmistakable.

ATTACK ON GENERAL BOTHA

German Papers Claim General Cronje is Far Ahead of New Boer Premier.
BERLIN, June 1.—(Special.)—The German papers are making the bitterest kind of attack upon General Cronje, claiming that General Cronje, who appeared as an exhibitor at "The Boer War" on Coney Island, a spectacular production in the United States was a gentleman and a scholar when compared with the new premier, who has been visiting London and who has been made the "lion of the season."
The Berlin Boerzen charges General Cronje with base ingratitude towards the German sympathizers of six years ago in thus becoming premier of a British colony and thus "entering into the service of the conqueror." This paper especially compares his action with the Boer general, who was allowed to be "made the attraction for an American circus," and to that of Mr. Kruger in retreating to Europe with money enough to live the cushioned life of a pensioned field marshal.
The Zeitung says: "It certainly violates German concepts of good taste that this leader of the old fight, whose name was synonymous with a free Transvaal should permit himself to be well paid by his new master. Mr. Cronje might have at least refused to attend the imperial conference personally as other colonial premiers have done. He might have attended as an observer, but he has been more than that. He has been treated with respect for the purpose of exhibiting symbolically the glory and power of imperialism. The conqueror of yesterday cuts a sorry figure at such a banquet, for he resembles the Oriental king, who wore a crown to judge behind the triumphal chariots of the Boer general, treated with respect, but bearing their lost crowns in their hands as the token of their humiliation."
"Mr. Cronje does more than walk meekly behind the conqueror's chariot; he has become the clown and lion of the London season. He drinks champagne at the banquet, is interviewed, photographed, and is talked incessantly about the glory of his beloved fatherland. Well may we ask why he ever endured the hardships of the Boer war and led so many brave young lives to death if, at the end of it all, he consents to do what he is now doing."

HAYWOOD INDISPOSED

Prisoner at Boise Has Acute Attack of Intestinal Toxemia.
TRIAL IS ABJOURNED UNTIL MONDAY
He Recovers Rapidly and Will Be All Right in Few Hours.
MANY RUMORS ARE IN CIRCULATION
Friends of Defendant believe Attempt Was Made to Poison him.
OTHER SIDE TAKES DIFFERENT VIEW
Belief is Expressed that Illness is Timed to Allow Defense to Further Investigate Ventresmen.
BOISE, Idaho, June 1.—William D. Haywood was seized with a sudden illness early this morning and was unable to appear in court. His trial on the charge that he murdered former Governor Grossberg was adjourned until Monday. Haywood was restless and ill most of the night and early this morning began crying in pain. Two hurriedly summoned physicians announced after examining him that he was suffering from acute intestinal toxemia. Measures for the alleviation of the pain in his abdomen and head included the administration of morphia, and dizziness and nausea caused by the drug, rather than the original trouble, were responsible for his inability to go to the court room in the afternoon.
Haywood is a hearty eater and since the trial began has stopped taking exercise, and these conditions, added to the worry and strain of the trial, are believed to be responsible for the attack. The earlier suffering of the prisoner created the impression that he was quite seriously ill, and it was thought that an extended interruption of the trial was inevitable. However, Haywood responded quickly to treatment and by 9:30 this morning, when Judge Wood ordered a recess of court until 1:30, it was believed that the prisoner would be able to attend an afternoon session. He did attempt to dress, but the effort made him dizzy and ill and he returned to bed. His counsel informed the court that he would surely be able to be present on Monday next for adjournment of the trial.
The jury was not brought into court and the talesmen in attendance were warned to refrain from discussing the case. The case, therefore, stands where it did at adjournment, and it is not until Tuesday afternoon that the jury will be called into court to complete the jury panel for removal of some of the jurors already chosen.
Many Rumors Circulated.
The final moves in jury selection, coupled with the unexpected interruption of the trial, have given rise to many rumors and freer discussion than it has heretofore had. Active friends of the prosecution expressed the belief that the illness of Haywood was a convenience to gain time for a further investigation of the talesmen of the last venire, others were sure that Haywood had been poisoned, and the strain of the trial and the and a dozen other rumors went through the town. One suspicious friend of the defense declared that the friends of county authorities asking for permission to postpone the trial until after the coroner's inquest. Still another report was that the defense, greatly dissatisfied with several men in the jury box, would seek by a show of affidavits to get consent for their re-examination. A further report was that the state was not satisfied with one of the jurors and would seek to have him removed after the defense used its last peremptory challenge.
Peter Broen, an attorney of Butte, retained by the miners' union of that city to assist in the defense, arrived here today. He met the other counsel for the defense and also the prisoners, but took no part in the brief court proceedings. The jury was called at the home of the bride's parents here today.

TRACTION MAGNATES ARE UP
Prison Men Charged with Bribery Move to Set Aside the Indictments.
SAN FRANCISCO, June 1.—Patrick Calhoun, Thorneville, Mullaney, Tiry, L. Ford, William E. Ahrens, Abraham Ruef and Mayor Eugene F. Schmitz were arraigned today before Judge Lawlor on indictments charging them with bribing supervisors to award a trolley franchise to the United Railroads. They were given one week to answer indictments charging them with bribery of supervisors and withhold a competitive franchise to the Home Telephone company. Counsel moved to set aside the indictments. Arguments will be heard next week.
Judge Lawlor approved the bill bonds aggregating nearly $200,000, given by Calhoun, Schmitz, Mullaney, Ford and Ahrens. When Vice President Louis Glass of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company and Special Agent T. V. Halsey of the same company were called to answer to the indictments charging them with bribing supervisors not to grant a franchise to the Home Telephone company, competitor of the company in which Glass and Halsey were interested, their attorney, Delphin M. Delmas, read a motion to set aside the indictments on formal and technical grounds. After a brief consultation between opposing counsel and the court Judge Lawlor announced that he will set each day 4 o'clock to hear arguments on this motion.
Judge Lawlor then called the cases against Abraham Detweiler, the Toledo, O., capitalist, indicted on thirteen counts charging bribery of supervisors on behalf of the Home Telephone company. The whereabouts of Mr. Detweiler are still unknown. The cases against him were continued until Monday.

LEE IS AGAIN COMMANDER

Georgia General is Re-elected Head of United Confederate Veterans.
RICHMOND, Va., June 1.—The United Confederate Veterans today decided to meet next year in Birmingham, Ala. The following officers were elected:
Grand commander, General Stephen D. Lee of Georgia.
Lieutenant general, Department of Virginia, General O. Irvine Walker of South Carolina.
Adjutant general, Department of Tennessee, General Clement A. Evans of Georgia.
Lieutenant general, Department of Trans-Mississippi, General W. R. Cabell of Texas.
Hundreds of the old soldiers are going home to escape the cold and steady rain unprecedented in this city. The situation looks gloomy because of the sudden streets and the miles of gay decorations are limp in the pouring rain, but all look forward to a fine day Monday for the parade and unveiling of the statue of the confederate president, Jefferson Davis.
In a speech at last night's session of the confederate reunion, which aroused the convention, and which formed the most important feature of the reunion thus far, Colonel Robert E. Lee, Jr., said:
"When the red curtain of war rolled upon the American stage it revealed the courage of the largest business firms of Omaha and South Omaha will leave on a tour of over 1,000 miles through the states of Wyoming, Montana, Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Utah for the sole purpose of extending the commercial relations of Omaha, the Market Town and combining it with the greatest effort for a "Greater Omaha." The excursion will be the most extensive ever undertaken by any commercial organization of the United States and every detail will be in harmony with the prime object of helping the cities of the great northwest into closer touch and business communication with the commercial advantage of Omaha and Nebraska.
The excursion is for the primary object of exploiting the commercial resources of Omaha, but it also assumes significance as a project state-wide in its possibilities for the advancement of "The Market Town" and the state of Nebraska by the presence of the chief executive of the state, Governor George L. Sheldon.
Governor Stays to Last.
Word was received Saturday morning that Governor Sheldon will be able to participate in the entire excursion and probably will leave with the train from Omaha although there is a possibility he may not be able to join the train until it arrives at Lincoln. Through the courtesy of the citizens of Plattsmouth, Governor Sheldon has been relieved from an appointment at that place in June 15, which would have necessitated his leaving Omaha on an excursion in Oregon, and he will remain on the excursion until its close, June 31.
All is in readiness for the departure of the excursion train Sunday afternoon, as all cars are now in the railroad yards with the exception of the dining car, and that will be taken off Sunday morning. Members of the excursion are to meet at the Commercial club held a final meeting Saturday afternoon, when all subcommittees made final reports that every detail of the minutest character essential to the complete success of the excursion had been completed.
In contemplating the work leading from the inception of the idea of the "Great Northwest" excursion, the members of the committee gave a vote of thanks to everybody who had contributed to its success and particularly to the several newspapers of Omaha, whose influence with the public in Omaha and throughout the west had been so potent in moulding public opinion to the possibilities and importance of the excursion.
Bin Jew Official Orator.
It was announced by the chairman of the trade extension committee, J. M. Taylor, that A. W. Jeffers, an attorney, will accompany the excursion and will deliver many of the addresses to be made at the different cities enroute. A special list of speakers has been completed and many addresses on subjects of importance to the state will be made by Governor Sheldon.
On account of the length of the excursion special arrangements have been made for the comfort of the participants, and to this end the promoters have had the hearty co-operation of the Pullman company. The dining car will be one of the largest in use and will be manned with an unusually large force of cooks and waiters, under the personal supervision of an experienced conductor and the steward of the Commercial club.
Special Plans for Mail.
Assistant Postmaster Woodward has given his assistance in preparing a schedule for the prompt delivery of mail to the excursionists. Mail addressed "care Omaha special" and mailed in time to reach any one of the following points before the time shown will be delivered on the train:
Butte, Mont., Wednesday, June 10, 6 a. m.

TRACTION MAGNATES ARE UP
Prison Men Charged with Bribery Move to Set Aside the Indictments.
SAN FRANCISCO, June 1.—Patrick Calhoun, Thorneville, Mullaney, Tiry, L. Ford, William E. Ahrens, Abraham Ruef and Mayor Eugene F. Schmitz were arraigned today before Judge Lawlor on indictments charging them with bribing supervisors to award a trolley franchise to the United Railroads. They were given one week to answer indictments charging them with bribery of supervisors and withhold a competitive franchise to the Home Telephone company. Counsel moved to set aside the indictments. Arguments will be heard next week.
Judge Lawlor approved the bill bonds aggregating nearly $200,000, given by Calhoun, Schmitz, Mullaney, Ford and Ahrens. When Vice President Louis Glass of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company and Special Agent T. V. Halsey of the same company were called to answer to the indictments charging them with bribing supervisors not to grant a franchise to the Home Telephone company, competitor of the company in which Glass and Halsey were interested, their attorney, Delphin M. Delmas, read a motion to set aside the indictments on formal and technical grounds. After a brief consultation between opposing counsel and the court Judge Lawlor announced that he will set each day 4 o'clock to hear arguments on this motion.
Judge Lawlor then called the cases against Abraham Detweiler, the Toledo, O., capitalist, indicted on thirteen counts charging bribery of supervisors on behalf of the Home Telephone company. The whereabouts of Mr. Detweiler are still unknown. The cases against him were continued until Monday.
