Bearish Crowd Hammers Dewn Prices and Questations of the Day on Various Sagging Movement of Prices Which Started Friday Continues.

> OPINION OF PRESIDENT'S SPEECH REVISED Speculators Inclined to Think that Good Effect on Values at First Expected Will Not Ma> > terialise.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Prices of stocks continued today the sagging movement which set in yesterday. The movement seemed due, as much as anything, to the conviction that no substantial demand for securities had resulted from the better, sentiment said to be produced by President Roosevelt's Decoration day speech. In fact, the tone of comment of some of the influential financial reviews induced some revision of opinion in stock market circles as to the effect of the early selling also was in anticipation of the unfavorable character of the bank statement. The large loan expansion shown by the banks was the chief factor in causing the reduction of the surplus item. Preparation for the month-end requirements and the added obligation of payment of a 15 per cent installment of subscriptions for new St. Paul stock were the influences responsible for the loan expansion. The gain of nearly 11,000,000 in the cash item was in comparison with an unexpected decrease. Discounts in London declined with the turn of the month, but foreign exchange here held steady and the question of further gold exports next week is left open. The question of a withdrawal of government deposits from the banks during June to provide for the July 1st redemption of about $40,000,000 is per cent borids was also undecided by any announcement from the Treasury department. Some of the doubtful speculative tone was due to the contents of the mercantile reviews, pointing out a slow distribution of spring and summer goods and of more connervative operations for the fall and winter. Additions to the improved showing of next earnings for April were made in reports by the Union Pacific and the Louisville & Nashville. There was some covering by shorts after the appearance of the bank statement, but the resulting rallies were feeble and not well held.

CATTLE—There was little to be said about the cattle market today, as there were very few in the yards, as is usually the case on a Saturday. For the week there has been a very heavy falling off of receipts, amounting to almost one-half, as compared with the previous week. Moderate receipts have also been a feature of most other market points.

Light receipts of beef steers coming at the same time with the scarcity of cows has produced a decided shortage in the supply of available beef cattle. The result is that the market this week experienced a decided advance. Prices scared upward so rapidly that it was a difficult matter to keep track of it. Not only did the cattle sell higher, but the market was the cattle sell higher, but the market was Stockers and feeders have been in very light supply all the week, packers, owing to their inability to secure cow stuff, having been taking all the light and warmed up steers which, under different circumstances, would have gone as feeders, paying prices higher than feeders were willing to pay. Such cattle as have gone as feeders have generally sold logisc higher.

Shows a first state of the second state of the second state of four single decks of western shorn lambs. Three of these were bought by Armour yesterday for delivery today, the price being $5.00, the highest price paid for shorn lambs so far this year.

There is not very much to be said regarding the sheep and lamb trade this week excepting that receipts have been very light, showing a large falling off, as compared with a week ago, but about on a par with a year ago. Under the influence of decreased receipts and the very good demand prices have steadily firmed up, so that at the close of the week the market is fully so higher and in some cases lambs are possibly 40c higher than one week ago. This means that both sheep and lambs are now selling at the highest point of the year to date.

Prospects for the coming week indicate extremely light receipts, no one being left in tributary territory. A few scatters Proved Very Fortunate for Proved Very Fortunate for the Statesman.

Of Randolph's duel with Clay all the world has heard, but it is not generally known that the flery Virginian once sent a challenge to Daniel Wobster, and that the "Expounder of the Constitution" chose the path of peace-and safety. Early in the year of grace 1834 a committee of congress was appointed to investigate certain charges of official misconduct brought by an ex-senator from Hilinois, one Edwards against the secretary of the treasury, the Hon. William H. Crawford.

On the committee there were, among others, Randolph and Webster.

Before the committee had fairly got down to business Randolph sailed for England, and during his absence a majority of the committee brought in a report exonerating Crawford. In one of the preliminary discussions of the committee Webster was alleged to have said some things about Randolph that were anything but complimentary to his manly character, and when the highstrung Virginian got back to Washington in the spring of 1825 it was plain that States you have indulged yourself in liberties with my name (aspersing my veracity) which no gentleman can take who does not hold himself personally responsiblel for such insult.
