an opinion in the case he asserted that he would be able to lay this aside if selected as a juror.

Finley McBean, in the second chair, was born in Scotland and emigrated to Canada. He is 52 years old and owns a ten-acre farm five miles west of Boise. He is a republican, a powerfully built man, with sandy hair and mustache and ruddy complexion, giving evidence of years of hard work and exposure. McBean, in reply to questions as to opinion and prejudice, said that the more he read and heard about the case the less he knew.

Samuel D. Gilman is 57 years old and owns a ranch near Starr, in the southern portion of Ada county. In politics he is a republican and came to Idaho from Oregon. Gilman is a grizzled blonde and his rounded shoulders and stooped frame show that he has followed the plow the greater part of his life.

Youngest Man from Missouri.

Daniel Clark, a farmer and stock raiser 22 years old, is the youngest man in the jury. He was born in Missouri, but came to Idaho with his parents when he was 6 months old. He is reputed to be a man of considerable means and owner of a fine ranch. Clark stated that one time he had employed a law partner of his father in the settlement of an estate in which he was interested, but that before the partnership with Morah was formed. He is a democrat.

George Powell, the fifth juror in the front row, is a gray bearded farmer 60 years of age, a democrat, born in Kansas. He now owns a farm near Sheridan, where he has resided for the last fifteen years. Powell is somewhat deaf, but answered all questions satisfactorily. He is stooped and worn by years of toil, and takes a keen interest in everything.

W. Sebern, the juror who qualified after all the peremptory challenges had been exhausted, is 52 years old, and a farmer. He came to Idaho from Wyoming about a year and a half ago, and has been a democrat all his life. Sebern is fully six feet two inches tall, clean cut and prompt of speech, showing decision and action in every move. His face is strong and his eyes gray and piercing. In Wyoming he was engaged in the stock business, being employed by the Union Cattle company. He served on the jury that convicted Tom Horn, a notorious criminal, in Laramie.

H. F. Messerac, the first man on the left of the second row, was born in Canada fifty-two years ago. He, too, is a farmer and has lived in Ada county for sixteen years. Messerac is afflicted with a stutter, but has read much and is generally well informed. He is a republican. He is the smallest man on the jury. He is of lean frame. His farm is about twelve miles from Boise.

Les Schriener, an Ada county farmer, who came to Idaho from Kansas, is 60 years old and looks much younger. He is a republican and served a term as sheriff of his county in Kansas. He was born in Ohio, and stated in the course of his examination that he did not believe much in capital punishment. Except for the year he served as sheriff he always has been a farmer.

Quick-Witted Scotchman.

J. A. Robertson is the second Scotchman to be selected on the jury. He occupies the eighth chair. He, like McBean, was born in Scotland and is proud of it. He is 72 years old, but in no way, apparently, as a man of 60. Quick witted and alert, he caused more amusement in the course of his examination than any other man on the jury. He is a republican, and came from Illinois to Idaho. He was at one time a resident of Nebraska. He is a carpenter and has worked at that trade and as a blacksmith for the greater part of his life.

Levi D. Smith is a resident of Boise and is in the employ of one of the street railways of this city. He was at one time a farmer and afterward traveled for a western firm. Smith was born in Kansas and farmed in Michigan and South Dakota before coming to Idaho ten years ago.

A. P. Burns is by trade a carpenter, but at one time farmed in the Boise valley. He is 52 years old and a republican. Some years ago he engaged in the grocery business. He belonged to the carpenter's union and is the only member of the jury who has ever been a laborer under the law.

S. F. Russell, who was the first of the twelve jurymen selected and who has gone under the fire of twenty peremptory challenges unscathed, is a long-bearded man of imposing appearance and a rancher of prominence in the county. Politically he is opposed to Senator Borah and confessed himself. He also said that he is now a prohibitionist. He was born in Illinois sixty-eight years ago. Russell was at one time a justice of the peace in this county and is evidently a man in whom the people place considerable confidence.

Statement by Defense.

In a joint interview with Mr. Darrow and Mr. Richardson after the empanelling of the jury today, the following statement was made by them:

The Haywood jury is made up of eight republicans, three democrats and one prohibitionist. It consists of three farmers, one real estate agent, one building contractor and one member of the legislature on a railroad. There is no man on the jury who works for wages or who has ever belonged to a labor union, excepting Burns, who was a member of the carpenter's union fourteen years ago, who has ever been a student of trades unionism or the labor question. In the 200 odd jurors drawn not more than three trades unionists were picked in the panel and these were excused for conscientious objections to capital punishment and fixed mainly farmers, interspersed with a large number of bankers and some business men.

The jurors appear to be men of honest purposes, determined to give the defendant a fair trial, but it is uniformly made up of a class to which none of the defendants is related, and who have no natural kinship to labor organizations. In addition to this, they are drawn from a small county almost wholly agricultural, and each member for a year and he has read little about the case except what has been contained in the Boise daily papers, and these have uniformly been hostile to the defendants. Nearly all of them admitted that they had formed opinions and impressions from what they read and necessarily these must have been against the defendants.

Commenting on the jury, James H. Hawley, leading counsel for the state, said: "We are thoroughly satisfied with the jury. We have twelve fair-minded men, who will do even justice between the state and the defendant. They are all good citizens of Ada county and the state of Idaho. They are men, I believe, without the slightest prejudice, and we are willing to await their verdict with confidence after the evidence is all in."

Messrs. Darrow and Richardson issued a joint statement today asserting that at no time has there been any disagreement between them on any point in the case. The former announced in court this afternoon that Peter Breen, an attorney of Butte, has joined the defense, and Judge Wood directed that he be formally enrolled.

SUPREME ASPECT OF SALOON

Supreme Court of Indiana Rules on Two Important Points in Controversy.

A far-reaching decision on the liquor traffic was handed down by the Indiana state supreme court last week, that body declaring that the sale of intoxicants is lawful and therefore constitutional unless declared unlawful by the state itself. The court also affirmed the right of a city to limit the liquor traffic to prescribed districts, such as the business portion of the town.

The decision was rendered in the case of John W. Thompson vs. Green Castle, who established a saloon outside of the limits fixed by an ordinance of the city council. Thompson won his case in the lower court, but the decision was reversed by the supreme court and the right of the city to establish and maintain such boundaries was fully sustained.

Judge Artman of the Boone circuit court and two other circuit judges in Indiana have held recently that the state cannot license the liquor traffic to prescribed districts based on the assumption that the sale of intoxicants is inherently wrong and that the state has no power to authorize the commission of a wrongful act. In the decision today the court announces a contrary doctrine and affirms the legality of the sale of the liquor provided it is sold within the limits prescribed by the state, which is the sovereign authority. The decision says in part:

It is well settled that the several states in the exercise of their sovereign power have full authority, except as restricted by constitutional provision, to enact any laws which will suppress the traffic in intoxicating liquors, to regulate the temperature and minimize the evils resulting from the traffic in intoxicating liquors, whether by prohibiting the sale of such liquors, or in the absence of legislation, the business of selling intoxicating liquors, and to recognize as lawful, but there is no inherent right in the people to engage in the traffic in intoxicating liquors, or to remove it from the sphere of legislative control.

Statutes have been held valid prohibiting the sale, exchange or giving away of intoxicating liquors in houses of ill-fame, where houses or other places where women or minors are employed, or within a specified distance of an orphan or soldiers' home, a church, school or other institution of learning, a polling place or fair ground.

In the absence of constitutional inhibition it is competent for the legislature of a state to delegate to municipal corporations power to control and regulate the liquor traffic within prescribed territory. If prohibited districts are created at all their boundaries must be established somewhere, and it may well be that the situation of a city is such that the only practical and essentially fair way of doing so is to create a central district in which the traffic is to be sold.

No private right is unreasonably invaded by the ordinance in question, or that constitutional guaranty abridged. The ordinance is valid.

HYMENEAAL

Munn-Hull.

KEARNEY, Neb., June 3.—(Special Telegram.)—At 9:30 Sunday night Eleanor J. Hull and Dr. A. A. Munn were quietly married at the home of the bride's mother, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Hull, Rev. Nels C. Johnson officiating, only immediate relatives being present. The bride is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hull and is well known in the city among a large circle of friends. The groom is a popular young veterinarian and is assisting a veterinarian. The young people departed on a night train for Omaha for a few days' visit and as soon as Dr. Munn's duties will permit they will take an extended trip to Toronto, Canada, where his parents and relatives reside. They will make their home in this city.

RUSSIA OUTLINES ATTITUDE

U.S. Government Determines Its Action at The Hague Conference.

PROGRAM IS DRAWN BY DE MARTENS

It Opposes Discussion of Limitation of Armaments and Favors Definition of Rights and Duties of Neutrals.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 3.—Russia's attitude on the subject of the Hague conference is now beginning to take shape at a series of conferences between M. Nelidoff, first member of the Russian delegation, his associates and technical advisers, and officials of the Foreign office.

A series of propositions, mainly drafted by M. De Martens, the celebrated Russian expert on international law and second member of the delegation, furnishing a basis of discussion for the various points of the Russian program, have been considered and tentatively adopted. Whether these will be presented to the conference depends largely on the attitude of other delegations. Russia having no desire to dictate the course which the discussions shall take, and wishing to give precedence to the proposals of other powers whenever these are found satisfactory. Nevertheless, Russia has now definitely shaped its course on the various important questions to be presented.

In regard to the limitation of armaments, Russia maintains the position laid down in its note of March 16, 1906, and, with Austria and Germany, is frankly opposed to any discussion of this subject, which it still regards as a matter to be referred to the Hague conference. In its plans for the conference, the Russian government lays chief weight on the development of the scope and machinery of The Hague tribunal and the international commissions of investigation established by the first conference. The increasing number of cases referred to the Hague for settlement is ample reason, in Russian official eyes, for a wide enlargement of the functions of The Hague peace process.

Russia also regards it as highly desirable that the questions of maritime war and the rights and obligations of neutrals should be settled. Russia is anxious that the marine powers par excellence should participate heartily and with good will in this labor, and that England and Japan should not persist in their attitude of reserve toward the discussion.

Another question which Russia hopes will also result in international regulation, concerns the obligations of neutrals in supplying belligerents with coal and similar quasi munitions of war. This question was of acute interest during the Russo-Japanese war. Definite rules concerning the right of asylum in neutral ports are also desired.

Russia has as yet made no official announcement regarding its attitude toward the discussion of the Drago doctrine, proposed by the United States. But the appointment of M. Pronor, the Russian authority on this question, indicates Russia's willingness to participate in the discussion of this subject if other powers more vitally interested are willing to admit its inclusion in the program.

MEMORIAL FOR DAVIS

ing was put up by the city today. This was especially of Franklin street and Monument avenue, the line of march for the procession to the Davis monument.

Grand Military Parade.

The grand parade to the unveiling started at 11:30 o'clock. The military feature was in line on the parade on the first day of the reunion which was held at Cedar Rapids, Iowa. The parade was headed by General J. E. B. Stuart was unveiled, but there were far more veterans in gray in the line. They appeared to have been saving their strength for this event and although the walking was bad none who could walk at all were absent. The parade was headed by General J. E. B. Stuart, who had been made to command the strength of the old men, that Confederate veterans were formed in open rank within one mile of the statue, and the modern military organization marched through in review, to be followed by the veterans of the Civil War, the veterans of the Mexican War, the veterans of the Spanish War, and the veterans of the Philippine War. seals of the eleven states that seceded and the three others that sent representatives and troops. In the center of the space enclosed by the colonnade stands a large doric column over five feet in diameter. The column forms a background for the bronze figure of Mr. Davis, and also carries on its top an allegorical bronze figure whose right hand points to heaven and whose left, "Vindictrix" represents the whole spirit of the movement. The large column bears the seal of the confederacy in bronze and has the inscription: "Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederate States of America, 1862-1865."

The bronze figure of Mr. Davis stands on a great block of granite in front of the roadway. The president is represented in a standing position as though addressing an audience, with his right hand resting on the open book of history.

Around the molding is traced a noteworthy extract from Mr. Davis' farewell speech when he resigned from the United States senate on the secession of Mississippi: "Not in hostility to others, not in injury to any section of the country, not even for our own pecuniary benefit, but for the high and solemn motive of defending and protecting the rights we inherited, and which it is our duty to transmit unshorn to our children."

On the points of the colonnade stand bronze tablets, one to the navy and one to the army of the confederacy. The army tablet is inscribed: "From Sumter to Appomattox, four years of unflinching struggle against overwhelming odds."

The navy tablet is inscribed: "Giving new examples of heroism, teaching new methods of warfare, it carried the flag of the south to the most distant seas."

JOHN A. KASSON INJURED

Iowa Man Badly Hurt by a Fall in Washington.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—John A. Kasson of Iowa, famous as a diplomat and lawyer, fell here tonight and fractured his arm, and after being carried to his home was reported in a serious condition. He is 55 years old. Kasson is the former special reciprocity commissioner of this government, former member of congress, former member of the American Canadian joint high commission, and has held many other high offices and is a member of numerous clubs.

Pratt Will Plead Self-Defense.

IOWA CITY, Ia., June 3.—(Special.)—The preliminary hearing of Pratt, the self-confessed slayer of William Connell, will be held before Mayor Dall of this city on Friday of this week. Pratt will be bound over to await the action of the grand jury according to all present indications and the only effort of the defense will be to make such a showing as will entitle Pratt to bail during the summer. In case bail is refused Pratt will have to remain confined in the county jail until September at least. The excitement that followed the killing has cooled and there is little comment on the affair now. It is understood that Pratt will bear his whole case on the grounds of self-defense, alleging that Connell's actions immediately preceding the shooting were such as would put an ordinarily prudent man in fear for his life.

Iowa News Notes.

GLENWOOD—Mrs. E. J. Woodrow died at her home in Glenwood, aged 40 years, after an illness of two years. The funeral will be at Cedar Rapids today. Mrs. Woodrow was the founder of the Glenwood club, one of its incorporators and, in health, one of its most enthusiastic workers.

ATLANTIC—The Atlantic Young Men's Christian association has just closed its twelfth annual series of union meetings. The association is now starting a campaign for the purpose of raising $12,000 to build a new building here. The junior camp of the association will be held at Lewis some time this month.

IOWA FALLS—Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. William Hoeneke, who have been residing in Harlan county, will celebrate their golden wedding with a family reunion followed by a party at the home of Mr. Hoeneke in Iowa Falls and Harlan county are held. Fifty years ago tomorrow Mr. Hoeneke was born in Harlan county, Pennsylvania.

IOWA FALLS—The first of the memorial services for the late Senator John G. Nease was held by the local camp of the Modern Woodmen of America. Appropriate memorial services were held at the Baptist church, following which the members of the order, headed by the Iowa Falls branch, marched to the local cemetery where the graves of departed neighbors were decorated.

IOWA FALLS—Friends here are advised of the coming marriage at Columbus Junction Tuesday of Herbert H. Gee, formerly of this city but now of Cedar Rapids, to Miss Mabel Leacy of that place. Mr. Gee was formerly assistant cashier of the Home Savings bank in this city, but resigned a few months ago to accept a position with the Cedar Rapids National bank.

ATLANTIC—The Atlantic Canning factory will start a new department to their business this season, and has just put in forty acres of beans, with a view to trying the experiment of canning string beans this year. A new fire proof structure has just been erected and new machinery installed here. The factory also controls the factory at Shenandoah, Ia., and Fremont, Neb., and the bean feature will be extended to these two factories if it proves profitable here.

IOWA CITY—The hearing of evidence for submission to the Interstate Commerce commission in the case of the Iowa City Railway company, which is being conducted here Saturday evening, brought out many interesting facts with reference to the shipping facilities at Iowa City. The testimony of all witnesses was uniformly to the effect that since the building of the interurban between Iowa City and Cedar Rapids the Rock Island company has interfered with its treatment of shippers here. Farmers and stock raisers living on the line of interurban showed the loss occasioned them by driving their stock to Iowa City and being obliged to wait at the interurban until they could secure joint rates with any of the steam roads running out of Cedar Rapids for Chicago.

Heavy Damage from Waterstop.

LEXINGTON, Ky., June 3.—Reports received today indicate that the damage by a waterstop which proceeded from here about 5:00 p.m. in central and eastern Kentucky counties here, struck bridges, fences, and outbuildings and food crops washed away. All trains are delayed by landslides. Hiram Blair, a mail carrier, is missing in Nicholas county and is believed to have been drowned or killed by lightning in Bourbon county. John Crow and four others were struck by lightning and badly injured.
