VIEW OF COMMISSION MAN

He Says the Donlers Are Making This Fight in Behalf of the Farmer and Astor Them to Ald.

again this morning with an unaltered doadlock between the nackers and the commisthat early in the contest some speculating firms of the exchange sold a few cows, but the packers received very few from this source. One of the best arguments to the sincerity of the commission men in this fight was pointed out by one of their number a day or two ago is the fact that the commission men could easily stand aside and let the farmers and the shippers fight out the battle slone. It is nothing to the commission men financially. In fact the commission men lose all chance of a commission on cows and heifers. It would be more profitable to them to sell the stock for the shippers and the farmers as before The commission would be just as great under the present conditions of sale as before. "This all goes to show," said a commission man, "that we are trying to be square with the farmers and the shippers who patronize us. Single-handed the shipper has little chance on this market to anything with the packers other than to accept their terms without question or recourse. We have undertaken to make the fight for the shippers and if they do

Ashe Home is Robbed. J. B. Ashe, 1838 North Twenty-sixth street, reported to the police yesterday that his residence was entered by a burglar Saturday night. The intruder made his entrance by prying up one of the windows and on gaining the interior secured. $33 in cash and a gold watch. This apparently satisfied him, as nothing else was melested. The man is in all probability the same one who has committed a number of similar depredations in this city. He never takes anything but money or a watch. The police are greatly examperated over the actions of this man, and although they have a suspicion as to who it is that has been doing the work, they have no evidence that would warrant an arrest. The party
