Eighth Grade Graduation Exercises of St. Agnes' School.

OBJECTION TO GREEK LABOR

Local Labor Circles Do Not Like Rumored Importation of Men to Do the Work on the New Sewer System.

The eighth grade graduation of St. Agnes' school was held at the Ancient Order of United Workmen's temple last night before an audience which filled every seat and left many standing about the entries. The graduating class consisted of ten boys and eighteen girls. The hall was decorated in white and lavender. At the front were three pictures. The Christ, the Holy Mother and Theodore Roosevelt. At the right was hung a large flag of the union. The numbers of the program were extensive, but it can conscientiously be stated that every one of them, especially the musical ones, were brought to a high degree of perfection. Rev. Father James Ahern opened the exercises of the evening with a short address explanatory of the nature of the occasion and touching on the importance of higher education and the efforts and aims of the parochial schools. The eighth grade boys rendered in turn a short oration on "True Greatness," a selection from an original standard merit. The boys had their parts perfectly memorized and the majority of them spoke with clear understanding and emphasis.

The flower fantasia and song attracted considerable attention and awakened much applause. Each of the little girls bore a semi-circle of roses in lieu of a wand and the combinations of the drill gave a most pleasing effect. The bright colors of the flowers and the eager faces contrasted finely with the pure white in which all were clad. The harp selection by Miss Helen McCann was worthy of special mention. Miss McCann has an enviable reputation not only in South Omaha but in the larger city as well. Miss Ethel Byrne, the accompanist for most of the selections, rendered an operatic number in finest style. She is one of the graduates and received the honorary medal for progress in music.

One of the most taking numbers of the evening's entertainment was the pantomime, "Paradise of the Peri." It was participated in by the entire class and its excellence was due to the many hours of patient drill by the instructors of the school. "The Phantom Ship," by Miss Callahan, and the "Fall of Babylon," by Miss Margaret McCauly, showed mastery of detail. The following is the program in full: Moonlight on the Lake.....White True Greatness.....Eight Graduates. Flower Fantasia and song.....Eighth Grade Girls; Accompanist, Miss Lane. Str in Labor Circles. Some slight movement looking toward possible resentment among the labor organizations was manifest yesterday over the reported coming of 200 Greek laborers in South Omaha. The arrival is expected Sunday, June 23. The source of information does not positively state what work these men expect to do; but it is presumed they expect to work on the sewers. It is reported that six local unions have passed resolutions for the circulation of a petition to the mayor and council stipulating that only the adopted scale of wages and hours as provided for city labor shall be permitted on the sewers. The matter is likely to be before the Central Labor union at its next meeting, which convenes soon. It is not definitely known whether the mayor and council have any right to make such a requirement. It is further reported that a smaller colony of Greeks which came in several days ago, intended to leave town before going to work. There were not over sixty or eighty men in this group.

Canvass for Y. M. C. A. The committees that have the Young Men's Christian association building fund canvass in charge are now thoroughly organized, and have settled down to the work with the resolve to win. They realize that the slogan is a true one, and that in reality "everybody must wind the clock or blow the whistle" or the fund will not be raised. In other words every man, woman and child of South Omaha is to be offered an opportunity for pleading to the greatest philanthropic move the city of South Omaha has ever undertaken. The whistle blew but once yesterday. However, there is a fairly good sum turned in towards the ticking of today. All but big whistles in town blow now whenever a $500 pledge is secured. YOUNG GOLD MINE IN HOVEL. Ten Thousand Dollars Dug Out in Humble Quarters of Old Couple. Digging is still going on in the small Klondike found at the home of John Sweeney, Eighteenth and Mason streets. Sweeney and his aged wife live in a hovel and eat crusts, yet they are worth nearly $10,000 in gold. Last Monday the officers found $2,000 in their hovel and at that time the old people said they thought they had more somewhere, but had misplaced it. Thursday the officers found the misplaced money, which amounted to $7,500. It was found by Detectives Heitfeld and Devereux in the basement of the shack where the couple live. Mr. and Mrs. Sweeney were taken to the station with the money and there the gleaming yellow treasure, all in $20 gold pieces, was counted. Father Peter McLaughlin of St. Peter's Catholic church, was present when the money was counted. Friday he applied to the county court to have a guardian appointed for the aged couple. The money represents the savings of a lifetime, during which it is said great privations were endured in order that every penny earned by hard manual labor might be saved, converted into gold pieces and dropped into the jars in the cellar. General Godfrey will return to Fort Riley Friday evening, returning to Omaha about June 24.

MUSIC OF WORLD'S PEOPLE

N. K. Griggs Shows How it Reflects the Character of the Inhabitants. N. K. Griggs, the Burlington attorney who has sometimes been termed the post laureate, gave a lecture at the North Side Christian church Thursday night on "The National Music of Different Countries." Mr. Griggs spent two years on the continent, and spoke from personal acquaintance with the subject. He said: "The characteristics of a country are depicted, or reflected in its national music. The beautiful climate and scenery of Italy had been the inspiration of much immortal music, which reflects the temperament of the Italian people. The German music is full of minors which reflects the complexity of the national life. The Scotch music has few or no minors and few accidentals. Its simplicity is the personification of Scotch life. The scenery of Switzerland has inspired some beautiful airs that are so touching they are not allowed to be played in the army, as many a Swiss soldier has been known to have been so affected by homesickness from hearing them that he has laid down his gun and gone home. America is so young and is made up of so cosmopolitan a population that she has developed no national characteristics as such, and until she does she can have no national music."

FRED M. HANS IN TROUBLE

Former Detective Bound Over on Charge of Breaking Into Chicken House. Fred M. Hans, former detective for the Chicago & Northwestern railroad, who gained state-wide notoriety several years ago in a hard-fought case in Brown county in which he was charged with the murder of a man named Lucas, has been bound over to the district court on charge of breaking into a chicken house near Benson. It is also charged that Hans is responsible for a number of chicken thefts in the neighborhood of Benson. Six or seven years ago Hans was accounted one of the leading railroad detectives in the west, and great confidence was imposed in him by the Northwestern railroad officials under whom he worked. The killing of Lucas occurred twelve miles north of Atinsworth, and it attracted more than the usual interest. Hans claimed to have shot Lucas in self-defense, and asserted Lucas was stealing from the Northwestern railroad company, but friends of the latter asserted it was a deliberate murder. A charge of murder was filed against him, and at the first trial he was convicted and sentenced to a life term in the penitentiary. The Northwestern railroad officials, it is said, stood back of Hans, and the case was carried to the supreme court, where it was reversed. At the second trial he was acquitted. W. F. Gurley assisted in his defense in the second trial. At one time Hans had a commission from United States Marshal Matthews as deputy, without pay.
