of Famous California Resort.

A generation has passed since the packtrains were superseded by the stages as means of carrying tourists to the even them famous Yosemite valley. Thousands of en-thusiastic sightseers from all parts of the world have used the facilities thus provided. The dust and heat of the Ban Joaquin summer, the aridity of the plains and lower foothills, the joiting, which finds an ache for every muscle of the traveler not inured to staging-these were some times grievas a very remote possibility.

Use of the Telephone.

The latest annual report of the American Telephone company discloses some interesting facts. There are 7,107,836 telephones in operation in this sountry, or one for every ten or tweive persons. The average toll and exchange connections for last year was 5,445,000,000 or about sixty-four telephone calls for every man, woman and child in the United States.

Of course, very many calls are for pleasure or sociability, but the great majoritymore than half, probably-are for business purposes. A generation ago the thing was unknown. Today it is indispensable.

We may be open to all manner of exciting inferences from the amazing figures of the report, but in the last analysis it merely means that Americans love to talk.
