Compares Well with Last Year. A tabulation of figures arranged by General Secretary Wade shows that, compared with the progress of the campaign two years ago, the present canvass is proceeding in a most encouraging manner. Two years ago the citizen's committee secured only one subscription the first five or six days of the canvass. From June to July 8, day followed day with less than $1,000 from the citizen's committee. The campaign extended over a longer peried and with the exception of the last Part of Man's Marriage Suit is tures or tour days, the daily report of the citizen's committee was less than it has been any day of the present campaign. On the other hand the young men's campaigns is greatly in favor of the present campaign, which has been a matter

VICTIM IN DANGEROUS CONDITION

Woman Pushed Off a Porch Fifteen Feet from the Ground and Severe if Not Fatal Internal Injuries Result.

John Oshkaretis and John Pawlowski, two Polish characters, were arrested last night on a charge which may prove to be murder, depending on whether Mrs. Mary Charnafsky, who is lying in a precarious condition at the South Omaha hospital, recovers or not. Mrs. Charnafsky and her husband live at Thirty-eight and W streets. They nvited the two men to the residence Sunfay, June 23, where in the course of the afternoon they became quarrelsome. They and been drinking beer a little too freely, seemed. After they had created some listurbance, Mr. Charnafsky told them to e quiet or he would have to call an oficer. At length they became so nolay that ne started to leave the house for an oficer, when they attacked him on the porch came to the rescue as the men were struging on the porch and the two pushed her off the porch onto the ground. The fall was about fifteen feet, and as a result the woman received severe internal injuries, for the treatment of which she was taken to the South Omaha hospital. The two men were arrested on the charge of assault and outtery early in the week, before the nature of the injuries of the woman became apparent. Their trial was set for July 5 and they were released on $100 bonds.

Dr. Koutsky performed an operation on the woman yesterday, when it was discovered that the fall had torn the mesenteric organs, and particularly the large intestine n the region of the appendix. The operation was apparently successful, but there remains grave possibilities of complications. For this reason it was deemed best to rearrest the two men and hold them until the condition of the injured woman improved. It will require about four days to determine whether or not the woman will

DELICIOUS FRUIT MELANGE Simple Combination of Season's Fruit Easily Prepared and Cared For.

A jar of fruit melange should be in every fruit closet, and now is the time to start it, for strawberries are the foundation. All fruits can be used except oranges and bananas; unless the flavor of black raspberries is very much liked, very few of them should be used, as their strong flavor destroys all others. Use an earthenware jar; put into it a quart of strawberries and their weight of white sugar, and add a pint of alcohol. The jar is now ready for the different fruits and perries as they come into market, always adding an equal weight of sugar with each batch of fruit put in. Stone the cherries, peel the plums, shred the pines, dice the peaches and pulp the grapes. Add more alcohol as it becomes necessary, a pint is usually sufficient for every gallon of Fruit melange is a delicious capacity. preserve to serve with wafer's and chocolate when light refreshments are in order, and is the finest kind of sauce for boiled

PACKING LOAD FOR CAMPING Experienced Camper Gives Advice on What the Outfit Should Include.

All food should be purchased with an eye o compactness and portability. Two sixteen-foot canoes with five people, bedoing and tent, does not leave much room for food. Our provisions consisted of smoked roll, various canned foods in the form of soups, beans, tomatoes, fish and preserved fruits. Several boxes of sardines and potted ham come in useful for lunches where one does not wish to waste time in building a fire to cook. A word of caution about two articles in particular-coffee and chocolate. The first should be carried in an air-tight can, as good coffee is an essential. Chocolate should be carried because it is highly nutritious, compact, easily digested and almost a perfect food, as all globe trotters declare. Besides the canoes already described our outfit consisted of two army blankets apiece (packed in a canvas bag to keep them perfectly dry); two pairs of shoes each, one of canvas for use in the canon and one of heavy leather for land work. and gave him a severe beating. His wife Our tent was a 9x12 wedge tent, weighing ten pounds; this would be much too small for five people where the nights are warm. Our cooking utensils were primitive; one tin pail, one frying pan or spider and one "billy" or small bucket. The spider should have a very long handle. It is probably the most useful article in camp; in it one can boil, fry or bake, and I have seen it pollshed and used as a reflector behind a lantern when going out for deer in a cance at night.

Two axes were a part of the outfit; one a regular lumberman's ax, and the other a small hatchet. We also carried a couple of yards of canvas and a quarter of a sound of white pine pitch for possible repairs to the canoes; also a roll of adhesive plaster and a few small bandages for personal repairs. A lantern, waterproof matchbox, a line for towing canoes up the rapids, and a deck of cards are necessities; a good camera and good fishing tackle complete the outfit.

The cost of tents, fishing tackle, etc., varies with personal requirements. We had our own tents and blankets before: good ones can sometimes be obtained cheap from dealers in condemned army supplies.

We had no foreign element in the shape of a guide, his place being taken by a government map, which cost $1.

Owing to camp being placed where the breeze could strike it, we were troubled provide that if any employe of the yards very little by mosquitoes; in fact, there we noticed them much. If asked I would recommend from the middle of July to the See that the cance is light, not over sixty pounds, and that it does not draw more than two inches of water. If the canoeing is to be done in deep water a pair of light cedar paddles are best, but if a river trip consists of an inflammation, acute or chronic, of the bronchial tubes, producing a diseased condition of the mucous membrane. This treacherous and destructive disease is often primarily induced through contracting cold, or a series of colds, as a natural sequence following exposure when overheated, sudden climatic changes, getting wet, cooling of too suddenly, irritating vapors, or such other causes as materially weaken the general system. The bronchial tubes branch off from the trachea like a network and conduct the air to and from the lungs. They are very delicate and easily affected.

The starting point is frequently a severe cold, or repeated colds, producing an inflammation or diseased condition of the mucous membrane liming the nose or throat, commonly designated as a catarrhal condition. Poisonous secretions then accumulate which are not only abserbed, affecting the blood and nerves, but there is also a constant dripping of this polyonous substance from the mose to the throat, etc., hence it extends to the bronchial tubes, frequently producing Asthma, then into the lungs, causing acute lung disease, and finally into the lung tissue, terminating in consumption. Through neglect and inattention it gradually weakens the whole pulmonary system, making it very suseptible to disease as it seldom ceases in its destructive course until it has invaded the stomach, lives and kidneys, affecting the entire system. If the inflammation extends into the lungs, it is very apt to render them susceptible to the pnuemonic germ, tending to make the sufferer an easy prey to its ravages.

If the disease is allowed to progress until it has advanced to this stage the

to the pnuemonic germ, tending to make the sunterer an easy page.

If the disease is allowed to progress until it has advanced to this stage the sufferer then realizes that he is in the clutches of one of the most destructive diseases that pervades our land, spreading desolation. In its inciplent stage little pain or inconvenience is experienced, and the sufferer is lulled into a sense of false security, postponing treatment day after day and week after week, in the meantime allowing the disease to advance step by step until it has securely fastened its tentacles upon the system. If you are afflicted with this disease you should not defer treatment unnecessarily and possibly throw away your chances of obtaining a cure, but call and consult us in time, while you have health within your grasp. It is always better to be safe than sorry when one's health is concerned.
