CHOATE SPEAKS AT THE HAGUE American Defends Exemption of Private Property at Sea from Capture.

THE HAGUE, June 29 .- The sitting today of the first committee of the peace conference afforded an opportunity for Joseph H. Choate to deliver an eloquent speech upholding the exemption of private property, except contraband, from capture on the high seas. The success of his speech left the impression that the American proposition which in the conference of 1899 was only taken for consideration, this time will be approved unanimously. The sitting, which lasted two and a half hours, began with consideration of the following questions; First-Do practice and legislation admit of belligerent states transforming merchantmen into warships?

Second-In the case of merchantmen being transformed into warships, what are the legal conditions which belligerents will have to observe?

Third-Is the present practice relating to way of paper weights, and he has a nice the capture and confiscation of merchantmen sailing under a hostile flag to be Count Tornielli, Italian, and Sir Edward Fry, British, observed that the principle in the first question was generally admitted and thus it was only necessary to define conditions for the transformation of merchantmen. Admiral Roell, Holland, recalled the declaration made in 1898 by the Dutch government on the occasion of the Spanish-American war exactly defining these conditions and suggested that it might serve as a model. Then began the debate on the exemption of private property at sea. Baron Macchio, Austria, supported the American proposition. He was followed by Senor Darbosa of Brazil, and Mr. Choute.
