Omaha, 2; Lincoln, 6, War Sanders was very much in evience at Vinten street park Tuesday aftarnoon, when he pitched a shutout game against Lincoln and made the hit himself which brought in the one run that was enough to win the game, the final core being 2 to 0. The two southpaws, Eackert and Sanders, fought it out with their sidewheel delivery and Sanders had a little the bettar of the deal, although he hit two men w He was hit safely but five times to seven against Zackert, and ach passed one man. Time and again Sanders pitched himself out of a tight teast a shutout. Zackert is the lengthy individual who prolonged the game in the dust storm Sunday afternoon, when 6,000 people were given a dust bath. He is the her who Sunday afternoon, when 6,000 people were given a dust bath. He is the boy who was taken out of the game before the score was against him and is therefore not credited with a lost game, the game being charged to McKay, who took con-trol of affairs when Lincoln was ahead. Anyhow, it was the same Zackert, and from the starf he made it look like he might be soing to do things to Omnha might be going to do things to Omaha gama, might be going to do things to Omnha to repay for the treatment he received the other day. The first three men to face him, Helden, Francic and Autrey, were struck out fust like they were were struck out just like they were wooden tenplas. His second inning was just as good, but the third showed he was no devil, for Belden and Franck, who had struck out the first time around, each made a single after two were out. No good came of them, because Autrey flew out to Ketchem. Sanders Really Wins It. The game was really won in the fifth were struck out just like they were

The game was really won in the fifth, Inning, when Austin was presented with s pass (for all the Hepburn law is in efect) and stole second. Gonding tried to sacrifice him on, but Austin was caught at third, which left Gonding on first, with one out. Sanders came to bat and looked into the grand stand at his wife as much is to ask her if he should do it. She nodded and Sanders evidently understood, for he hit the second ball pitched a reounding thud which carried it toward Ketchem. The fleet-footed one did not try to catch the ball, but was contented to get it on the bound. He would have needed a lengthy ladder to have reached so high did it soar over his head on the bound it took. Before Ketch could run it down Gonding had scored and Sanders was on second. That was the first. The second came in the seventh in such simple manner when a team can hit the ball. Graham hit for a single, pur-Granville, Hupp, lf. loined second and sprinted for home when Hi Gonding hit a single pop over second. It Newlin, p........ all so simple when you know how.

Lincoln missed out an several chances to score. In the second Sullivan singled, to score. In the second Sullivan singled, went to second on Ketcham's single, but neither Fox nor Ducky could bring him home.
